SENATE TO CALL KELLOGG ON FOREIGN RELATIONS

Borah and Colleagues Will Question Secretary About Nicaragua and Red Scare Story.

SESSION PROBABLY WILL BE IN PRIVATE

Set for Some Time This Week, and Olds May Be Asked About "Bolshevist Hegemony."

By CHARLES G. ROSS.
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, headed by Senator Borah of Idaho, decided this morning to ask Secretary of State Kellogg to come before it and make an exhaustive statement regarding the relations of the United States with Mexico and with the current trouble in Nicaragua.

Kellogg, according to the announcement by committee members, will be asked not only to explain American policy in all its details but will be confronted with the charges by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and other newspapers that the State Department has sought to create ill will against Mexico by "inspiring" stories of alleged bolshevist activity by the Calles Government of Mexico in Central America.

Kellogg denied this week, in response to a series of questions by Representative La Guardia (Rep.) of New York that the department had engaged in propaganda of this character. His reply to La Guardia was a simple negative. The Senate committee will give him full opportunity to amplify and explain his denial.

Session Likely to Be Closed.

Unless the Secretary expresses a willingness to be heard in public his appearance before the committee will be in closed session. Borah said that he hoped to be able to arrange the meeting for this week. Borah thought that the statement from the Secretary would consume three or four hours. He indicated that the committee desired a comprehensive review of the whole Latin-American situation, and that committee members would have a considerable number of questions.

Whether open hearings on Mexico and Nicaragua would later be held, Borah said, would depend on the attitude of the committee after hearing the Kellogg statement.

The question of summoning the three press association men to whom Assistant Secretary of State Olds, as was disclosed by the Post-Dispatch, gave the department's story of a "bolshevist hegemony" fostered by Mexico in Central America, was not before the Foreign Relations Committee this morning. This question, according to Borah, is one of those to be considered after the committee has heard Kellogg.

Though no public statement has been made by the three press association men since the Kellogg denial, at least two of them are known to resent the department's disowning of the conference that they held with Olds, and to feel that this action will warrant them in telling their side of the story if they are officially summoned to do so.

Monroe Doctrine Not Involved.

Borah said today that the Monroe Doctrine has no relation either to the situation in Nicaragua or the trouble in Mexico. The question of applicability of the Monroe Doctrine was discussed among other things at the meeting of the committee.

"The propaganda being put out that the Monroe Doctrine has some application to the Nicaraguan and Mexican situations has no foundation in fact," Borah said. "The Monroe Doctrine has no relation to the questions involved. No European Government, no non-American Government, is interfering in Nicaragua or Mexico or professing to do so.

"In Nicaragua the revolution is being carried on by those who claim that Sacasa is the constitutional President, and is purely an internal affair.

"In Mexico it is a question of title to oil. The British oil interests or companies seem willing to comply with the Mexican laws. Under no conceivable theory can the Monroe Doctrine have any application."

GIRL WHO KILLED BETRAYER PLEADS GUILTY, BUT GOES FREE

Judge Suspends Sentence on Mrs. Denino as Victim of "Unfortunate Parental Influence."

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Because the Court considered her the victim of "unfortunate parental influence," Mrs. Catherine Denino, girl-wife and mother, of Evanston, Ill., who had pleaded guilty to a charge of manslaughter in killing Louis Fino, whom she said had betrayed her, received a suspended sentence today.

Mrs. Denino, who is 16 years old, was arrested Nov. 13 standing over the body of Fino in a barber shop with a pistol in her hand.

The girl wife said that when she was 12 years old Fino, who was 34, betrayed her. She became a mother and later married Rocco Denino of Evanston and went there to live.

Fino, she said, attempted to blackmail her, holding over her threats to tell Denino of their former relationship. He finally did write the husband and Denino renounced his wife.

The girl said she came to New York and trailed Fino until she came upon him in the barber shop, where she shot him down.

After her arrest Denino came here and became reconciled with his wife.

Harry K. Thaw of Pittsburg contributed money for the girl's defense.

MUSSOLINI BARS DANCING AT ALL CABARETS IN ITALY

Two of the Three in Rome Close When "Taming" of Night Amusement Is Begun.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Jan. 5.—Cabarets, night clubs and all similar amusement places throughout Italy are being "tamed" by order of the authorities, giving rise to stories of possible complete closing of the resorts, in line with Premier Mussolini's plan to make this year one of intense labor.

Cabarets may remain open from 10 p. m. until 2 a. m. Jazz bands may play and performers may sing, but not a single performer or visitor may dance. Two of Rome's three cabarets have closed as a result.

RISBERG FACES BALLPLAYERS AND REPEATS CHARGES

Former Chicagoan Appears Before Landis After Failing to Arrive at Earlier Hour Set for Investigation

MANY STARS WAIT FOR THE HEARING

Witness Says Rowland, Chicago Manager, Told Him 1917 Contest With Detroit Was Arranged.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—"Swede" Risberg, accuser of the White Sox and Tigers in a "bought" series in 1917, appeared to face the involved players in a dramatic hearing before Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis this afternoon.

Risberg appeared at 1:45 after failing to come in at 10 o'clock, when the hearing was to have started. It was postponed until this afternoon, when Risberg, in a mysterious telephone call to the commissioner, said he could not appear at the appointed time.

Ty Cobb was the first to come in as Risberg arrived and took a seat at the left of the commissioner's desk. Ray Schalk, Eddie Collins, Howard Ehmke, Oscar Stanage, George Dauss, Donie Bush, Clarence Rowland and Bennie Dyer were called by Landis and edged into the commissioner's office, crowded to the rim of his desk.

"Mr. Risberg," said Landis, "you made a statement here New Year's afternoon. Will you repeat that statement."

Then Risberg began:

Says Rowland Told of "Fixing."

"In 1917 we were playing Detroit, Sept. 2, and I was informed by Mr. Clarence Rowland that everything was all fixed and we won four ball games from Detroit.

"About two weeks later, in the Ansonia Hotel, Chick Gandil and I collected $45 apiece from the boys for the Detroit team.

"Rowland gave us permission to go to Philadelphia and there we gave the money we had collected to Bill James. James said he would give Howard (meaning Ehmke) his share.

"What was the first thing you heard about this?" asked Landis.

"We were down in the dugout the morning of the first game," Risberg said, "and Rowland said to me 'Everything is all fixed.'"

"Nothing was said at that time about money was there?" asked Landis. "No, there wasn't," said Risberg.

"Can you tell me how the talk about money started?" asked Landis. "No, I can't," Risberg replied.

"Who collected money besides you?" asked the commissioner. "Chick Gandil," Risberg said.

"During that first game did anybody say anything to you about 'soliughing' games?" asked Landis.

"No, the only thing that I remember that was in the afternoon game, Eddie Collins said when Bennie Dyer, Detroit shortstop, booted a ball, 'That's terrible.'"

Silence on His Arrival.

When Risberg came into the room, there was a moment of suspended silence as his eyes swept the crowd, picking out Clarence Rowland, Ray Schalk and others of the men he accused. Without making any explanation of his failure to appear this morning, Risberg plunged into a dramatic recital of his story.

While he was telling his story, Rowland, Eddie Collins and Ray Schalk, Sox players; Donie Bush, George Dauss, Ben Dyer, Oscar Stanage and other Tifers of 1917 sat directly opposite him almost close enough to shake hands with him.

The former White Sox shortstop th antold of collecting $45 from each of the Sox players in New York to make up the $1100 pool for the Tigers.

"Willie Mitchell pitched that first game," Landis said. "Do you remember anything about Mitchell's pitching that day?" "No sir."

The commissioner drew from Risberg the statement that he understood Rowland's remark as meaning that the Detroit pitchers were not trying very hard.

"I know when I was at bat once," said Risberg, "I got a pitch which didn't have much on it. The ball didn't go past me."

"Did any of the other Sox players say anything about Mitchell's work?" asked Landis. "I don't remember that they did."

"Cunningham squeezed into the office. The box score of the afternoon game was du gup to refresh Risberg's recollection. "The official

15-YEAR-OLD GIRL WORTH $53,000,000, INVENTORY SHOWS

J. B. Duke's Daughter Probably the Wealthiest in World of Her Age.

By the Associated Press.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Jan. 5.—Fifteen-year-old Doris Duke, probably the wealthiest girl of her age in the world, is worth $53,451,069, it is shown in an accounting of the estate of her father, James Buchanan Duke, tobacco magnate. She began riding in a $250 baby carriage and now has a $35,000 Pullman car, three automobiles and a stable of thoroughbreds.

It cost $6000 to furnish her boudoir in her New York town house. She also owns a place in Newport and a 2000-acre country estate near Somerville.

KING AND COOLIDGE WON'T OPEN TRANS-ATLANTIC PHONE

New York-London Service to Be Inaugurated Friday by Lesser Lights.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Jan. 5.—The British public is awaiting with great curiosity Friday's opening of the trans-atlantic radiophone service, although few hope to test its possibilities personally owing to the $25-a-minute rate.

Hopes that King George and President Coolidge would inaugurate the service have been given up. Lesser lights will officiate. The service will begin at 1:30 p. m., London time, or 8:30 a. m., New York time, Friday (7:30 a. m., St. Louis time).

The Postmaster-General also has announced that the new Anglo-German telephone cables are complete and that communication between England and Germany thereby is available. Direct circuits are provided to Berlin, Hamburg, Bremen, Cologne, Frankfort and Duesseldorf.

It is said that by April, using these lines to London, the whole of Central Europe will be able to talk with New York.

PAN-AMERICAN FLIGHT DELAYED AGAIN WHEN PLANE FALLS

Commander and Pilot on Flagship Suffer Injuries to Hands in Forced Landing.

By the Associated Press.

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala, Jan. 5.—The good will Pan-American flight of the American army was temporarily halted again today when the New York, flagship of the American Army argosy, made a forced landing on the Aurora flying field soon after the aviators had hopped off for San Salvador.

Maj. Herbert A. Dargue, flight commander, and his relief pilot, Lieut. Ennis C. Whitehead, were unhurt, except for slight injuries to their hands, but the plane was damaged. The four other planes returned immedjately to the flying field. It is expected that a week or two will be required for necessary repairs to the New York.

BEVERAGE PLANT PADLOCKED

Its Product Was Being Transformed Into Real Beer.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—An injunction, said to establish a precedent closing a near-beer manufactory because of allegations that its product was being transformed into real beer, has been granted by Federal Judge J. M. Wilkerson.

The plant, valued at $350,000, is owned by the Archer Products Co. Its product is known as "beer wort," which while non-alcoholic, can according to the testimony, be quickly made into beer with an illegal kick.

GOV. AL SMITH COINS A PHRASE

Has "Kathleen Mavourneen's" Chance of Leaving State.

By the Associated Press.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 5.—Gov. Smith today declined an invitation to make an address in Altoona, Pa. He said he had "Kathleen Mavourneen's chance of going outside the State to speak," quoting from the song: "It may be for years, it may be forever."

The Governor explained that in his inaugural address he had said he would do nothing to win the presidential nomination except to continue at work in Albany.

GOV. FERGUSON PARDONS 32

By the Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 5.—Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson is issuing pardons at the rate of almost 25 a day as her term as the State's first woman Governor draws to a close. She added 32 clemency proclamations to her list today, bringing the record up to 3037. Twenty-five were full pardons.

Lady Godiva's Town to Be Sold.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Jan. 5.—The old home town of Lady Godiva, Saxon beauty, who, according to legend, rode through the streets of Coventry clad only in a wealth of unbobbed hair, to relieve the villagers of a burdensome tax, is to be sold at public auction this month. The village is King's Bromley, half way between Rugeley and Litchfield, Warwickshire. The sale marks the passing of another of the ancient landed estates of England.

$170,000 OF FRAUDULENT PAPER REPORTED BY RECEIVER FOR FIRM OF E. W. GRANT, MISSING REALTY MAN

CONFESSES $2170 SHORTAGE; LOSERS WON'T PROSECUTE

Richard J. Broaders Jr., Collector for Father Who Is Realty Agent, Surrenders to Police.

Richard J. Broaders Jr., 22 years old, collector for his father, who is a real estate agent, yesterday walked into police headquarters and announced that he was short $2170.33 in his accounts. He had collected the money as rents on property intrusted to his father as agent by 13 different persons, and had lost the money betting on horse races, he said. Most of the money, he said, he lost at the Fairmount Race Track last fall.

To show his good faith, he surrendered cash, checks and a bank book with a total value of $763, and supplied a list of persons he said had lost sums ranging from $16 to $431 by his gambling.

While Broaders waited in the holdover, police canvassed six of the 13 persons listed and found no one who cared to prosecute. One of them, Alfred J. Carr of Carr Bros. Insurance Co., Rialto Building, came to headquarters, talked to the young man and then signed his bond for $800.

Young Broaders, who lives at 1812 North Newstead avenue, with his wife and small daughter, could not be reached today.

Carr explained today that the elder Broaders, who lives at 4034 Lincoln avenue, has been ill some time and that the son has been handling his affairs. He understood, he said, that according to the law the only person who could complain of embezzlement was the father, and that the only recourse of the 13 losers would be civil suits against the father.

Carr and his brother, Charles Y. Carr, who were listed by the young man as having been defrauded of $586, would accept whatever compromise is offered, Carr said. He signed the bond, he explained, because he had known the father for many years and felt that the son was acting in good faith.

ONE OF SIX MEN WHO ESCAPED FROM CLAYTON JAIL CAPTURED

Louis Glassman, Who Admitted 107 Burglaries, Arrested in Springfield, Ill.

The statement attributed to Louis Glassman, 21 years old, self-confessed participant in 107 burglaries and now under arrest at Springfield, Ill., following his escape with six other men from Clayton jail, Dec. 7, that he had made two trips to St. Louis "to get a guy" is under investigation by St. Louis County officers.

A Deputy Sheriff will be sent to Springfield to identify Glassman and return him to jail at Clayton. At the time of his escape he was serving a one-year sentence for carrying concealed weapons.

Springfield police reported today that Glassman, who was using the alias "Louis O'Toole, Chicago" when arrested there, has confessed to several burglaries in Springfield. He is reported to have dscribed a flight from Clayton to St. Louis, thence to Chicago and Quincy, Ill., and then to Springfield.

PARKWAY FOR OLIVE STREET ABANDONED

Bill Providing for Street Car Loading Platforms to Be Substituted.

The proposal for a neutral strip for the car tracks in widened Olive street, between Twelfth boulevard and Channing avenue, was killed by the Streets and Sewers Committee of the Board of Aldermen today. It voted unanimously to file the bill, and to recommend a substitute to the board at next Friday's meeting, calling for safety loading platforms for trolleys at every third block, with safety islands for pedestrians at intervening blocks.

Director of Streets and Sewers Brooks, who sponsored the neutral strip plan announced withdrawal of his opposition to the change and said he would try to have the paving started soon, possibly for completion this year. Work of removing the buildings for 40 feet on the south side of the street, for the widening, is well under way now.

The trolley loading platform idea is approved by Director Brooks and the United Railways. Platforms similar to those now used in Union boulevard near Soldan High School are suggested. This system would mean introduction of the skip-stop for street cars, facilitating their movement and causing some passengers in this section to walk one block either east or west to a car stop. It might be necessary to gain approval of the State Public Service Commission for these stops, which would be 1000 to 1200 feet apart.

A visit of the aldermanic committee to New Orleans recently convinced the members the neutral strip plan would not work with the roadways of the 26½-foot width proposed.

INJURED MAN REVIVED AFTER HEART HAD STOPPED BEATING

Brooklyn Carpenter Still Alive Following Artificial Respiration and Skull Operation.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Revived after his heart had stopped beating, David Newburgh, 47 years old, a Brooklyn carpenter, continues alive in Flushing Hospital in critical condition.

Newburg was handing planks from a first floor to men on the second when a plank slipped, striking him on the head and fracturing his skull.

Just as the ambulance arrived at the hospital Dr. Rosenborough saw that the patient's heart had stopped beating. Newburgh was hurried into the operating room and artificial respiration finally started the heart pumping again. Surgeons then removed about two square inches of the skull where it was pressing on the brain.

$400,000 LOSS BY IRREGULAR TITLE RELEASES IS ALSO FEARED

W. H. Holme Put in Charge of the Wagner-Grant-Bell Co. on First of Two Receivership Suits.

GRAND JURY INQUIRY WILL BE REQUESTED

Wagner Blames Absent Partner — Clients Filing Suit Allege $115,000 Loss by Misrepresentation.

"Spurious and fraudulent paper to an amount in the neighborhood of $170,000" is held by creditors of the Wagner-Grant-Bell Realty Co., it is charged by Wilfred H. Holme, temporary receiver, in a memorandum filed by him in Circuit Court this afternoon. Edward W. Grant, 26 years old, secretary-treasurer of the company, has been missing for four days.

At the same time, charges of irregular releases of deeds of trust were developing from examination of the County Recorder's records at Clayton. James M. Rohan, president of the St. Louis County Land Title Co., said it appeared to him that the loss of Wagner-Grant-Bell clients, by the releases, might amount to $400,000.

A grand jury investigation, probably in the county, will be asked, while the receiver is conducting an audit of the books of the meteoric family concern, which has conducted large building operations on a financial "shoestring."

Holme, vice president and secretary of the Halle & Holme Realty Co., was appointed by Circuit Judge Hall, on the first of two receivership petitions filed this morning. He furnished $25,000 bond. One of his first official acts was to file a petition objecting to the naming of another receiver, under the second suit. In that petition he made the estimate of $170,000 spurious and fraudulent paper.

Other estimates made by lawyers interested in the case ran to and more than $500,000, as covering the loss of creditors and clients of Wagner-Grant-Bell.

Receiver to Make Audit.

The receiver said a complete audit would be made, and that the elaborately furnished office at 714 Chestnut street, formerly the banking room of the Industrial Loan Co., would remain open. The office was legally closed, so far as disposal of the company's assets is concerned, by the serving of an injunction on the company.

Grant, the missing secretary-treasurer, is believed to have gone to Chicago after having excused himself from his mothers home, 6211 McPherson avenue, saying he was going to make New Year's calls. His two business associates, who are his brothers-in-law, say he handled the deeds of trust and other financial matters of the company.

Charges of Fraud.

"Fraudulent, deceiving and misleading representations," as to deeds of trust sold to two clients of the company, are charged in the receivership suit, in which Leon Marglous and Harry Rubin are petitioners. Their attorney, Carl Dubinsky, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that Marglous had invested $85,000, and Rubin $40,000, in 19 documents represented to them as second deeds of trust, but that his examination had shown only one of the deeds to be good, the remainder being third or fourth deeds, on property the value of which is largely covered by first and second deeds and by mechanics' liens, all having a precedence of the third and fourth deeds.

The one deed found to be good is held by Marglous, and is for $10,000. Most of the remaining $75,000 of Marglous' investment,

DOG HELPS SAVE THREE PERSONS FROM GAS

Animal Dies After Moans Attract Attention to Escaping Fumes.

Philip Brewer, 40 years old, his wife, Mamie, 43, and their daughter, Pearl, 7, were overcome by escaping gas at their home, 417 South Second street, last midnight. A pet shepherd pup, which helped to save their lives, is dead.

Brewer, a truck driver, went to bed, while his wife and daughter visited another daughter, Mrs. Laura Griffith, 18, of 1323 North Market street, and her day-old child, at city hospital.

Upon their return home, Mrs. Brewer and Pearl went to bed. But Mrs. Brewer smelled gas and noticed "Shep," the pup, was moaning as if sick. She tried to rouse her husband and daughter, but they did not respond. Then she staggered into the yard and fell. Reviving, she called police, and she, her husband and daughter were removed to city hospital. "Shep" had been asphyxiated.

The Brewers will recover and leave the hospital soon.

Police reported the gas evidently had escaped from a rusty pipe running from the street main to a vacant store in front of the Brewer home. The Brewers do not use gas.

ADMIRAL LATIMER SENDS U. S. FORCE INTO NICARAGUAN CAPITAL AS GUARD

State Department Says British and Italian Charges at Managua Asked for Protection.

ADVANCE ANSWERS MOVE FOR RETREAT

One Hundred and Sixty Marines and Sailors Land at Corinto and Board Train.

By the Associated Press.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 5.—A force of 160 sailors and marines today disembarked from the U. S. S. Galveston at Corinto and began entraining for Managua to guard the United States legation and to protect American lives and property.

Managua, which is the capital of Nicaragua and the seat of the Conservative Government of President Adolfo Diaz, has taken on a holiday atmosphere since learning of the expected arrival of the American force. The State Department at Washington has granted President Diaz a permit to purchase 1000 rifles, 160 machine guns and several million rounds of ammunition in the United States.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—In announcing today that a United States marine guard had been ordered to Managua, capital of Nicaragua, the State Department disclosed that British and Italian diplomatic representatives there had requested protection for their nationals.

Decision to send them was reached yesterday, and observers took the decision as a definite answer to rumors current for several days that the administration was contemplating withdrawal of its naval forces from the Central American republic.

State Department Announcement.

A State Department announcement telling of the request of the British and Italian representatives said:

"The Department of State has been informed by the American Minister at Managua that the British and Italian Charges d'Affaires have made representations to him that they consider their subjects in imminent peril in the present situation without outside protection and that he concurs in these views which represent the consensus of opinion there among the Americans and other foreigners."

The movement of marines follows an announcement yesterday at the White House that President Coolidge was solicitous not only to protect the lives and property of Americans engaged in commercial enterprises in Nicaragua, but also to safeguard rights granted the United States under its treaty with Nicaragua providing for American rights in perpetuity for construction of an inter-oceanic canal and for establishment of American naval bases in Nicaragua to protect both the Panama Canal and the Nicaraguan Canal route.

Needed to Avert Anarchy.

At the same time officials of the Diaz Government, which has been recognized by the United States, were quoted as saying that the move would save the republic from anarchy.

The State Department made no mention of specific peril to foreigners in Managua, or of the movement of Liberal troops toward the capital.

Coincident with the announcement of the landing of the additional marines, the Pan-American Federation of Labor issued a statement declaring Secretary of State Kellogg had committed an error when he recognized the Government of President Diaz which is opposed by the Liberals headed by Dr. Juan B. Sacasa. Sacasa has been recognized by Mexico.

The American recognition, the statement said, "has caused unnecessary ill feeling against the moral prestige of the democratic American institutions all over the world" because it was "useless, unjust and inimical to the people" of both countries.

La Guardia Accepts Denial.

Representative La Guardia who introduced the House resolutions requesting Secretary Kellogg to give the facts behind the news story charging that bolshevist and anti-American propaganda was being fostered in Central America by the Mexican Government, said last night that through force of circumstances, he was obliged to accept Secretary of State Kellogg's declaration that the State Department had not "inspired" the story.

"My resolution was so phrased that only a 'yes' or 'no' answer would suffice," La Guardia said. "Mr. Kellogg answered 'no,' on the first two questions, which were whether any State Department official had asked the press associations to carry such a story and whether an effort was made to keep secret the source of information. He is the Secretary of State, and for the present, I must accept his answer. I shall continue my investigation and I hope to obtain proof to the contrary which I can make public."

La Guardia said that it was significant that Kellogg had refused to answer the question whether the Department had accurate information on bolshevist activities in Central America and on Mexico's attitude and actions.

State Department Will Allow Export of Arms to Diaz.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5. — The State Department has notified the Diaz Government in Nicaragua that it will permit exportation from the United States of arms and war munitions to be purchased in this country by that Government.

score that day shows Cunningham went clear through that game," said Landis.

"Do you recall anything about Cunningham's work while you were up to bat, he wasn't bearing down or was easing up?" asked Landis. "I don't recall anything about the pitching of that game," replied Risberg. "There were lots of stolen bases."

Talk Two Weeks Later.

"Do you remember any talk among the Sox players about 'sloughing' that series?" "No, I don't recall any talk now," said Risberg, "until we got to the Ansonia Hotel (in New York(about two weeks later."

"When you played in those four games," asked Landis, "did you know you were playing in fixed games?" "Yes, sir," replied Risberg.

The commissioner pressed Risberg for further details about Collins' remark on Dyer's play and drew the assertion that Risberg understood Collins to mean Dyer's misplay was "intentionally terrible."

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Jan. 5. — When Charles ("Swede") Risberg telephoned to Baseball Commissioner Landis this morning that he would be unable to arrive before 1:30 p. m. at the hearing scheduled for 10 a. m. at which the former White Sox shortstop was to face the men he had accused of buying and selling a series in 1917, the hearing was postponed until the later hour.

Commissioner Landis was in his office at 122 South Michigan boulevard. Twenty-six baseball men who figured in the 1917 series between Detroit and Chicago were in the room or on their way there and scores of newspaper men had gathered for the investigation.

"Someone called me by the telephone this morning, gentlemen," Landis announced. "He said, 'This is Risberg. I won't be able to get there until 1:30,' and hung up. We will wait until 15 minutes after 10, and if he has not shown up, we will adjourn until 1:30. Risberg must be here when we start this business."

Face Shows the Strain.

The high commissioner of baseball appeared to be the only man at all nervous. He chewed gum rapidly and his face showed the effect of the strain of the last few days, during which the great game of baseball has been dragged from gutter to sewer.

Hundreds of baseball fans surged around the entrance to the People's Gas Building, in which are the baseball offices, eager to see the men whose names have figured in the latest scandal.

Ty Cobb, the greatest baseball star of all time, who resigned under pressure because of an ugly story told by Hubert (Dutch) Leonard about a "fixed" baseball game in 1919, was treated like a conquering hero when he appeared at the entrance. He was surrounded and camera men climbed to the tops of trucks parked nearby to get pictures of the former Detroit star. Moving picture men cranked their machines while helpers cleared aisles in the throng so a "shot" could be had of Tyrus the Great. Cobb smiled bravely and showed his appreciation of the reception, but the old self-confidence that always shone from Ty's face in the past was missing. It is a sorry mess and the bravest smiles can't conceal that fact.

Schalk Admits Contributing.

Ray Schalk, the new manager of the Chicago White Sox, who was a star catcher with the team during the series of 1917 and 1919, mentioned by Risberg and Leonard, was an early arrival at Landis' office. He has admitted contributing $45 to a fund collected from Chicago players and paid to Detroit players, but Schalk insists the money was paid because of Detroit victories over Boston, whereas Risberg's story is that the money was collected and paid because Detroit "sloughed," or threw a series to Chicago.

Clarence Rowland, manager of the White Sox at the time the questionable series was played and named by Risberg as instigator of the movement to collect the money, arrived with Schalk. He denies any knowledge of the fund, though men familiar with baseball and the ways of baseball players, wonder how $45 could be collected from players without their manager noting the pain and hearing the moans.

Dave Danforth, with the White Sox in 1917 and later with the St. Louis Browns, denied this morning that he had ever contributed to any fund for any purpose.

"I never gave a dime to no charity even," Danforth declared. "I remember everybody thought ballplayers was millionaires in those days and every day somebody would come into the clubhouse and ask for a collection for gifts and such. I made it a rule never to give nothing to nobody and I find it is a good rule. You can't go wrong much on that policy. I don't say there never was such a fund for the Detroit team, but I know I never contributed a dime to it."

Won't Pay Felsch $1000.

Commissioner Landis was asked this morning if he contemplated making any efforts to get the story of Oscar (Happy) Felsch, a member of the Black Sox of 1919.

"Certainly, I have wired him, summoned him," the commissioner replied.

"Have you considered paying him the $1000 he demanded?"

"We won't get evidence in that way," the commissioner snapped back.

The men who were ready to confront Risberg today included the following: Cobb, Schalk, Rowland, Danforth, Harry Heilmann, George Harper, Eddie Murphy, Ted Jourdan, Nemo Leibold, Allen Russell, Ed Walsh Dick Kerr, Urban Faber, Joe Benz, Owen Bush, Oscar Stanage, Ray McKee, Ben Dyer, George Cunningham, Fred Nicholson, Howard Ehmke, John Collins, Bob Veach and George Dauss.

Weaver Attends Hearing.

Buck Weaver, also a member of the White Sox of 1919, who was barred from organized baseball because of the alleged throwing of the world series of that year, was present, but not to make any statement. He has been the silent member of the Black Sox. He nodded his head in corroboration, while Risberg was telling his story to Landis Saturday, but has declined to make any statement on his own hook.

Bill James, the Detroit pitcher named by Risberg as having been "pay-off man" for the Tigers, wired Landis he would not be able to reach Chicago today.

Urban ("Red") Faber, Sox pitcher in 1917, and still one of the leading flingers of the club, today gave his first statement on the White Sox donation to Detroit.

"We were playing the Athletics," he said. "At the same time Detroit was playing its Boston series in September, 1917. Somebody on the bench, noticing from the scoreboard that Detroit was beating Boston, said: 'We ought to make those fellows (Detroit) a present for beating Boston.' The next day in New York "Chick" Gandil came to me to collect this money for the present to Detroit and I gave him a check for my share of $45 and the shares of several others of the boys who did not have any money with them. I never heard anything about Detroit being hired to lay down to the White Sox until Risberg's story the other day. I am confident nothing was said of this pool for the Detroit team until the day the Tigers completed a three-game series of victories over Boston. Risberg's charges are the bunk."

Risberg Arrived Early.

Risberg arrived in Chicago at 7:30 a. m. and when he failed to appear the rumor quickly spread that he had been kidnaped by a Chicago newspaper for questioning. Commissioner Landis was unable to add any light to the rumor, but he was reminded that Risberg was brought here last Saturday night, three days ahead of the time he was expected to come, by a Chicago newspaper, which paid all of his expenses.

When Landis asked Risberg, after a recital of his amazing story last Saturday night, if he did not need expense money, the representative of the paper told Landis he would continue to take care of Risberg's expenses.

LOEB AND LEOPOLD DENY MAIMING MAN

Slayers Smile When Taxi Driver Accuses Them in $100,000 Suit.

By the Associated Press.

JOLIET, Ill., Jan. 5.—Nathan Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb were identified in court yesterday by Charles Ream, Chicago taxicab driver, as the men who kidnaped and mutilated him in November 1923, but the two slayers of Bobby Franks took little interest in the charge. Summoned from the penitentiary to court as defendants in Ream's $100,000 damage suit, they smiled and shook their heads when Ream pointed an accusing finger at each of them in turn.

The two in their first appearance together in more than two years said they had "enjoyed the little vacation from prison more than anything that had happened since commitment."

It was the first time Loeb had left the prison since he entered Sept. 14, 1924. Leopold, however had been out three times before once when he was taken from the old to the new prison; again when he with other prisoners was taken back the old prison for a religious festival; and last, when he recently appeared as a reluctant witness in the trial of six convicts who killed a deputy warden in an escape plot.

The testimony of each was brief Loeb's relating to his preference in motor cars, and the kind he and Leopold owned in 1923 while Leopold was questioned concerning the kind of knife he used in dissecting birds. Asked if it was a sharp knife, Leopold replied: "Well, of course, the sharper the better."

At court adjournment they were handcuffed each to the other hustled down the janitor's elevator and past a crowd of 500, into an automobile that took them back to prison, but they were expected back in court today.

Free Classes at Soldan High Will Also Include Promotion.

Retail and wholesale salesmanship, canvassing and promotion are taught in free classes which began Monday night at Soldan High School. Classes are held Monday and Wednesday, beginning at 7:30 p. m., and 50 sessions complete the course. The teacher is John D. Purcell, sales manager of the Germo Manufacturing Co., who has had more than 20 years' practical experience. Students may enroll Wednesday night.

Fraud Reported by Receiver for E. W. Grant Firm

representing his life savings, has been lost, the attorney believes. Margious, an overall manufacturer, resides at 6519 San Bonita avenue, University City. Rubin is a merchant at Christopher, Ill.

Inquiry is in progress at the County Recorder's office at Clayton into ten instances within the last year in which Grant obtained the release of deeds of trust on his affidavit that notes secured by the deeds of trust had been paid and subsequently lost. Title examiners commented that this was an unusual number of lost notes for one real estate company to have in a year.

Note Reported "Lost."

Attorney Bernard Greensfelder, representing persons who have had dealings in deeds of trust with Wagner-Grant-Bell, this afternoon examined, in the Recorder's office at Clayton, the record of a $20,000 deed of trust on property at 6315 North Rosebury avenue. This deed was executed last May 1 and it was released Oct. 21, on affidavit of Edward W. Grant that the deed of trust and all the notes had been lost or destroyed, and that the notes had been paid. Greensfelder said his client had not received payment on the notes, and that the release was therefore a wrongful proceeding.

No Money on Hand, It Is Said.

Attorney Dubinsky said that at a conference with creditors yesterday afternoon, Edward A. Wagner, president of the company, admitted the concern had no money on hand. He added that Wagner had said he had examined the company's six bank accounts since the sudden departure of Grant, his brother-in-law, William H. Bell, vice president, also a brother-in-law of Grant, had charge of rentals, and Wagner directed the company's building operations.

Both Wagner and Bell, in the conference with creditors, said they had not known of Grant's intention to leave the city, and that they had no knowledge of his whereabouts.

R. H. McRoberts, attorney for Wagner-Grant-Bell, when asked today whether he had heard from Grant since his departure, declined to answer the question.

Extensive Operations.

"Preferred Real Estate" was the phrase featured by the Wagner Grant-Bell Co. upon the window of its office. The company promoted extensive apartment and residence construction in the De Mun tract, west of Skinker road, between Arundel place and San Bonita avenue. It built the nine-story Wiltshire Apartments, on Skinker road and Southwest avenue, which it sold last February. It bought and operated the Carleton Apartments, 4616 Lindell boulevard, and negotiated for the Chase Apartments, 4931, but did not complete the deal.

In the receivership suit, the firm, its three members, and Mrs. Emilie G. Wagner and Mrs. William H. Bell, wives of the president and vice president and sisters of the missing secretary-treasurer, are named as defendants. The suit was filed at 7:55 a. m., Attorney Dubinsky being apprehensive of similar suits by other claimants.

The petition declares the company and the individual defendants named "have intermingled their individual business and assets, and company and corporate business and assets, to such an extent that the same cannot be separated." The charges of irregularities in deeds of trust are then made.

Charges of "onerous, excessive and unsound financial arrangements" on the company's part, and of excessive salaries to its officers also are made. The salaries paid are not stated. It is declared that any application for redress made to the defendants, would be futile.

The petitioners also charge that a promissory note for $288.75, dated last July 2 and due Monday, bearing the signature of Grant and the indorsement of Wagner, was presented for payment Monday, and that payment was refused. They declare they are "in like situation" with respect to their notes on property at 6251 Southwood avenue, and on other properties in the city and county.

Transfer of Assets Charged.

As another cause of action, they allege, on authority of yesterday's issue of the Daily Record, that Grant has transferred "certain good and valuable assets" to his sister, Mrs. Wagner, and that the transfer was made for the purpose of defrauding the plaintiffs.

Two hours after the filing of the petition, a second receivership suit against the company was filed by Miss A. E. Tereba, represented by Greensfelder, Rosenberger and Grand. The realty company only was named as defendant in this suit, default in the payment of an interest note, related to a principal note of $25,000, was alleged, and Grant's disappearance was cited as the cause of "chaotic" conditions in the realty company's affairs. This petition was assigned to Judge Hartmann.

Following the appointment of Holme as temporary receiver, under the earlier suit, Attorney Dubinsky went to Judge Hartmann and asked that Holme be allowed to act in the case of the Tereba claim. Judge Hartmann deferred his decision, and Dubinsky said that, if the appointment of another receiver should be decided upon, he would ask a higher court for a writ of prohibition to prevent such appointment.

Dubinsky spoke of Miss Tereba as a "dummy" petitioner, representing some other client of the Greensfelder law firm, for which she is a stenographer. After the filing of the temporary receiver's motion for dismissal of the Tereba suit, the matter went over until tomorrow.

Blames Missing Partner.

Wagner and Bell were seen by a Post-Dispatch reporter at the McPherson avenue home of their mother-in-law, Mrs. John M. Grant where they stayed last night. Wagner, speaking for both, said that any statement as to the charges made in the receivership petition regarding misrepresentation of deeds of trust, must be made by his attorney.

"If Grant had not gone away, everything would have come out all right," Wagner said. "His departure has caused this turn of affairs." Asked about the transfer recorded in yesterday's Daily Record, of assets from Grant to Mrs. Wagner, he said the transfer affected three pieces of property which, he understood, Grant and his sister, Mrs. Wagner, had held jointly.

The transfers, filed in the Recorder's office in Clayton, at 8:20 a. m. Monday, were of property at 6309 North Rosebury avenue, lot and improvements, subject to $17,000 first deed of trust; 6317 Southwood avenue, subject to $40,000 first deed of trust; and 6311 Southwood avenue, subject to $38,000 first deed of trust. All are in the De Mun tract apartment section.

The conference with creditors was held yesterday afternoon in the law office of Banister, Leonard, Sibley & McRoberts, in the Paul Brown Building.

Lambert Walther was present as attorney for Sam Hamburg, from whom Wagner-Grant-Bell bought the Carleton Apartments. John C. Tobin represented the Citizens' Loan Co., Seventh and Pine streets. Bernard Greensfelder represented the City Trust Co. and the West St. Louis Trust Co. Carl Dubinsky was present as attorney for Margious and Rubin. Jack Dubinsky, real estate dealer, also was present, as were a few others.

Attorney McRoberts, representing the realty firm, announced that the meeting had been called to check up the situation affecting Wagner-Grant-Bell, in view of the disappearance of Grant.

"We understand," the lawyer said, "that some of those present and others not present have done business with the firm. Some of you may hold deeds of trust. What have you?"

Carl Dubinsky said the first question he wished to ask was whether the real estate firm was solvent, and if it had any money on hand, and Wagner replied: "Our firm does business with six banks. Since Grant wen away, we have made a check of the bank accounts, and find no cash on hand."

Attorney Dubinsky replied by telling of the interests of Margious and Rubin, of his examination of their 19 deeds of trust, made after Grant's disappearance, and of his discovery that, with one exception the deeds were not second deeds.

Dubinsky said that one of the deeds held by Margious, for $10,000, was represented to Margious according to Margious' statement to him, as a second deed of trust with a $14,000 first deed of trust ahead of it. By his recent examination, the lawyer said, he found that there was really a $54,000 first deed ahead of it. He said his opinion, formed after an examination of the deeds, was that Margious had lost most of his life savings.

Wagner then said, according to Dubinsky's account of the meeting, that his own work consisted almost entirely of superintending construction, and that he was at the office comparatively little. He said all financial matters, particularly those relating to deeds of trust, were left to Grant. He added that he had no personal knowledge of the deeds of trust.

Bell also disclaimed any knowledge of the deeds of trust, Dubinsky said. He said he was in charge of routine office matters and rentals.

Attorney McRoberts counseled moderation on the part of those holding deeds of trust. He said the examination of the firm's accounts, made by its own accountant, had not been completed, but that it was hoped to discover, in a few days, how everyone stood.

Dubinsky, after consulting his clients, decided on the receivership suit, and so notified McRoberts, who urged him to wait, but Dubinsky said he felt that he must protect his clients, and that it would be necessary to get an order for the taking of depositions, that the officers and employes of the company might be questioned under oath.

Contractors Hold Liens.

Large claims are held against Wagner-Grant-Bell by building contractors and material firms, it is said, as these have liens on property which take precedence of deeds of trust, it has not appeared whether these creditors are likely to suffer loss.

The most ambitious part of the Wagner-Grant-Bell building program was on the De Mun tract, where the firm built apartments costing $75,000 to $150,000 each. It also promoted a large number of six-family apartments on Clemens, Cates and Enright avenues in the 6300 block, University City.

It was announced today that the management of the Wiltshire and the Carleton Apartments, and seven other apartment houses which have been managed by Wagner-Grant-Bell, had been turned over to M. H. Rodemeyer & Co., 100 North Eighth street. The other apartment houses are at 6618 Enright avenue, 734 Kingsland avenue, 6326-32 Northwood avenue, 6313, 6333 and 6231 South Rosebury avenue and 6332 North Rosebury avenue.

Wagner built a residence for his own occupancy on Lindell boulevard east of Skinker road, but sold it recently to Aaron Waldheim for $103,000. It is understood that a few weeks before the sale Wagner had declined $110,000 for it.

W. W. Butts, president of the Real Estate Exchange, said today he had no definite information as to the condition of the Wagner-Grant-Bell business. This firm is a member of the Exchange. "The Exchange," said Butts, "is very jealous of the conduct of its members, and if occasion arises will hold an investigation. As soon as we have anything to take up in this case we will."

COCKERILL JURY AGREES ON GUILT, DEBATES PENALTY

One Juror Is Reported Holding Out for Second Degree Murder Verdict Instead of Manslaughter.

LIGHT SENTENCE FAVORED BY MOST

Confessed Slayer of Emil B. Turner Testifies He Lost Mind When Told His Fortune Was Gone.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

BOONVILLE, Mo., Jan. 5.—The jury in the case of Cecil Cockerill, 33-year-old foreign language professor, charged with second-degree murder for killing Emil B. Turner in Turner's real estate office here, Oct. 13, last, has agreed on the guilt of the defendant, but is still deliberating on what punishment should be assessed.

With its task made easy as a result of a manslaughter instruction by Circuit Judge Westhues, it was learned from an authoritative source today that the jury of nine farmers, a barber, salesman and clothier, has determined the guilt of the defendant, but the penalty to be imposed is causing considerable difficulty. One juror is reported to be holding out for conviction on the second-degree murder charge and he favors assessing the minimum penalty on the charge—ten years' imprisonment in the penitentiary. The maximum is life imprisonment.

10 Years Manslaughter Maximum.

The maximum penalty for conviction on a charge of manslaughter is 10 years' imprisonment in the penitentiary while the minimum is a fine of $500. Most of the jurymen favor a light jail sentence and a fine, according to the correspondent's informant. Judge Westhues instructed the jury to find the defendant guilty of manslaughter if it found Cockerill killed Turner "without malice aforethought."

Prosecuting Attorney John Windsor and Special Counsel Winters Martin, realizing that a Cooper County jury would likely assess a minimum penalty because of the sentiment against Turner, argued strenuously against this instruction.

Turner was associated with his father-in-law, Charles W. Nixon, in operating the Nixon Farm Mortgage Co., which failed last May, with losses of more than $500,000. Nixon fled to Mexico before his peculations became generally known and Turner lost his life because he chose to remain here. He was shot down by Cockerill, an irate creditor, as he pleaded for mercy.

Cockerill, picturesque character, made his investments with the Mortgage company while an instructor in Kemper Military School here.

Trial Moves Swiftly.

The trial of Cockerill began Monday and moved swiftly to an end following the tedious task of selecting a jury—a task made extremely difficult because of the strong prejudice which exists in this Central Missouri community against Turner and Nixon, due to the heavy losses suffered by hundreds as a result of their alleged fraudulent business operations.

At every session the court room has been crowded to capacity, with hundreds standing in the corridors outside.

With the question of who killed Turner undisputed, the State sought, in presenting its case, to overcome adverse sentiment by introducing every bit of testimony possible against the defendant which tended to show he had no justification for his act.

Self-defense and temporary insanity, with particular stress upon the latter, were advanced by the defense. Depositions of three San Diego, Cal., physicians, who thought the actions of the defendant "queer" when they treated him in recent years, and testimony of a Kansas City nerve specialist, who declared he thought it possible the bachelor pedagogue was temporarily insane when he killed Turner were introduced. In rebuttal the State called another Kansas City specialist, who testified he considered Cockerill sane. Several persons who visited the defendant in the County jail after the tragedy said he appeared sane in conversations with them.

Tells of Losing Life Savings.

The climax was reached when Cockerill took the witness stand in his own defense late yesterday. As he began his testimony a door leading into the inner railing of the court room ordinarily occupied only by judge, jurymen, court attaches and attorneys, was unlocked and more than 100 persons crowded into a small area, some of them sitting on steps leading to the Judge's bench. It seemed, too, as though a few more had squeezed into the aisles in the spectators' section. Among the latecomers were several women school teachers, who had hurried from their classrooms to the courthouse, and waitresses from a hotel across the street.

The courtroom was crowded

The courtroom was crowded again last evening when closing arguments were made. Many at the night session had been there since 8 a. m., having taken lunches.

In his testimony, the defendant told a story of long illness which caused him to be "melancholy and gloomy" when he learned his life savings of almost $18,000 had been lost in the Nixon collapse. Frequently during his testimony his eyebrows raised and sharp lines appeared in his high, intellectual forehead which stood out the more prominently because of his closely cropped, graying hair.

Told Mortgage Was Worthless.

Describing the scenes just before he killed Turner the witness said: "Almost immediately after I began talking to Turner, he told me that a $5000 mortgage I held was worthless. This almost crushed me. I saw my worst dreams realized. Just then Turner made a move and what happened next I cannot say. I became oblivious to my surroundings. I remember persons came in and a policeman talked to me. I answered in my dazen condition."

This concluded his direct examination.

After several preliminary questions, Prosecuting Attorney Windsor asked: "Where were you standing when you fired the first shot?" "I don't remember," was the answer made after an objection of defense counsel to the question had been overruled.

"Do you mean you don't remember firing a shot, or you don't remember where you were standing?" asked the Court. "I don't remember firing the shot," the defendant replied.

"Didn't you, on Oct. 13, know it was wrong to kill Emil Turner?" Windsor asked. Cockerill answered, "I never thought about it."

Windsor inquired, "Don't you know now that it is wrong to kill a human being?" and the defendant replied, "My mind now is hardly able to pass on ethical questions."

Woman Czar of Boxing

—International Photo.

MRS. FLORENCE E. S. KNAPP, whose term as Secretary of State of New York expired Dec. 31, and who has been named by Gov. Smith as temporary chief of the new Department of State. This appointment, which makes Mrs. Knapp virtual czar of sports, including racing and boxing in the State of New York, has aroused much comment in political circles.

ATTACK WOMAN'S WILL DISPOSING OF $100,000

Petition Alleges Mrs. Margaret A. Temm Was Not of Sound Mind.

Suit to set aside the will of Mrs Margaret A. Temm has been filed in Circuit Court in behalf of two minor children of the late Mrs. Elizabeth Doran of 4859 Page boulevard, a niece. They are represented by their father, Paul J. Doran, and Frank C. O'Malley, who contend that the plaintiffs, Maurice and Mary Lucille Doran, are entitled to a one-fifth interest in Mrs. Temm's property, which is estimated to be worth $100,000, although the will cut them off with $1 each.

According to the petition, Mrs. Temm was not of sound mind when she executed the document, four months before her death, which took place June 24 last. It is alleged she was under the control of Mrs. Eliza Langley, a sister, and John Furey, a nephew, who, the petition charges, possessed a hostile feeling toward paintiffs' father and for that reason influenced their mother's aunt to disinherit them.

One clause of the will creates a trust arrangement whereby the whole estate with the exception of $2600 bequeathed to Catholic institutions is held for the benefit of Mrs. Langley during her life, with Furey and Mrs. Ella Shannon Appgar of Puente, Cal., ultimate beneficiaries. But another clause, without revoking the trust provision, apparently gives the whole estate to Mrs. Appgar. Attorney O'Malley declared that the two clauses which he claims are in conflict with each other indicate Mrs. Temm must have been in a confused state of mind when she signed the will.

Mrs. Temm, who was the widow of Adolph Temm, a druggist, lived at 5075 Page boulevard. She was about 60 years old, and was ill when the will was drawn, it is alleged.

OPEN VERDICT GIVEN IN MURDER OF LALLY

Patrolman Says Dying Sergeant Did Not Know Man Who Shot Him.

At a brief and perfunctory Coroner's inquest today, a verdict of homicide at the hands of parties unknown was returned in the case of Detective-Sergeant Edward J. Lally, who was shot to death near his home, 4155 Laclede avenue, early New Year's day. Police announced they would continue their investigation, which so far has developed no clew to the motive for the crime or the identity of the slayer.

Patrolman Thomas F. McCormick, an old friend of Lally, testified with tears and frequent haltings that he was the first to talk to the dying man, finding him on the sidewalk after being sent to investigate a shooting.

Lally told McCormick that a young man whose face he could not see, stepped from an automobile and fired two shots at him from a distance of about 10 feet. McCormick said he talked to Lally for an hour and was satisfied that he did not know who his assailant was or why he was shot.

John A. Manestar testified that he looked from the window at 4133A Laclede avenue, after the shooting, and saw an automobile go west for a half block, then turn around in the street and speed east.

STATE WON'T ASK GRAND JURY ACTION IN M'PHERSON CASE

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 5.—The county grand jury disbanded without hearing any testimony pertaining to the Aimee Semple McPherson kidnaping mystery.

District Attorney Asa Keyes said he would not ask further grand jury action. Asked what he would do regarding the filing of an information based on Judge Samuel R. Blake's findings at the evangelist's preliminary hearing, the District Attorney said: "I have not determined yet—I'm waiting for new evidence."

SISTER IN $135,000 WILL SUIT TELLS OF HOSPITAL VISIT

Miss Mary F. Calnane Testifies Brother Was in Stupor After Paper Had Been Signed.

Miss Mary F. Calnane, teacher at Soldan High School, testified yesterday in her suit in Circuit Judge Killoren's court to set aside the will by which her brother, Dr. John A. Calnane, bequeathed the bulk of his $135,000 estate to his widow, Mrs. Mary Calnane, leaving his sister only $33,000.

On April 18, 1924, she visited St. Anthony's Hospital, she declared, and was refused admittance to her brother's room by his wife, who, she testified, told her she could not enter because Dr. Calnane was making the will. When finally she entered the room, she said, the will had been signed, Dr. Calnane was lying in bed in a stupor, with his eyes closed and Attorney George F. Beck was telling him, "When you get well, you can make any changes you want to."

Mind Sound, Lawyer Says.

Dr. Calnane, who was 57 years old, died May 12, 1924. Monday, Beck and Sister Mary Constance, superintendent of the hospital, testified he was of sound mind and "knew exactly what he was doing" when he made the will. He dictated the clauses, read them over and made changes before the final document was drafted, Beck said.

Miss Calnane told the jury that Dr. Calnane owed much of his financial success to her. As young people in Ellsworth, Me., he was a truck driver, with an ambition to study medicine, and she was a district school teacher. She encouraged him to go to Columbia University in New York City and contributed all she could spare from a modest salary and what she could earn with other work, she testified.

When attorneys for Mrs. Calnane exhibited timeworn papers they said were canceled notes of the university, Miss Calnane suggested her brother might have borrowed money from the school, paying it back as she was able to give it to him.

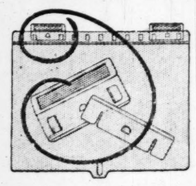

Sister's Evidence Supported.

To support Miss Calnane's testimony, depositions of residents of Ellsworth were introduced, to the effect that in 1917 when Dr. and Mrs. Calnane were visiting his old home, he related that he "owed his sister a debt that never could be paid" and intended to divide his property equally between her and his wife. He had come to St. Louis in 1895, marrying in 1900.

Preceding Miss Calnane on the stand was Dr. Calnane's former office nurse, Mrs. Emily Knight, who gave testimony against the will, although she was left a $5000 bequest in it. Visiting the hospital on April 16 with her mother, she said she found the doctor in a stupor, with a high fever, and barely able to recognize her. Asked whether she had been promised anything if the will were set aside, Mrs. Knight replied, "No, and I don't care. I was brought in to tell the truth."

If Miss Calnane's suit is successful, half the estate, under the law, will go to her and half to Mrs. Calnane. Miss Calnane has testified that her brother frequently declared he wanted her to have half of his property.

BOY STEALING RIDE KILLED UNDER WHEEL OF TRUCK

Fred Klang, 14, Had Hopped Cattle Vehicle at Ste. Genevieve, Mo., Unbeknown to Driver.

"Bumming" his way back from Ste. Genevieve, Mo., where he had gone in a fruitless search for employment, Fred Klang, 14 years old, was fatally injured early today within two blocks of his home at 6722 Minnesota avenue.

Last night at Ste. Genevieve he "hopped" a cattle truck bound for St. Louis. It was a long ride and a tiresome one—but home was the goal. As the northbound truck reached the 6700 block of South Broadway at 1:45 a. m. today, he jumped off. He slipped, and his right leg was crushed under a rear wheel. The truck did not stop; its driver probably not knowing he had a passenger behind.

Fred crawled to the gutter, to avoid being run over again. His cried attracted Mr. and Mrs. Albert Brown, 6728 South Broadway. He was removed to City Hospital where he died at 6:45.

Not long out of school, Fred also was out of work, so last Friday he and a friend, Clarence Helm, 18, set out to seek employment in Ste. Genevieve, where Helm has an uncle. Fred's mother gave him bus fare and a little more for food and lodging. The employment did not materialize, and Fred decided to return home. His funds had dwindled to 25 cents—not enough for bus fare—so he boarded the cattle truck. Police are seeking the driver of this truck, though not holding him responsible for what happened.

Boy, 7, Suffers Fractured Skull When Hit by Truck.

Ivan Hodge, 7 years old, of 1217 South Sixth street, suffered a fractured skull and other injuries when struck by the truck of Gus Webbe, a merchant, of 840 Chouteau avenue, at Seventh boulevard and Hickory street, at noon yesterday. Webbe was arrested.

Woman Badly Hurt When Knocked Down by Auto Truck.

Mrs. Mary Frizini, 22 years old, of 1637 North Eighteenth street, was knocked down by a truck at Nineteenth and O'Fallon streets at 10:30 a. m. today, suffering bruises and concussion of the brain.

Senate Revives Old Custom.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—On motion of Senator Reed (Dem.) of Missouri, the Senate today referred to its Elections Committee the certificate of election of John J. Blaine (Rep.) of Wisconsin, elected last November to succeed Senator Lehroot on March 4, next. This is the course to which the Senate apparently has decided to return after a lapse of years. It was followed in the case of Senator Nye (Rep.) of North Dakota, when his certificate of election was presented last Monday. There has been no suggestion in the Senate of any irregularities in the case of either Nye or Blaine.

GIRL, 12, TO SHARE IN ESTATE OF PETER COOPER HEWITT

Appeals Court Affirms Report of Referee and Illegitimate Daughter Gets Part of $1,000,000.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Twelve-year-old Ann Cooper Hewitt, around whose birth a legal fight has been waged for three years, is entitled to share in the $1,000,000 estate of Peter Cooper Hewitt, it has been decided by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court.

The Court affirmed a report made in 1925 by Wallace K. MacFarland, referee, in which Ann was declared to be the illegitimate daughter and legal heiress of Peter Cooper Hewitt.

The fight to keep Ann from participating in the division of her father's estate began in 1923, when Erskine Hewitt, as substitute trustee of the estate of Peter Cooper, brought action on the contention that Ann was not the legitimate child of Peter Cooper Hewitt. The action was brought for brothers and sisters of Peter Cooper Hewitt.

The plaintiffs alleged that Ann was born in 1914, while Peter Cooper Hewitt was the husband of the former Lucy Work, his first wife. Her mother, the former Maryon J. Andrews of Virginia, married Peter Cooper Hewitt in 1918, after he was divorced from his first wife. Ann's mother, at present the Baroness d'Erlanger of Paris, has been married four times. Her first husband was Pedar Grugiere. The second was Stewart Deming.

At the trial before Referee MacFarlane, in 1925, it was conceded that Ann was born out of wedlock. It was contended, however, that her legitimacy was established by the marriage of her father and mother four years later. Referee MacFarlane upheld the contention of subsequent legitimization.

BOY BESTRIDES A SHARK IN VAIN EFFORT TO SAVE FRIEND

Nova Scotian Scares Sea Tiger, But Comrade Dies of Wounds Inflicted.

By the Associated Press.

SYDNEY, N. S., Jan. 5.—Stanley Gibbs, 18 years old, of Port Hacking, fought a shark in a vain effort to save the life of a friend.

Gibbs jumped from a boat and straddled the back of the shark when it attacked Merwyn Allum, his 15-year-old comrade. With nothing but his fists as weapons Gibbs frightened the fish so that it released its hold on the younger boy. A second attack on Allum, however, as he was dragged in the boat, inflicted injuries of which he died.

BURGLAR ALARM DIDN'T PROTECT FIRM'S BOOKS

President M. H. Smit, 78, Testifies in Bankruptcy Hearing of Surety Co.

No burglar alarm was necessary to protect the profits of the Surety Burglar Alarm Co., according to testimony before Referee in Bankruptcy Coles yesterday by M. H. Smit, 70-year-old treasurer of the concern.

The company went into bankruptcy last month with debts of $7310 and assets of $2954, which include $1500 worth of burglar alarm equipment. It was incorporated in 1923 with a capital of $30,000, toward which Smit testified he invested $1250 and became treasurer. His sole duty was to sign checks, which were countersigned by Oscar Sandweiss, president of the company, Smit said. When funds became low last year his son, J. M. Smit, lent the company $1000 on installation contracts. After this was exhausted Sandweiss' father, Louis, discounted the concern's payroll checks for a period and now holds $1100 in such checks against the bankrupt estate, Smit testified.

Six weeks before the concern went into bankruptcy Smit was made president. He was unable to explain details of the company's business yesterday, explaining that he "wans'nt a regular president."

"I observe that you were not," Referee Coles remarked.

Smit said that at one time the company had 124 customers, who paid from $5 to $10 monthly for the protection against burglars, in addition to a fee covering the installation of the alarm device. The hearing was continued to permit Sandweiss and others connected with the concern to tell what they know of its operation.

Counsel for the wife explained that she can speak nothing but Yiddish and has an abnormal dread of courts.

BOY DRIVER IN AUTO FATALITY INDICTED

Charles Foster Jr., 14, Was Operating $90 Car When He Killed Moses Dayen.

Charles Foster Jr., the 14-year-old boy who bought a $90 time-payment automobile for $15 down and killed Moses Dayen, 75 years old, of 2021 North Fourteenth, on one of his joy rides, today was indicted by the grand jury for feloniously leaving the scene of the accident, Dec. 16 last.

There was no evidence that young Foster had driven his automobile carelessly when he knocked Dayen down at Fourteenth and Chamber streets, fatally injuring him, but police reported that he had fled to his home after the accident. He was traced through a description of the car and license number. Charles, who resides with his parents at 1905 Blair avenue, must be tried in the Juvenile Court.

Another automobile driver whose indictment was returned today is John H. Harris, 34, of 3511 Market street, Negro chauffeur of a coal company, who drove through a safety zone with his truck at Eighth street and Chouteau avenue, Dec. 23, and killed Miss Marie Dickson, 21, of 4547 Chouteau avenue. He was indicted for manslaughter. Evidence at the inquest showed that Harris made no effort to avoid invading the safety zone and that his truck was traveling rapidly.

U. R. TO CARRY OWN EMPLOYES' LIABILITY INSURANCE

The United Railways Co. will carry its own employes' liability insurance, under the terms of the workmen's compensation act, thus expressing its disapproval of the rates placed in effect by insurance companies in the State.

SMALL URGES FAIR REVENUE FOR HIGHWAY PURPOSES

Governor, in Message to Assembly, Does Not Call for Gasoline Tax.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 5.—Gov. Small did not call for a gasoline tax by name in his message to the joint session of the Fifty-fifth General Assembly today, but urged equitable revenues for highway purposes.

"The revenues for road purposes," he said, "should be derived without direct taxation from those who use the State highways, and should be raised in such a manner as to fall as lightly as possible upon the motor vehicle owners. It should be fair, just and equitable, and sufficient in amount to carry out the expressed policy of the people as shown by their votes upon the bond issue laws."

A commission of seven to survey and investigate tax laws in force in other states was recommended.

Early completion of the Illinois waterways, providing an all-water route from Chicago to New Orleans, was urged as essential to the relief of the agriculture, industry and commerce of the State from the economic handicap due to the inland location and the high cost of the 1000-mile haul to tide water.

Representative Robert Scholes, Peoria, was re-elected Speaker.

Reed Cutler of Lewistown is Republican House floor leader and Michael Igoe of Chicago is Democratic House leader.

Miss Eva Young, Marion, was named postmistress of the House for the fourth time.

Senator John Denvir of Chicago is minority leader in the Senate.

ARREST ILLEGAL, CHARGE VALID IN ALBRECHT CASE

U. S. Supreme Court Explains Affirming of Jail Term for East St. Louis Liquor Law Volators.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—In affirming the decision of Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley of the Eastern District of Illinois imprisoning and fining Henry Albrecht Sr., his son, Henry Albrecht Jr., and Thomas Maher for violation of the national prohibition act in East St. Louis, the United States Supreme Court Monday declared that a false arrest does not necessarily deprive a court of jurisdiction.

The East St. Louisans, who were convicted in Danville, Ill., and sentenced to the Vermilion County jail, contended that the information filed against them by the late W. O. Potter, then District Attorney, was insufficient because it was based upon the unverified affidavits of J. A. Miller and D. P. Coggins, sworn to before a Notary Public who is a State official not authorized to administer oath in Federal criminal proceedings.

Arrest Illegal, Information Sound.

The Supreme Court, while admitting that the arrest violated the fourth amendment of the Constitution, which declares that "no warrant shall issue but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation," nevertheless asserted that "it does not follow that because the arrest was illegal, the information was or became void."

The opinion was written by Justice Brandeis. There was no dissenting opinion.

Albrecht and his son now live at 3224 Longfellow boulevard, St. Louis. Their only chance to escape jail or delay imprisonment lies in petitioning the Supreme Court to review its own decision, which is not considered likely.

DISPUTE OVER TUBERCULOSIS CURE MAY DECIDE EFFICACY

Spahlinger's Contemplated Action Against Treatment's Critic Welcomed by Dr. Thomas Nelson.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Jan. 5.—It seems likely the controversy over the secret tuberculosis treatment evolved by the Swiss bacteriologist, Dr. Henry Spahlinger, will lead to litigation which may result in establishing its efficacy or otherwise.

Dr. Spahlinger, in a letter to the Daily Express, declares the statements made by Dr. Thomas Nelson recently in the Lancet, in which the Spahlinger treatment was attacked, were inaccurate and that he is taking legal advice in the matter. Dr. Nelson, assistant physician at St. George's Hospital, London, told the Express, when informed of Dr. Spahlinger's statement, that he would be glad of a libel action if it served to bring the latter "out into the open."

Some British pathologists have long been skeptical of the Sjahlinger treatment. Dr. Spahlinger, however, declares he possesses letters written since 1920 by some of the patients to whom Dr. Nelson referred in his Lancet article and who are completely cured.

The Express, remarking on the rival opinions of the treatment, says Dr. Spahlinger owes it to the world to discard his secrecy and submit his method to official investigation.

In his Lancet article, Dr. Nelson said that of 10 cases treated in a London hospital between November, 1913, and August, 1914, six patients had died between 1914 and 1917, one died in 1922, two could not be traced and only one was known to be living last May.

BEAUTIFUL COUNTESS, WHO ROSE FROM SLUMS, DIES

Mabel Wright Spent Meager Savings for Clothes and Captured Society.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—The Countess Bela Zichy, who as Mabel Wright rose from a second-rate New York boarding house to social eminence, is dead in Budapest, says the New York American.

Once she was the greatest beauty New York-Newport-Narragansett Pier society ever feted, but her last days were pathetic. A lingering illness had removed all traces of the beauty that won her social recognition and the World War robbed her of the bulk of her finances.

The article tells how Mabel Wright spent all her meager savings on summery dresses in preparation for a "grand fling" at Narragansett Pier and how she immediately was accepted by society.

Through Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont, then Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Mabel Wright met Fernando Yznaga, sugar planter. Yznaga was married to Mrs. Belmont's sister at the time, but two years later the Yznagas separated and shortly afterward Yznaga married Mabel Wright. They were later divorced, and Mabel married Count Bela Zichy of Hungary.

Italy Denies Trouble in Albania.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Jan. 5.—The Italian Government, it is announced officially, has not heard of any uprising or trouble anywhere in Albania. The announcement described the Belgrade report of a new revolt of Mussulmen tribes in Albania as a "pure fabrication."

Home-made, but Ends Coughs In a Hurry

A family supply of dependable cough medicine. Easily made and saves about $2

If you have a severe cough or chest cold, with soreness, throat tickle, hoarseness, or difficult breathing, or if your child wakes up at night with a hoarse cough, and you want quick help, try this reliable old home-made cough remedy Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified honey, if desired. This makes a pint of really remarkable cough remedy. It tastes good, and in spite of its low cost, can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. It loosens and raises the phlegm, stops throat tickle and soothes and heals the irritated membranes of the throat and bronchial tubes with an ease and promptness that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, and is probably the best known means of overcoming severe coughs, throat and chest colds.

There are many worthless imitations of this mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co, Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Don't carry dangerous throat germs home!

Sore throat now—Grippe tonight!

Unless you start antiseptic treatment instantly

WHY WAIT till you get home? Start now to fight sore throat.

Hour by hour, the insidious sore throat germs are multiplying. You cannot check them with a mere gargle morning and night.

Formamint checks these germs by keeping the throat bathed, continuously, in an antiseptic of proved germicidal power. Yet it cannot harm the throat tissues.

Take one of these pleasant-tasting tablets every hour or so to treat sore throat; every two or three hours to prevent it. All druggists. The Bauer Chemical Company, New York City.

WIFE COMES FROM GERMANY TO FIGHT SUIT, GETS DIVORCE

Husband, Who Sued in St. Louis on Desertion Charge, Must Pay Alimony.

Mrs. Augusta Postdorf, who came from her home in Bochum, Germany, to contest the suit for divorce filed here by her husband, August Postdorf, today was granted a decree by Judge Taylor. She and her husband testified in German, with an interpreter translating their words for the Court.

They were married in Bochum, Oct. 18, 1918, and lived together there until March 28, 1923, when he came to St. Louis on funds advanced by her brother, living here. Later he sued for divorce, alleging that she had refused to accompany him here and had deserted him. When news of his suit reached Bochum, she came here and filed a cross-bill, alleging he had failed to support her and had deserted her. She was granted alimony of $5 a week, and restoration of her maiden name.

Mrs. Postdorf now lives with her brother, John Sobery, a baker, at 2758 Gravois avenue. She testified that when her husband left for this country, he kissed her good-bye and said: "Sweetheart, I will send for you in four months."

TWO DIE FROM GAS FUMES

Negroes Apparently Turned on Radiator Jet by Accident.

William Walker, 24 years old, and Walter Nicholson, 19, Negroes, were found dead in the women's washroom on the second floor of the Dunbar Building, 14 North Jefferson avenue, this morning, apparently having gone there to sleep last night and opened a gas radiator by accident. They were asphyxiated.

Negro physicians and dentists occupying the building detected an odor of gas and called the police. A barber of the neighborhood identified the men.

UMPIRE SUES FOR $200,000

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 5.—Ollie Chill, former American Association umpire, filed suit for $200,000 damages here yesterday against the league and Thomas J. Hickey, its president, alleging he had been slandered. Chill alleged that Hickey had given a statement to a Minneapolis newspaper in explanation of the umpire's dismissal, charging that Chill raised a hotel bill from $2 to $16 in sending in his expense account. The petition alleged the statement was "false, fraudulent and wanton."

Chill resigned in Minneapolis at the request of Hickey, July 10 last.

The controversy over the hotel bill grew out of a ruling put into effect last year by the American Association requiring umpires to stop at hotels specified by the league. Under this arrangement the league paid the hotel bills. Hickey charged that Chill stopped at the hotel designated in Kansas City only one night, receiving a bill for $2, which was raised to $16.

FELIX M. WARBURG DENIES CHARGES OF PRESS AGENT

Says He Was Not Sponsor, but an Invited Guest at Mountbatten Luncheon.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Felix M. Warburg of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., in Supreme Court yesterday, denied that he arranged a luncheon for Lord and Lady Mountbatten during their visit to this country in 1923.

Warburg was examined before Justice Crain in an action brought by Walter Hyams, publicity agent, to recover $7700 which Hyams says he spent on the luncheon under Warburg's orders. Hyams said the luncheon, which took place in the Bankers' Club, was given by Warburg in the hope of a confidential chat with Lord Mountbatten, in the course of which he could urge him to use his influence with the British Government so that Kuhn, Loeb & Co. "might regain their English interests, lost during the war."

Warburg said he did not know Hyams and that he had met him for the first time at the luncheon, to which he was invited by Lady Mountbatten, whom he said he had known since childhood.

Visiting Specialists Disc Problem Which City Providing for Future a Let Street Car Com Worrying, They Say i

ONE of the round-table discussions incident to the meeting in St. Louis last week of seven national associations of economists had for its subject the relation of public utilities to their communities and the problems inherent therein.

Several of these visiting specialists were informed or informed themselves during their stay of the fact that St. Louis is about to undertake rather important steps in the matters of transportation. They learned that the United Railways will emerge from receivership as soon as the city and the successor company to the United Railways agree upon franchises which are necessary to refinancing the company. They knew that the city and the company are about in agreement and that the public soon will be called upon to ratify or reject a franchise upon the so-called "service-at-cost" plan.

They knew also that the city is about to consider a plan of its own for rapid transit, beginning with placing the street cars underground in the downtown and later extending these tunnels as subways into the residence sections.

New York's Problem.

Many of the visitors were interested in the local situation, as they are interested in all public utilities everywhere, and they were asked by the Post-Dispatch for their views of this city's problem. Several had a peculiar interest—for instance, John Bauer of New York, because he is engaged in helping the city of New York devise a plan for recapturing its subway from private hands and operating them with a reduction in present fixed charges. He thought St. Louis could avoid some of the initial mistakes that New York made in its subways. There were also Prof. James C. Bonbright and Prof. Robert Hale, both of Columbia University, and that dean of public utility consultants, always on the side of the public, Edward W. Bemis of Chicago and New York.

Bemis, a figure in many of the important cases in the country for the last 25 years, was interested in the St. Louis proposal for service-at-cost. Mayor Miller, in looking into the municipal probabilities for 1927, mentioned that the public undoubtedly would be called upon to accept or reject service-at-cost for its railways.

"The success of any service-at-cost plan," Bemis said, "is determined largely upon the valuation base. If the valuation is high, service-at-cost means high fares. If the valuation is low, the public may hope for better service with little or no increase in fares.

Service-at-Cost in Cleveland.

"Cleveland has been the city to which all service-at-cost advocates point. The plan was originated there and has been more successful there than in any of the numerous other cities that have copied it. I am convinced that Cleveland made a success of service-at-cost solely because of the low initial valuation. It was a sort of shotgun valuation. The city had the company at its mercy; the company was compelled to accept for a valuation a much lower figure than it liked—about $30,000,000. One of the greatest items of cost is fixed charges upon capital invested. If fixed charges are low, it is reasonable to expect that fares will be low, and fixed charges in Cleveland were, and have been, very low.

"Yes," Prof. Bonbright said, "I understand that the valuation figure contemplated in the St. Louis ordinance is, in round numbers, $58,000,000. I think it very doubtful, indeed, that the reorganized company can be refinanced upon so high a figure without it following that street car fares would be raised. The valuation, I am told, is based upon a Public Service Commission figure, accepted both by the city and the company and that the valuation contained a substantial allowance for present day prices or the reproduction theory of valuation, which is adding so much to the burdens of the public in public utility rates.

"If some way could be found in St. Louis to reduce that initial figure of $58,000,000 as the value of the property, service-at-cost might be a good remedy for the ills that the city has suffered in its street car service."

Bus Competition Serious.

Prof. Hart agreed that service-at-cost was satisfactory only when the rate base was extremely low. "Remember," he said, "that in service-at-cost, the public virtually guarantees to preserve the company's valuation intact for the life of the franchise—in the St. Louis

Visiting Specialists Discuss Transportation Problem Which City Faces and Suggest Providing for Future at One Bold Stroke—Let Street Car Company Do Its Own Worrying, They Say in Effect.

ONE of the round-table discussions incident to the meeting in St. Louis last week of seven national associations of economists had for its subject the relation of public utilities to their communities and the problems inherent therein.

Bus Competition Serious.

Prof. Hart agreed that service-at-cost was satisfactory only when the rate base was extremely low. "Remember," he said, "that in service-at-cost, the public virtually guarantees to preserve the company's valuation intact for the life of the franchise—in the St. Louis case, 20 years. If at any time in those 20 years, any portion of the company's property becomes obsolete, the public must reimburse the owners for the dead horse. If busses should continue to develop as a means of urban transportation, they will greatly reduce the street car revenue and increase costs and the street car fare.

"When Cleveland adopted the service-at-cost 16 years ago, there was no sign on the horizon of any challenge to the street car as the sole agency of surface transportation. Now the private automobile and the bus are a very real threat. The street car business is more precarious now than it has been before."

"That is the fact exactly," said Bauer, who was public utility consultant to the corporation counsel of New York throughout the Gaynor administration. "The public is being asked to assume the risk of the street car business in service-at-cost plans at a time when the risk is greater than at any previous time in the industry.

"St. Louis, and every other city, at this time is concerned not so much with getting street car service at low cost as it is in finding some form of transportation that will be faster.

Rapid Transit the Prime Need.

"You are thinking of rapid transit in St. Louis right now. It does seem to me that you should very carefully consider the future and what it promises in transportation before any agreement of any sort is entered into between the city and street car company, especially when the city is called upon virtually to guarantee the company a fare sufficient to pay a return on the capital investment.

"For myself, I cannot see an economic life of more than 20 years at the outside for the surface street car in large cities. What would happen in St. Louis if the street car company were re-franchised upon the terms so favorable to it as proposed in service-at-cost? Suppose that simultaneously you proceed, as you undoubtedly will, to build subways. Street cars will have then only a very limited use as feeders to the subways. There would likely be no street cars in the downtown. There would be few in the middle residence sections. Busses would be far more economical as feeders for short hauls in the territory lying between the subway lines. Street cars would be useful chiefly as feeders from outlying sections.

"Much of the present street car system would disappear, but as it was discarded and torn up, the original valuation of $58,000,000 would be carried over into the capital investment in subways and the public would be paying for a dead horse. Such a burden would make it extremely doubtful that subway fares could be low.

"That is exactly how New York is suffering just now. It built subways with city money and turned them over to the surface lines company to operate. Soon the surface lines began to disappear, but the original cost of them remained in the capitalization of the company.

Could Profit on 5-Cent Fare.

"The operators are crying that though the subway fare is 5 cents, the actual cost of carrying each passenger is 7 cents. I will stake my reputation that the New York subways could make money at 5 cents if they were relieved of the large sums in their capital account which represent surface street car property that has lost its usefulness and has entirely disappeared.

"I would urge that you in St. Louis consider that danger very seriously before you re-franchise your street railways.

"It seems to me that the course for St. Louis is very clear. Do not tinker along in the mistaken notion that surface street cars ever can be made to give your people adequate transportation. Surface street cars are doomed, not only because they cannot be speeded up fast enough but because they constitute a traffic problem: Automobiles are filling our streets. Street cars and autos move slowly wherever they mingle. And the greater the automobile traffic, the slower the street car movement. The slower the street car movement, the greater the cost of operation and hence the higher the fare.

"If you are about to build a subway system here, plan and build one with the idea that the street car is to disappear almost entirely from your centers—that the future mass transportation in St. Louis is to be either underground or overhead. If you plan thus now, you will save millions in the future. Moreover you will have solved your transportation for all time in one bold stroke. Puttering along with surface cars is a half-way measure that eventually will be discarded.

"If these be facts and they seem to me to be clear, why bother at all with the question of a new franchise for your street cars. They cannot be given the stamina of permanence no matter how you legislate.

Let Street Car Company Worry.

"It seems to me that the street car company should be let alone with its troubles. It cannot survive, and to saddle the public with a pledge to preserve the capital investment in them is to put your street car company in the saddle 'sitting pretty.'

"I am told that St. Louis possesses the power to tax up to $100,000,000 for public utilities. That being the case, I know of no city of America so fortunate or so well equipped to tackle its transportation problem and solve it successfully. Most other cities are broke. I should say that St. Louis ought to forget its street cars; plan subways. Portions of the street car system can be knit into the subway system profitably. When, in carrying out the plan, it becomes clear what portions will be useful, take them over. It is likely that the city then will be able to drive a much better bargain with the street car company than is proposed in the new franchise."

In summary, it appeared the consensus of the experts who expressed themselves was that St. Louis should enter upon a service-at-cost franchise agreement with its street railways very cautiously and only if the initial rate base can be made low enough to keep the fare from mounting; that surface cars have a very doubtful life; that the public is seeking better transportation and that subways or some other form of rapid transit will soon cause surface transportation to vanish; that the city possessing money can go ahead now and outstrip all other cities in the sound, permanent solution of its traffic problem.

DUKE AND DUCHESS OF YORK OFF TO AUSTRALIA TOMORROW

Voyage on Battle Cruiser Renown for Purpose of Opening Dominion's New Capital City.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Jan. 5.—The Duke and Duchess of York are busy today saying goodbye to their friends and making last-minute preparations for their voyage on the battle cruiser Renown to Australia, where the Duke will open the new Australian capital, Canberra.

The Renown, on which the Prince of Wales made his voyage to South Africa and South America, sails from Portsmouth tomorrow afternoon.

King George and Queen Mary will come to London from Sandringham today to give a farewell dinner at the palace tonight to the travelers. Their majesties will take final farewell of their son at the Victoria Station tomorrow morning when the Duke and his party entrain. They probably will be accompanied by the Prince of Wales, Prince Henry and Prince George.

As soon as the Duke embarks, his standard will be broken out. Flying for the first time from the mainmast of a big warship. The Renown will be escorted to sea by seaplanes and destroyers, while cannons boom salutes. The Renown will go by way of the Panama Canal and return through the Suez, and is scheduled to arrive home June 27.

4 EX-MINISTERS OF FRANCE ACCUSED OF SALE OF HONORS

Subordinate Official Says Politicians Urged Promotion of Undeserving in Legion.

Copyright, 1927, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Co. (New York World and Post-Dispatch).

PARIS, Jan. 5.—Marcell Ruotte, assistant chief of the Bureau of Commerce, charged with accepting bribes to advance the rank of four prominent business men in the Legion of Honor, yesterday accused four ex-Ministers, headed by former Minister of Commerce Daniel Vincent, with favoring the promotion of unqualified persons. He charged that Vincent obtained the decoration for a man on account of 20 years of service to French commerce, although the man was only 32 years old. An importer of Italian wine who was imprisoned for false bankruptcy, also was knighted at Vincent's request, Ruotte says, and an engineer with a two-year prison record, rejected by the Minister of Commerce, got his ribbon through the Minister of Agriculture.

Ruotte declares that 20 of those given the ribbon for taking part in the Decorative Arts' Exposition were not deserving. He says he only hastened decorations already due, while the politicians pushed through their friends, regardless of their records.

CALLES ORDERS ENFORCEMENT OF PETROLEUM LAW

Instructs Attorney-General to Proceed Against Companies That Do Not Comply With Rules.

OIL MEN DENY THEY HAVE YIELDED

They Welcome Order to Enforce Regulations as It Will Force Matter to Court Test.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 5.—Action by the Attorney-General against those foreign oil companies that refused to comply with the new petroleum and land laws has been ordered by President Calles.

The laws, which became effective Jan. 1, provide for forfeiture to the Government of foreign-owned lands the owners of which had not applied before that date for concessions confirming their rights and titles.

The President's order, contained in a message to the Department of Industry, Commerce and Labor, follows:

"In accordance with the provisions of Article 27 of the constitution as applied to the oil industry, notify the Attorney-General of the republic of the names of individuals or companies which have not applied within the provisions of that law for confirmation of the rights therein specified, so that official may take the action to which the nation is entitled."

The rights referred to are those acquired by the companies before the present Mexican constitution came into effect, in 1917. The United States Government in several notes has held that the law is confiscatory and retroactive, contrary to the understanding upon which Washington recognized the Mexican Government.

Action by the Attorney-General resulting in actual forfeitures would create cases for specific complaints, furnishing basis for such further action as the United States Government might consider appropriate.

Rebel Bands Active in Various Parts of Mexico.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 5.—Federal troops in at least a half dozen different parts of Mexico are chasing groups of revolutionists or bandits. The activities of these bands have greatly increased in the last few days, although they are apparently without central leadership or co-ordination.

War Department reports say rebel or bandit groups, ranging in size from 30 to 200 men, are fleeing before Federal troops, who are under orders to continue their pursuit until they exterminate or capture their quarry.

One rebel success is admitted by the Government and this it claims was short-lived. Forty rebels captured the small garrison at Parras de la Fuente, in the State of Coahuila, only to be routed shortly afterward by Federal reinforcements.

A rebel band, which on Monday attempted a revolt in the town of Milpa Alta, about 15 miles from Mexico City, was last reported surrounded by troops in the Ajusco Mountains. The rebels are said to be commanded by two former officers of the notorious rebel chief Zapata.

With 800 troops closing in, the extermination or capture of the band is expected soon.

Federal Officers Arrested.

Special dispatches from Saltillo say that 50 Catholics, headed by members of the Young Men's Catholic Association, carried out Monday's attack on Parras de la Fuente in the State of Coahuila.

The dispatches say that the revolters, shouting: "Long live Christ the King," arrested municipal and Federal authorities in the town, captured three local Congressmen and killed Rafael Delgado and Jose Viera, the former a labor leader. Later they seized horses from neighboring ranches and burned several railway bridges.

The military commandant at Saltillo announced that the revolters would be punished when captured, but that otherwise the State of Coahuila was quiet.

Elected Over Casey of Kansas City — Painter of Carrollton Floor Leader of Democrats.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 5.—Fight for the speakership of the State House of Representatives between E. H. Winter of Warren County and Jones H. Parker of St. Louis was carried into the Republican caucus this morning, a two-day effort to reach a compromise by which one would withdraw having failed. Winter was elected Speaker, receiving 53 of the 79 votes in the caucus, and because Parker refused to withdraw Winter apparently is under no obligation to him and his supporters.

Parker had been dickering with Winter since yesterday in an effort to get Winter's support for him for Speaker pro tem, and also to get a promise from Winter to give the chairmanship of the Judiciary Committee to Parker and also to permit Parker to control the appointments to the Municipal Corporations and Banking Committees.

Winter Wouldn't Yield.

Winter was said to be willing to give Parker the leadership of the Judiciary Committee, but would make no other promise, apparently on the theory that there was little to the speakership, if he relinquished all the perquisites of the job.

William R. Schneider of St. Louis was chosen Speaker pro tem; O. J. Page of Springfield, floor leader, and Vic Essen of Clayton, chief clerk.

The Senate officers were chosen at a caucus of Democratic Senators last night.

Senator Cave of Fulton was chosen president pro tem of the Senate, as had been expected, though Senator Casey of Kansas City was a much stronger contender for the office than early reports had indicated he would be. If Casey had entered the race earlier, he probably would have been elected, but by the time Casey got in, a number of Senators had pledged themselves to Cave and were unable to get away from their pledges.

The fight for Casey was based principally upon the ground that Kansas City provided the deciding Democratic majority in most elections in which the Democrats were successful in the State and that the party organization there, as represented by Casey, was entitled to recognition.

Friends of United States Senator Reed also argued that Reed wanted Casey and that his selection would strengthen Reed in his expected campaign for an instructed delegation from Missouri for the presidential nomination in 1928.

Painter Is Floor Leader.

It appeared for a time before the caucus that Casey might be chosen, but the ballot gave Cave 12 votes to nine for Casey. In the belief that Casey had a chance to defeat Cave on a straight voting proposition, the Casey supporters abandoned their plan to attempt to elect Cave caucus chairman and floor leader against his wishes and thus shunt him out of the race for president pro tem.

Senator Painter of Carrollton, was chosen caucus chairman and floor leader on the third ballot Senators Donnelly of Lebanon and Gordon of Liberty were contestants with him.

R. E. L. Marrs of Carthage was re-elected secretary. Former Senator James of St. Joseph was a candidate against him, but withdrew shortly before the caucus when it appeared that he would get only four or five votes.

The Democratic minority in the House held a caucus last night and named Oak Hunter of Moberly for Speaker. This means that he will be the Democrat largely consulted by the Speaker on Democratic assignments to committees. D. L. Bales of Sharon County was elected minority floor leader; Thomas Roney of Webb City, caucus chairman, and J. H. Russell Jr. of Johnson County for Speaker pro tem.

BRITISH WARSHIPS SENT TO HANKOW

London Foreign Office Says Situation in Chinese City Is Fraught With Danger.

By the Associated Press.

HONGKONG, Jan. 5.—The British warships Vindictive, Carlisle and Wishart today were ordered to Hankow.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Jan. 5.—Frantic appeals for more land and naval forces are being made by the British community at Hankow to the British Government.

The Foreign Office today said that the situation at Hankow was fraught with the gravest dangers, but that it was felt that the British authorities on the spot would be successful in averting armed conflict.

The situation is eased by the evacuation of the British marines and the placing of responsibility for law and order within the British concession on the Chinese authorities.

It was stated that the position of the British marines, who were holding mobs at bay but under the strictest orders not to fire a shot, was untenable, and that consequently the evacuation had been directed.

Cause of Agitation.

The Foreign Office says that the Hankow disturbance is due to Cantonese agitators attempting to provoke the British to use force in defense of the British concession, thereby stirring up another crisis such as that recently at Wanhsien, in order to embarrass Great Britain's newly-declared policy of conciliation.

By the Associated Press.

PEKIN, Jan. 5.—Official dispatches from Hankow, where the British colony is being beseiged by thousands of infuriated coolies as the result of antiforeign agitation, show the situation is growing increasingly serious and indicate that the angry natives are out of control of the Chinese military forces which undertook to maintain order.

Practically all barricades to the concession have been destroyed and a consular dispatch says the British Bund, the principal thoroughfare for foreigners along the water front, is "unsafe for foreigners." It adds that "the situation is very discouraging."

A German citizen was stabbed and seriously wounded Monday by agitators within the British concession.

The British armed forces, feeling that it would have been impossible to hold the masses without firing, retired, leaving the concession in charge of Cantonese troops. The British war memorial opposite the consulate was damaged and all barricades at entrances to the concession were demolished.

FAVORS SALE OF SHIP LINES

Chairman O'Connor of Board Says Big Firms Should Run Them.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—If large business interests would combine to take over the Government's United States and American merchant lines, Chairman O'Connor of the Shipping Board would favor selling them, he said today before a Senate committee inquiring into proposals to sell the ships.

Such interests as the Firestones, Sears-Roebuck and Macy's, with large shipments to be handled, could operate the lines, and make them pay, he declared. "I am in favor of selling those vessels to the right kind of a directorate," O'Connor said. Senator Couzens (Rep.) of Michigan, suggested that if Congress did not favor subsidizing privately owned ships, some alternative would be necessary. The way out, O'Connor replied, was for the Government to own and operate its fleet.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY MEETS; TO TACKLE COURT REFORM AND THE BUDGET ISSUE

Business Men Want Expenses Curtailed, but Gov. Baker Seeks $7,000,000 in New Tax Levies.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Corerspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 5.—The Missouri General Assembly convened at noon today for its fifty-fourth biennial session, with a program of proposed legislation covering a wide range of subjects.

The program includes proposals for needed reforms in the criminal code of the State and needed provisions for the curtailment of the extravagance in governmental expenditures which, growing rapidly for the last 25 years, have created a heavy tax burden for Missourians.

While an association of business men is proposing radical reductions in expenditures, the State administration under the leadership of Gov. Baker, is advocating increased taxation through the creation of bothersome levies on cigars, cigarettes and tobacco, and on all admissions to amusements and sporting events. The Governor is seeking to raise an additional $7,000,000 of revenue.

The importance to the individual of the legislation that will come before this Legislature has not been exceeded by that at any session in recent years, and upon the action to be taken will depend whether Missouri is to continue with its antiquated criminal code, under which criminals are given exceptional opportunities to evade conviction in the courts through the many technicalities in the law, and whether the State is to continue to operate its huge business machine on the basis of personal politics, or whether it will adopt sound business principles.

Trouble Ahead for Plan.

The Governor's tax-increasing program, for which he is prepared to throw the full weight of administration influence, will not have easy progress in the Senate, which is Democratic, and may encounter serious opposition in the House.

The executive was faced with a situation in which State revenues were not sufficient to meet demands, which on the surface seemed legitimate. He chose to seek to obtain more funds by creating new sources of taxation, instead of trying to plug up the holes of inefficiency and wastefulness through which a huge amount of the present revenues are leaking.

With some degree of skill, he based his program on a ground which would be most likely to prove attractive—that of the needs of the public schools and the State educational institutions for a definite source of revenue. But as worked out by him, the plan will also increase the general revenues of the State by a considerable sum, possibly as much as $3,500,000.

Budget System Proposed.

Tackling the situation from a different angle, the Missouri Association for Economy in Public Expenditures, has proposed legislation to stop the leaks, with the creation of a state director of budget with power to recommend appropriations and power to supervise expenditures, as the key to plan for consolidation of state bureaus and commissions. While the Governor has indicated that he favors some sort of a budget system for the state financial structure, he has not made that an outstanding part of his program.

The Missouri Association for Criminal Justice also has an extensive program for reforms in the State's dealings with criminals. As a result of a careful survey by lawyers of wide experience and high standing, the association has recommended many changes in the technical court procedure to give the public a somewhat nearer equality with the criminal in the courts, and has outlined a program of better police administration.

It will seek to take control of the police departments of the large cities out of the hands of the Governor and put it in the municipalities—to give the cities home rule in police affairs. And it has proposed the establishment of a State police force under the Governor with power to make arrests any place in the State and thus cope to some extent with the advantages the criminal has derived from the use of automobiles in escaping from the scene of crime.

May Veto Home Rule.

Much opposition will be encountered in the effort at these reforms. It is likely that the police home rule bills will pass, but there also is a likelihood that the Governor will veto them. He has indicated in newspaper interviews that he not disposed to relinquish the patronage and power that come to the Governor through control of the police of St. Louis, Kansas City and St. Joseph.

The State police law probably will not pass, and even if it should it would likely be killed through executive veto. The Governor has announced his opposition to it.

Some of the proposed changes in the criminal code may be expected to pass, though opposition to most of them will develop, principally from the lawyers in the Legislature who practice criminal law and who take advantage of the technicalities which it is sought to abolish.

Road Building.

It is expected there will be legislation looking to a continuance of state road building on approximately the same scale it has been carried on in the last five years. Within a short time all of the roads that can be built under the $60,000,000 bond issue will be under contract and the bond money exhausted.

The State must choose one of two methods to continue the work. It can either vote another bond issue, or it can build roads with the money derived from automobile licenses and the gasoline tax. If the bond issue plan should be adopted this fund would be used to retire the bonds and pay the interest on them.

If the roads are built on the pay-as-you-go plan the completion of the State road system will be postponed at least five years, and the time when the State can begin building the local roads postponed at least that long. With a bond issue, the state system can be more quickly completed and work on the local roads begun.

The bond issue plan is the more expensive of the two, but it is the quicker, and the Legislature must decide whether it is better to pay a little more and have the roads sooner than to build slowly and pay a little less.

The situation is comparable to buying an automobile on the installment plan. Under the bond issue plan, the people would be using the roads while they were paying for them. On the pay-as-you-go system, it would not get the roads until after the money was in the treasury to pay for them.

Bond Issue of $120,000,000.

It has been figured by some road enthusiasts and student of road finances that there will be sufficient revenue to provide the money for interest and sinking fund on a bond issue of $120,000,000 of which half would go for local roads for which theer is a persistent demand from rural communities. Allof this would come from automobile licenses and gasoline tax and would not mean an increase of State taxes or of the present automobile license, rates and gasoline tax.

There also will be legislation to license and regulate bus lines over State highways, and in municipalities with provision for payment of fees that will go to the maintenance of the roads and streets used by the busses.

It may be expected that there will be at least 1800 measures introduced in the Legislature covering almost every imaginable matter that is subject to legislation.

The Legislature should adjourn about March 20, but if all the measures proposed are to be given consideration, it cannot finish by that time. However, it is improbable the session will continue much longer than that as, under the law, members receive salaries of $5 a day for 70 days and after that $1 a day. It is seldom they remain more than five days after the $1 a day period begins. Measures not acted upon by that time usually are committed to die on the calendar.

SUPREME COURT GIVES FEKETE CHILDREN BUILDING

Sustains Forgery Charge and Reverses Ruling of Judge on $70,000 Property.

The Illinois Supreme Court, in a decision entered at Belleville today, has reversed the ruling of Circuit Judge Bernreuter, under which Thomas F. Fekete Sr., former East St. Louis postmaster, was recognized as owner of an office building at 324 Collinsville avenue, East St. Louis, valued at $70,000. The opinion rules that the property should be divided among Fekete's five children on the payment of $3500 to the father.

The building originally was owned by Dr. Alexander Fekete, father of Thomas Fekete Sr. Dr. Fekete transferred it to his son's first wife, who transferred it to her son, Forrest, to be held "in trust."

Forrest Fekete died in March, 1925, and at the trial in Belleville the father submitted a declaration of trust by the son, dated 1920, which set forth that he held the property for his father. The five children, including Thomas Fekete Jr., a member of the Illinois Legislature, submitted a similar declaration in their favor, dated April, 1925.

Judge Bernreuter disregarded allegations of forgery from both sides and held that the first declaration was legal. The higher court gave the opinion that the first was a forgery.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress or reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Comprehensive Journalism.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

AT the dinner of the American Political Science Association, Dr. Charles A. Beard congratulated the citizens of St. Louis upon having a newspaper which had refused to print propaganda even though it had been issued by an official in the State Department. It occurs to me a conscientious reader of the Post-Dispatch, that we are to be congratulated again for what the paper insists upon publishing. Surely no majority of its readers, if a referendum were taken, would demand eight to ten columns daily of the convention news of the American Political Science Association, the American Economic Association and the other allied groups.

And yet the Post-Dispatch has so high a sense of duty and so fine an educational aim that all this space was given over to careful reporting of the news of these conventions. With American politics starving for statesmen and citizens that have a grasp of the larger forces that are marching through the world making history, we in St. Louis may consider ourselves fortunate that this journal so faithfully records the views as well as the news of the day. It is only by a study of scientific and historical experiences and accomplishments that we can solve the social, economic and political problems of the day. The Post-Dispatch helps to turn upon these problems the clear insight which they require.

Married Women's Property Rights.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

A MARRIED woman can buy real estate in Missouri, but cannot sell it, without her husband's signature. I am wondering why the numerous women's organizations did not get busy and have such a law set aside. Has a woman got to get a divorce before she can do any business transactions? How about the thousands of women that work hard, many of them supporting a large family, left by a lazy or drunken husband to their care. Is such a woman not entitled to take her savings and invest in real estate, buy and sell, as she judges best, without having to depend upon the mercy of her husband? MRS. H. E. M.

(You have been misinformed. Under section 7323, revised statutes of Missouri, a married woman can transact her own business. To quote the notes to this section: "This section empowers married women to convey their lands without their husbands joining in their deeds." Several cases are then given where the courts have so decided.—Ed. Post-Dispatch.)

The Five-Day Week.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE comment on the five-day week is well taken at this time of year when enforced idleness is at its height. The idea is not new. For 40 years labor leaders and thinkers have been urging that something would have to be done to give more employment. It is the best kind of business to give employment to as many people as possible, even if the wage per week is not as great. Let us live and let live. Let our brothers now idle help us do the work. A READER.

To Advertise Missouri.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I AM surprised at the lack of postal cards of scenes of the beautiful spots of our great State. I've tried everywhere to get some, but the post card dealers say none worth while are printed. I've been to all parts of the United States and have always told everyone of our beautiful Ozarks, Meramec, our farms, etc. They say why don't you send us some scenes of your great State. These post cards would attract people to our city and State. W. D. R.

Stadium for River Front.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

A PLAN for a river front improvement recently illustrated in your paper and tentatively approved by the City Plan Commission offers great possibilities towards rehabilitating that section of the downtown district. Our city is noted for its beautiful parks and other outdoor facilities, particularly we pride ourselves in our open air Muny Opera; but we have overlooked the growing necessity of a large civic stadium. No other plan or scheme proposed offers greater opportunity to provide such need at minimum cost than to include an immense stadium seating upwards of 100,000 persons in the river front improvements proposed. As result of the revenue derived and enormous number of people it would draw to our city, the stadium feature would ultimately pay for the entire river project, besides concentrating in this community sporting events of national prominence. The floor level when not in use could be well utilized for parking purposes and under which also may be constructed our subway terminal, permitting tram-way services to the stadium. The walls necessary to provide countless tiers of seats may be artistically overcapped with a river promenade on the one side and the proposed Third street boulevard on the other.

Together with the subway terminal, Third street, widened, and the river, transportation to and from such field would easily concentrate large crowds without confusion or congestion. Not overlooking East Side services terminating in that vicinity.

NICHOLAS DE RIENZO.

SECRETARY KELLOGG'S DENIAL.

Secretary Kellogg has spoken at last on the subject of the propaganda with regard to Mexico's bolshevistic activities in Nicaragua which Secretary Olds asked the representatives of press associations in Washington to send out, without formal authorization or any responsibility for its truth on the part of himself and the State Department. Mr. Kellogg has been forced to answer by pressure of the La Guardia resolution, which was passed by the House.

The answer of the Secretary was a categorical "No" to the first two questions in the La Guardia resolution, namely, whether the State Department had requested the press associations to carry such a story, and whether an effort was made to keep secret the source of the information.

In this answer Secretary Kellogg made direct issue with the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, which on Nov. 28 revealed that Assistant Secretary of State Olds, Mr. Kellogg's former law partner, called in the heads of the three large press associations and sought to obtain through them widespread publication of the charge that Mexico had spread bolshevism in Central America. As a result of this conference, the Associated Press published a dispatch calculated to alarm the country, over an alleged threat of a bolshevist hegemony intervening between the United States and the Panama Canal.

The Post-Dispatch accepts the issue. We do not know by what construction or by what evasive technicality Mr. Kellogg could find grounds upon which to answer these questions. There are diplomatic devices by which questions of this kind can be constructively answered to the satisfaction of the diplomat, if of no one else. But we are assured of the truth of the statements we printed.

Abundant evidence of the truth of our statements has appeared in print. The story, as told by Mr. Olds, was sent out by the Associated Press correspondent and was published in a number of newspapers. The other press associations, whose representatives were present at the Olds conference, boasted in explicit language and large type, that their Washington correspondents had refused to accept the Olds yarn without responsible authority, and had refused to send the story out. Were they deceived by their own correspondents with regard to the conference?

Congress, however, can easily verify this evidence. It can ascertain whether the statement of the Post-Dispatch is true or not. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee can call the witnesses before it and question them with regard to it. They can call the representatives of the press associations in Washington involved in the statement. They can call Mr. Olds. They can call Secretary Kellogg. They can call any other witness who has information with regard to it. The question of truth can be removed quickly from the field of doubt.

In view of the situation, we do not see how the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, or the House, can refuse to act. We believe that the question of the spreading of secret propaganda by the State Department, designed to create suspicion and hostillty against a neighboring Government, should be completely threshed out. The whole truth should be told.

1927'S FIRST SCOOP.

Collier's Weekly has started off the new year with a corking scoop. It is a story about Stephenson, now a convicted murderer serving a life sentence, but not long ago superklansman and political boss of Indiana. This fellow, it seems, tried to break into national politics by attending the Republican convention in Cleveland in 1924. There, in a yacht, on breeze-swept Lake Erie, he entertained many delegates in his sumptuous campaign to procure the vice presidential nomination for Senator Jim Watson. He was disappointed, we are told, when second place was given to Calvin Coolidge.

Was that the convention, we wonder, that nominated Charles G. Dawes for President, after Albert B. Fall had sternly refused to head the ticket? The article is silent on that point. But the year is young. Who knows what startling revelations Collier's will make before 1927 bids us a dry farewell?

A Judge from Germany who is studying courts in this country arrived in St. Louis just in time to see free taxicab service for the Judge and prosecutor discontinued at the court where traffic cases are tried.

NEW LIGHT ON STATES' RIGHTS.

James M. Beck's effort to open the door of the Senate for his client, William S. Vare, by invoking the doctrine of states' rights, is having rough sledding. Senator Norris has already given it a sound thrashing. Senator Reed of Missouri has administered the coup de grace and in so doing has presented the doctrine in a new and engaging light.

Proper appreciation of Senator Reed's argument requires a restatement of Mr. Beck's position. In substance it is this: The Senate must accept any man whom a state elects to that body. The Senate may not inquire into the methods the man used in getting nominated or elected. It may not inquire into his character. The amount of money that was spent in the primary or election is outside of the Senate's jurisdiction. Even if the member-elect were an embezzler (Mr. Beck has used that term) the Senate may not exclude him.

Such argument, says Senator Reed, "has not a leg to stand on. And speaking of the rights of the states, what of the right of every state to protect itself against the sending of unfit men to the Senate! What of Missouri's right, for example, to say that laws shall not be made for its citizens by a man who has procured his seat in violation of the law!"

Perhaps Pennsylvania wants to be represented in the Senate by Vare, though that claim may be contested by the returns. Perhaps Smith is Illinois' choice. Perhaps Maine is content to have the briber, Gould, carry on its rather distinguished senatorial line. But does anyone really believe that the credentials of those men are untainted? Does anyone believe that those men are Senators-elect as the result of an honest, intelligent, discriminating verdict of the polls? Corruption, blind partisanship, distortion of the truth and suppression of the facts—all those factors respectively, entered into the so-called vindication of those men. But waiving all that, and conceding the superficial validity of their elections, the fact remains that Pennsylvania, Illinois and Maine are only three states, that there are 45 other states and that the people of those 45 other states have a right to say that laws shall not be made for them by unfit men.

Such is the aspect of states' rights as submitted by Senator Reed. It is an important construction. May it not be called conclusive when it is considered that a Federal Senator is no mere servant of his state—that he represents no "pent-up Utica," to employ Foraker's apt quotation—that a Federal Senator, with his ambassadorial commission, is a national officer, a law maker for all the people?

OUR INTERESTS IN NICARAGUA.

At last the White House spokesman has given out some real information about Nicaragua. He pointed out yesterday that we own and should protect the right to build a canal across that country, acquired by the Bryan-Chamorro treaty of 1916. We also acquired by that treaty the right to build a naval base on the Gulf of Fonseca. The spokesman said that in addition to these interests, American nationals have invested huge sums in lumber, coffee, rice, timber, banana and mining industries in Nicaragua.

Heretofore, the only excuse made by the State Department or the White House for our invasion of Nicaraguan territory with armed forces was the vague and meaningless phrase, "protection of American lives and property." Yesterday's statement is explicit. It goes to the very heart of the subject. We have both strategic and commercial interests in Nicaragua to protect. Our strategic interest revolves around the protection of the Panama Canal. Our commercial interest lies in the protection of private American capital which has been invested in the little Central American country.

Those who were puzzled by the phrase, "protection of American lives and property," can understand now why we have practically ruled Nicaragua since 1909 with gunboats, Marines and public officials under the thumb of our State Department. But we may still inquire whether it is necessary for us to use such drastic methods with the Nicaraguans to protect our interests.

Is it necessary to establish a virtual protectorate over a so-called republic in order to protect rights already guaranteed by treaty? What evidence is there that American interests are in jeopardy or that they will be put in jeopardy if the usurper, Diaz, is overthrown? So far, not a line has come out of Nicaragua indicating that one American has been injured in the present revolution, or that any American property has been damaged. If the State Department knows of any such injury or damage, it would greatly strengthen its position if it were made known.

It is time for us to show a little tolerance and kindliness in our Pan-American policy. One way to begin would be to get out of Nicaragua and stay out until such time as our treaty rights are flouted or until it is necessary to do so as a matter of national defense.

It was cheep, cheep for Judge Rosecan to ride in Canary cabs.

THE SHOWING UP OF EDISON.

Mr. Thomas A. Edison has finally been exposed. We had always hoped he would be, but we were beginning to despair. Now, however, we have the word of a seemingly reliable authority that Mr. Edison does not get by with only four hours' sleep each night.

The authority is Dr. H. M. Johnson of the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research, who has for some months been conducting sleep tests with 18 University of Pittsburg students as laboratory specimens. As a result of these tests he has determined that toxins generated by muscular fatigue act as stimulants to the various parts of the nervous system, and, further, that at least eight hours' sleep is required daily for every normal person. Edison, says Dr. Johnson, gets this much or more sleep each night. On those infrequent occasions when he doesn't get this much, he dozes in his chair during the following day—a standing joke among his friends and associates.

We are thankful that this boast of Edison's has been exposed before it was too late for exposure to accomplish its destruction. Had its author been permitted to finish his mortal existence with his boast still unscotched, future generations would have had to duplicate our own painful efforts to get along with less sleep than is physically requisite.

In the time of Sir Francis Bacon it was considered eminently proper for litigants to give the courts something for favors conferred, but it remained for our time to give the Judge and the prosecutor free taxicab service.

THE RUMANIAN CRISIS.

American comment upon the present rumbles from Rumania seem to presuppose that ex-Crown Prince Carol is tremendously popular with the Rumanian masses. Indeed, if most of our commentators are to be believed, the crux of the trouble in Rumania is the eagerness of the people to see King Ferdinand replaced by his romantic son.

Kings are no more beloved in Rumania than elsewhere in this republican day. Carol's return is not desired as an end, but simply as a means. The trouble in Rumania is fundamentally economic, not political. It is the struggle of the Bratiano family to retain the complete commercial, industrial and financial control of the country which it has secured during its long period of political domination.

This family has perverted the law nationalizing Rumania's natural resources so as to give them to its associates, the petroleum and natural gas lands having been presented to companies which are controlled by members of the Liberal—or Bratiano—party. The railroads are controlled by the Liberals, as are the fisheries of the Danube Delta and the Black Sea, the important coal companies and the metallurgical and munition works. Members of the Liberal party control the National Bank of Rumania and most of the private financial institutions, and by means of the Credit Industrial Liberals have obtained a hold on many industries in connection with the granting of loans. This power over all the vital activities of the Rumanian nation reposes, by reason of interlocking directorates, in the hands of a few men.

What is happening in Rumania is merely the inevitable disturbance which occurs whenever any ruling clique is threatened with loss of power by the impending death of the head of the State. In this situation, the intelligent elements of Rumania have selected Carol as their standard bearer against the ruling oligarchy which has for so long despoiled the country.

Well, the scandal mongers can't say that anybody threw any games to our Browns last year.

"GENTLEMEN PREFER WARS."

IDA A. R. WYLIE in Harper's Magazine for January.

IT is of no use reminding humanity of the sufferings of war. For the suffering is never more than that of the individual. It is not cumulative any more than the suffering of peace is cumulative—and it is infinitely more spectacular. It is of no use reminding men that the next war will probably mark the end of our civilization. They don't care. If they admitted the truth, which they can't, because they daren't, they would say that they don't like civilization—that it has turned out something totally different from what they had intended, and that it had better be destroyed before, like the R. U. R. puppets, it grows too strong for them. It is of no use throwing the responsibility of government on Leagues of Nations. War is not, as most pacifists would have it, the outcome of the machinations of wicked politicians and worse capitalists. Politicians and capitalists are not so much villains as cat's-paws of the national temper. Nor is war a horrible calamity forced on men by a blind outside force or a revengeful deity. It is a symptom of modern man's profound discontent with himself, and his environment; and there will be no end to war until he himself has found peace. And there will be no chance of his finding peace until he has admitted honestly that he hasn't found it. When men acknowledge that the whole thrust of their endeavor has been in the wrong direction, that they have not been able to create a civilization in which their souls can live, and that war is a way of escape from their consequent miseries and an outlet for their thwarted virtues, then the League of Nations may function to some purpose.

THE EVOLUTION OF A SHARE OF U. S. STEEL.

From the New Republic.

LET us now follow the fortunes of an investor who paid $40 in 1901 for a share of U. S. Steel common. And, in passing, let us note that his $40 did not pay for a single ounce of new plant or mechanical equipment. It was not an "investment" in that economic sense. It simply paid a profit to the owners or organizers of U. S. Steel. If he has held the stock to this day, he has received in cash dividends 131¼ per cent of its par value, or the $40 which he paid for it plus $91.25. The average annual yield on his investment has been over 13 per cent. He now finds himself possessed of one and two-fifths shares for every share he held in the first place, with a market value of about $160. If he wants to sell, he can retire from his speculation with a net gain of $120 in capital, not to speak of the $131.25 which he has received in cash dividends. Or he can hold the stock with prospect of receiving in future cash dividends of $9.80 per year, or 24.5 per cent on his original investment. All this on the basis of a cash sacrifice which in itself did not add a single item to the physical capital equipment of the nation.

THE SOLID SOUTH BREAKING.

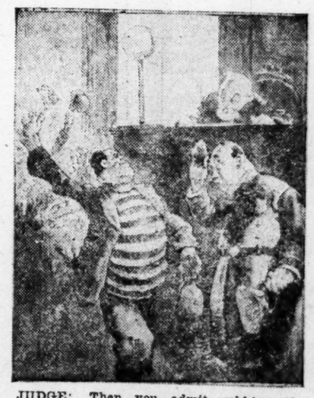

From the New York Post.

NO more hopeful message has come from the South than that brought by Dr. Edwin Mims of Tennessee. In a speech at the Southern Society's annual dinner Dr. Mims frankly admitted that the Southern states are still at the bottom of all statistics that register educational conditions in the country, and that there is not a single university there that has adequate resources for the highest type of graduate work. "These facts," said Dr. Mims, "cannot be gotten around by hifalutin' talk about the beauty of Southern women and the chivalry of Southern men," but he added that there are educational forces at work seeking to bring the South in line with the more advanced states in other sections of the country. As an evidence of the progress made in recent years, Dr. Mims pointed out that "the solid South is no longer a reality—it is breaking." The solidarity of the South has been its greatest drawback. At every national convention, in every national election, the representatives of the South have been herded together and confidently expected to accept anything that the majority decided upon, whether they believed in it or not. Blatant demagogues have battened on this political mobilization to the detriment of the entire South.

THE JOURNALISTIC SPOTLIGHT.

From the Modern World.

WHEN statements designed to influence the relations of this country with Mexico were injected into the press by an official of the State Department who was not quoted and did not accept responsibility, the distinction between the "free press" of America and the "reptile press" of Europe ceased to be very sharp and clear. For its courageous recognition of the clear responsibility of American journalism in casting a sudden bright spotlight on this sinister situation, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch deserves the very highest praise.

CHIC.

(Rondeau.)

A little sheik in Araby
Once loved a maid most ardently.
To win her he'd most surely try.
For her he'd all the world defy!
No other girl would do, thought he.
Adorned in gorgeous finery,
With many bits of jewelry
She would appear to any eye
A little chic.

He gazed at her adoringly
And made a most impassioned plea.
"Dost love me?" was his earnest cry.
She looked at him and in reply
Responded hesitatingly,
"A little, sheik."

"An Amusing Provincial"

THE MIDNIGHT COURT AND THE ADVENTURES OF A LUCKLESS FELLOW. Boni & Liveright.

THESE two rather loutish verse compositions (for they can scarcely be called poems) are of interest chiefly because they were written by an eighteenth century Gaelic versifier, one Brian Mac Giolla Meidhre, and are said to have become a part of the oral literature of the author's countrymen of County Clare. Fortunately the translator, Percy Arland Ussher, seems not to have suppressed any of the rhymer's loose-mouthed exuberance. Had he suppressed all of it, the verses would be impossibly dull. As it is, the compositions are mildly diverting in their crude outspokenness. However, if the author were living and composing now, it is doubtful if he could hope to win even a Dial award for distinguished service to letters.

"The Midnight Court" relates the happenings of a dream in which the author overhears vigorous argument, on the question of the decadence of good old Ireland, between certain representatives of the sexes. A spinster blames the men for not wedding spinsters and there is nothing mealy-mouthed about her sweeping indictment. A lout replies, and what he doesn't say about women is likely never to be said by any but a very brave man. The spinsters win the decision, and the men are to be soundly whipped by the neglected ladies when the dreamer wakes.

W. B. Yeats writes a preface, but he seems far from sharing the enthusiasm of the blurb writer. In his eyes, the eighteenth century rhymer was "an amusing provincial figure."

MAX HAVELAAR, OR THE COFFEE SALES OF THE NETHERLANDS TRADING COMPANY. By Matatuli (Knopf).

"Max Havelaar" first appeared in Holland in 1860, and, being a powerful indictment of Dutch business practices among the natives of Java, it created a great sensation throughout Europe. Its popular success was due chiefly to what we now term muck-raking, and its vogue waned as the practices considered were modified or discontinued. The book has been compared in a general way with "Uncle Tom's Cabin," and some English and German critics have insisted that it is "the one Dutch classic," an appraisal not accepted in Holland. Now that the story no longer bears any significance as a tract pertaining to a particular situation, its satire is seen to admit of general application. In Drystubble, the coffee broker, Multatuli created a character that, in essentials, is not altogether unfamiliar in 1926. There is remarkable vitality in the tale, and the Further Elimination Tests Start Next Week to Reduce Singing Group to 100.

Tentative selection of 300 applicants for the 1927 Municipal Opera chorus was made in elimination tests at the Jefferson Memorial in Forest Park last night. There were 500 aspirants. Further tests will be started next week to reduce the number to 100, from which group a final chorus will be selected in the last week of April. Rehearsals for the first production will start next week.

Officers of the Municipal Theater Association are to visit New York soon to engage new principals for the coming season. The personnel of the full cast will be announced upon their return.

GAY COLORS IN WOMEN'S SHOES

Pastel Shades of Stone, Rosebush and Raisin, to be Popular.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—Pastel shades and often as many as three colors combined in one pair of shoes, will prevail for women's street wear this year, John J. Baird, president of the National Shoe Retailers' Association announces.

"Popular hues will be parchment, stone, rosebush, shell gray, stroller tan, Hampstead brown and Spanish raisin," said Baird.

For the ballroom there will be no limit to the colors, he added. There vivid reds, blues, greens, oranges in all possible combinations will be seen. Materials will include reptile hides, Japanese straw, woven leather, peacock plumage and paisley cloth.

101 NEW WAYS FOR WOMEN TO EARN MONEY. By Ruth Leigh. (Simon & Schuster.)

The author's articles on making money are syndicated throughout the country and she conducts a regular department in the New York World on business questions and income-increasing ideas for women. The purchaser of the book is entitled to personal advice on individual business problems.

YOU'D BETTER CONFESS.

You haven't, you say, confessed? You haven't written an autobiographical novel? My dear sir or madam, you should be ashamed of such sloth and modesty; rush right off and do it tonight and get it away to a publisher in the morning's mail. It is quite the thing to do; everybody's doing it. Any person who has reached the ripe old age of 30 and has had two articles and a short story printed by any magazine, is entitled to the privilege of confessing all over the lot. Entitled to the privilege, did I say? Excuse it, please; it is his sacred duty to himself and a clamoring public.

It really does not matter a very great deal what he has to confess—or confesses—but it is a trifle better, perhaps, if it concerns hoboing. That, at least, is the accepted thing; though itinerant laboring or even a crude form of philandering may serve in a pinch. Confess something. If your experience (or conscience) won't let you confess to roving the country with lice-ridden bindle stiffs, riding blind baggages and brake-beams in greasy jeans, leeringly accepting handouts from buxom country gals, and getting jailed every so often as a vag; why, just confess to spending months or years in one labor camp after another; skinning mules, playing midnight poker by kerosene lamplight, dancing with undressed manicurists, and getting stupid drunk on vile liquor. Anyhow, confess something.—David Warren Ryder, in McNaught's Monthly for January.

DIVINE SERVICE.

"It is surely the mistake of modern criticism," remarks D. H. Lawrence in his introduction to Max Havelaar, "to conceive the public, the man in the street, as the real god, who must be served and flattered by every book that appears, even if it were the Bible. To my thinking, the critic, like a good beadle, should rap the public on the knuckles and make it attend during divine service. And any good book is divine service."

Whoso cannot obey, cannot be free, still less bear rule.—Carlyle.

BAKING POWDER KING TO WED SECOND TIME

Helen Martin Murphy Is Bride of William Ziegler Jr. in New York.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—William Ziegler Jr., young millionaire sportsman, manufacturer and real estate operator, is to be married today to Helen Martin Murphy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Murphy of Troy, N. Y. The ceremony is to be performed in the parsonage of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church. Only the bride's parents, Mrs. William Ziegler, mother of the bridegroom, and Frederick G. Pohndorff, a lifelong friend of Ziegler and his father, will be present.

Ziegler is the adopted son and heir of William Ziegler, the "baking powder king," from whom he inherited a fortune estimated at $20,000,000. He owns much real estate in New York, especially along Park and Fifth avenues. He is president of the Royal Baking Powder Co. and of the Royal Distributing Co. and chairman of the board of the American Maize Products Co.

The bride's father is senior member of the Troy law firm of Murphy, Aldrich & Guy. Her paternal grandfather was the late United States Senator Edward Murphy Jr. Her mother's father was the late Henry Townsend Martin, Albany banker.

Miss Murphy made her debut in New York two years ago.

They are going abroad for a honeymoon, returning to Aiken, S. C., in the spring.

This is Ziegler's second marriage. His first wife, the former Gladys Virginia Watson, to whom he was married in 1912, obtained a divorce in Paris last July. He is 35 years old.

Social Items

MR. AND MRS. IRR A. STEVENS of the Clayton and Conway roads will depart the latter part of January for California to be gone a month. Mrs. Stevens will leave St. Louis Saturday for New York to remain until the following Wednesday.

Lieutenant-Commander and Mrs. Frank Slingluff Jr. and their children, formerly of Annapolis, Md., are making their home in Manila, the Philippines. They lived for a few months in China, until the hostilities there. Commander Slingluff was in command of the U. S. S. Stewart, fired on by the Chinese on the Yangtze River, a few weeks ago. Mrs. Slingluff is a sister of Mrs. J. Edgar Moser of 4444 Maryland avenue and made her home here several years ago.

Another sister, Miss Mimi Floyd-Jones, is in Cannes, France, this winter, with her father, Robert H. Floyd-Jones. Still another sister is Mrs. Hoyt Sherman of Boston, formerly of Tampico, Mexico.

Miss Georgette Madill, daughter of Mrs. Edward S. Robert, formerly of St. Louis, who has been making her home abroad for several years, and is now living in London, departed this week for the Island of Malta, off the coast of Greece, to visit the parents of her fiance, Anthony Mattei, at their home. No definite arangements have been made for the wedding. Mrs. Robert spent Christmas in Paris.

Mrs. Charles Parsons Pettus will be hostess at a dinner party tonight at her home, 33 Westmoreland place, for all the debutantes and their escorts. Mrs. Pettus' daughter, Miss Martha, and her niece, Miss Virginia Simmons, who is visiting her, will be among the guests. Miss Pettus will resume her studies at Byrn Mawr this week, and Miss Simmons returned New Year's eve from Chicago, where she visited friends, to be Mrs. Pettus' guest for the second time this winter. Her mother, Mrs. George Welch Simmons of New York, will arrive today.

Mrs. Pettus' son, Thruston, will leave St. Louis Friday for Hill School in Pottstown, Pa., and Tom Wright Pettus will return to Princeton. Mrs. Pettus will depart Jan. 20 for Palm Beach, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman L. Nulsen of Swon avenue, Webster Groves, and Mr. and Mrs. Karl Weller of San Bonita avenue, De Mun Park, will depart Feb. 15 for New Orleans, to attend Mardi Gras. They will make the trip by motor, and will visit Corpus Christi, Tex., and various other Southern resorts.

Mrs. George K. Hoblitzelle of 6440 Ellenwood avenue and her daughters, Miss Trimble and Miss Eleanor and Mrs. Herbert L. Parker, will leave St. Louis this week for New York, where they will sail Jan. 15 on the Asturias for a world cruise.

An attractive wedding on this morning's social calendar was that of Miss Alice Muckerman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Muckerman of 4464 West Pine boulevard and Charles H. Krause II, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Krause of 71[illegible] Belt avenue, which took place at 11 o'clock at the New Cathedral, Monsignor J. J. Tannrath officiating.

It was a pink and white wedding with white lilacs and snapdragons combined with ferns which decorated the altar, contrasting with the delicate pink worn by the bride's attendants.

Miss Gladys Muckerman was her sister's maid of honor; Miss Lois Engel, Miss Louise Keeshan, Miss Ruth Krause and Miss Virginia Tenk were bridesmaids, and Marie Louise Shields, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leighton Shields and a niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl. The young women were gowned alike in pink chiffon, the skirts made rose petal effect and the bodices in loose blouses with a scarf of chiffon draped across the shoulders to form sleeves and tied in front. They wore close fitting pink ribbon hats and carried roses. The flower girl had a pink chiffon frock velled in net and carried a basket of spring flowers.

The bride was gowned in white satin made on princess lines and adorned with duchesse lace. The train was built into the gown from the waist, a style popular at the present time, and a four-inch band of lace bordered the edge. There were tiny cap cleeves of the lace, and a lace cap from which depended the tulle veil, caught with orange blossoms. She carried lilies of the valley.

Horace Krause was his brothers' best man, and Elliott Whitbread, Earl Giraldin, Paul Oehler, William Prior Shelton of Kansas City, groomsmen.

A reception and breakfast for the bridal party followed at the home of the bride's parents. The house was adorned in pink snapdragons, and the receiving party stood in a bower of the blossoms built in one end of the living room. The guests at the breakfast table, in addition to the bridal party, were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hurley, the latter a sister of the bride. Mrs. Krause gave her attendants cut steel slipper buckles, and the groomsmen received gold-tipped leather wallets. After a wedding trip to Los Angeles and Coronado Beach, Cal., Mr. and Mrs. Krause will reside at 7222 Forsythe boulevard.

Mrs. Thomas E. Stocker of 4265 Flora place has entertained as her guests over the Christmas holidays her brother, Congressman Samuel Rutherford, of Georgia, Mrs. Samuel Rutherford and their daughter, Miss Juliette Rutherford.

Mrs. Stocker plans to visit the Rutherfords in Washington, D. C., early in March, and to motor with them to Georgia and Florida when Congress adjourns.

Miss Dorothy Hopkinson of Boston, who has been visiting Miss Martha Gellhorn, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. George Gellhorn, of 4366 McPherson avenue, has departed with her hostess for Bryn Mawr College, where they will resume their studies.

Miss Susette Heath of Atlanta, Ga., has departed for Sullins College in Virginia, to resume her studies after a Christmas visit with Miss Alice Hoxie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Hoxie of 4542 McPherson avenue.

Mrs. Walter Edward Turner, formerly of Cabanne avenue, who is now making her home with her daughter, Mrs. Henry Giebel in Bronxville, N. Y., is visiting friends in St. Louis this week. She is a guest at Hotel Chase. Mrs. Turner has spent the last two months in Evanston, Ill., with her son, Sheldon K. Turner.

The announcement in the Post-Dispatch last Monday of a party, Sunday afternoon, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Livingston of 40 Kingsbury place, was an error. No invitations had been sent out.

POLICY IN ISSUING PASSPORT VISAS DEFENDED BY KELLOGG

Secretary of State Asserts Each Case Is Individually Considered on Its Merits.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Although it has been criticised by opponents of restricted immigration, Secretary Kellogg holds the view that the State Department's policy in the issuance of passport visas abroad has been manifestly fair.

So the Secretary of State said in a letter to Senator Reed (Rep.) of Pennsylvania, who laid it before the Senate, at the same time expressing the view that the department had been unjustly assailed because of reports from Europe that approximately 1,500,000 potential applicants for nonimmigrant visas were not being accommodated by American consular agents.

In his letter, Kellogg explained that 40,458 persons had been admitted under nonimmigrant visas in the last fiscal year, but that each case was individually considered on its merits.

There are approximately 175,000 European relatives of American residents who might be eligible for admission to the United States, Secretary Kellogg said, but that total represents only a small portion of the 1,449,475 "would-be applicants" for immigration privileges in Europe under the Near East alone as of Jan. 1 last.

In denying a request from Senator Reed for a visa for a person vouched for by the Russian Christian Society, Kellogg advised that any policy which might throw open the doors to Czarist and Christian refugees of Russia also would have to be applied to hundreds of thousands of Christian refugees in Syria, Armenia and other Near East countries, whose combined national quotas are fixed by law at 20,447.

Eczema On Head For Ten Years Cuticura Heals

"Eczema broke out on my head in little, watery pimples and soon spread all over it. My scalp itched so that I scratched it into sore eruptions that scaled over. When I combed my hair my scalp used to bleed and hurt terribly. My hair fell out and was so dry that it used to break off. I could not sleep on account of the itching and burning. The trouble lasted about ten years.

"I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and after a couple of treatments my head was much better. I continued using them and in about a month I was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. Priscilla Bragg, Box 69, W. Jefferson, Ohio.

EVEN IF GUILTY, SENATE CAN'T BAR HIM, GOULD SAYS

Maine Senator, Who Voted for Investigation of Himself, Suddenly Reverses Position.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Senator Arthur R. Gould of Maine seems to have had a change of heart.

The right of Gould to hold the seat to which he was elected in November has been challenged on the ground that 14 years ago, in connection with a railway project in which he was interested, he bribed a high Canadian official with $100,000.

Gould's case is similar to, but not exactly parallel with those of Senators-elect Vare and Smith. All the cases raise the question of what constitutes "qualifications" within the meaning of the constitutional provision that the Senate shall be the sole judge of the qualifications of its members. But the act which forms the basis of the complaint against Gould had no relation to his election to the Senate, whereas the charges against Smith and Vare are directly connected with their election.

Gould, moreover, is in the Senate, while Vare and Smith are still on the outside looking in—and in all human probability will stay there.

The interesting feature of the Gould case for the moment is the attack made by him on the right of the Senate to expel a member for a crime committed prior to his election. Gould denies that he committed a crime, but adds that, even if he did, the Senate has no power to take that fact into consideration in determining his title to a seat.

Gould's First Position.

When Senator Walsh (Dem.), Montana, at the opening of the present session, called the attention of the Senate to the charges against Gould—charges made from the bench by a Canadian Judge—Gould said he would welcome a full investigation. These were his words:

"There is nothing in the subject matter which will embarrass me or from which I should shrink. The question has just been thoroughly discussed in our State election, and I feel that I was sufficiently vindicated by the voters of Maine. If, however, the Senate shall see fit to make another investigation, I shall be pleased to have them do so, as I feel that I shall then be vindicated by the Senate of the United States."

Gould voted for the Walsh resolution which directed the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections to inquire into the truth of the charges and advise the Senate what action it should take.

Under this resolution, adopted by the Senate by a large majority, a subcommittee of the Privileges and Elections Committee yesterday began hearings. Gould immediately, through his attorney, Frederick W. Hinkley, challenged the right of the committee to proceed with the investigation.

Gould's Change of Front.

Gould said, through his attorney, that the investigation could only have the purpose of ascertaining whether there was sufficient evidence to warrant Gould's expulsion. With that preface, he raised the point that the Senate had no constitutional right to expel a member for a pre-election offense, provided that offense had no connection with his election.

Gould said he was confident the Senate would find him blameless, but that nevertheless he was constrained to challenge its jurisdiction and power to make the investigation on the ground that such investigation was in contravention of the rights of the State of Maine and of the right of Gould to sit as a Senator from Maine.

"The Senate having no jurisdiction or authority in the premises," said Gould, through his attorney, "the consent of the said Gould to the investigation cannot confer such jurisdiction or authority upon the Senate."

Beck Cited Approvingly.

A brief filed for Gould contains a long exposition of this weighted with citations going back to the celebrated case of John Wilkes in England under George III. James M. Beck's book, "The Vanishing Rights of the States," which upholds the claims of Smith and Vare to seats in the Senate, is quoted approvingly.

The document concludes with a rhetorical passage criticising the Senate.

"The people," it says, "have been watching investigation after investigation and have been taking into account the large amount of time expended by the members in these investigations and the vast sums of the people's money expended in connection therewith and they have been putting into the other side of the scales the net result of all these investigations. I must say to you, with all candor, that they have necessarily been convinced that the net result of that which it was proposed to accomplish has been practically nil. They have become suspicious of the good faith which actuated many of these proceedings, and many have reached a frame of mind which is inimical to

CATHOLIC GIRLS' COLLEGE PUTS BAR ON SHORT SKIRTS

Fashionable School in New Jersey Threatens Also to Expel Those Who Use Lipstick.

By the Associated Press.

CONVENT STATION, N. J., Jan. 5.—Girls at the College of St. Elizabeth must refrain from rolling their stockings, wearing short skirts and using lipstick under pain of suspension or possible expulsion, Sister Marie Jose, dean of the institution, has informed parents of the students in a letter setting forth the regulations, which, she declares, have been in "almost universal disregard." Sleeveless gowns are forbidden except for formal evening dress.

"The recent public pronouncements of His Holiness and members of the hierarchy on the subject of women's dress do not permit a distinctly Catholic institution to assume an attitude of indifference or condone fashions and practices thus specifically condemned," the letter says.

The college has an enrollment of 300 students, many of them daughters of families of wealth and social prestige.

the best interests of the country."

Why Gould Changed His Mind.

The brief declares that the questioning of the right of a sovereign State to determine for itself the qualifications of its representatives in the Senate has brought on as great a crisis as has arisen since the writing of the Constitution.

"It is true," the brief says, "that Senator Gould asked for this investigation, but he has come to the conclusion that the issue involved is greater than any personal desire on his part and that he owes a duty to his State and to his constituents which is paramount to his own."

Wherefore, the brief prays that the Senate say no more about the matter, and thereby save time and expense, as the Senate would have no constitutional right to remove Senator Gould, even though the charges should be proved.

Argument Continued Today.

Hinckley told the committee today that if the Maine case were settled "the wrong way some day some sovereign State is going to ask the Supreme Court if the Senate has authority to expel a member whom the State has elected, and that will settle the case."

He explained, however, that this assertion was only a prophecy, and had no reference to the Gould case.

Opening the argument for the prosecution, Senator Walsh, whose resolution started the inquiry, urged the committee "not to be swerved from its duty by any threat that the Supreme Court may take action in the case."

He declared it was for the Senate to decide if it had authority to conduct the investigation, and the Senate had already given the committee a mandate to investigate.

$4200 Holdup in Chicago Home.

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—Gaining entrance to the home of Edward T. Beatty, owner of two South Side Theaters, on the pretext of delivering some packages, two robbers bound and gagged two Negro maids and ransacked the house, fleeing with jewelry and clothing valued at $4200.

Nurse Files $50,000 Assault Suit

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. Jan. 5.—John C. Daley, superintendent of the Union Printers' Home here, is named defendant in a $50,000 damage suit filed by Helen Grant, a former nurse at the institution, in District Court. The plaintiff charges attempted assault. Through his attorney, Daley denied the charges, declaring the suit was an outgrowth of internal politics within the institution and in the International Typographical Union, which maintains the home.

Better than Soda for Stomach Gas

PEOPLE who use soda or magnesia for gas on the stomach, sour stomach and indigestion know that these give but very temporary relief. The gas and sourness may be removed for a short time, but soon returns because the cause still remains. Recent discoveries made by medical specialists show that gas and sour stomach are nearly always due to just one cause—Intestinal Stasis.

Intestinal Stasis

THIS insidious disease, specialists tell us, is caused by faulty diet and lack of proper exercise, and afflicts three people out of every four.

Intestinal Stasis means the too slow movement of waste food matter through the intestines. By remaining too long in the bowels, this matter ferments, forms gas and poisons, and is the cause of gas bloating and pains, sour stomach, dyspepsia, dizzy spells and nervousness.

Even if the bowels move daily, enough old matter may be left to ferment, cause stomach gas, and poison the system. Only by continued, REAL intestinal cleansing of both upper and lower bowel can lasting relief be secured.

Dr. Carl Weschcke, in his private practice, perfected and first used the bowel cleanser and intestinal prophylactic now known as Adlerika. Adlerika is a compound of the best saline intestinal evacuant with vegetable buckthorn and cascara, together with glycerine and other gas-expelling and detergent elements. Unlike other medicines, it acts upon BOTH upper and lower bowel.

Relieves Gas Quickly

RELIEF from stomach gas, gas pains and bloating, is felt almost instantly after Adlerika is taken, unless due to malformations or other deep-seated causes. ONE spoonful often brings out an amazing amount of old poisonous matter which you never thought was in your system, and which may have been the hidden cause of gas, indigestion, nervousness or sleeplessness.

Even if your bowels move every day, Adlerika frequently brings out an astonishing amount of additional matter which might otherwise be poisoning your system.

Adlerika is recognized by many physicians as the one dependable remedy for Intestinal Stasis and stomach gas, or whenever a thorough bowel cleansing is needed. No matter what you have tried for your stomach and bowels, Adlerika will surprise you.

"In my 50 years' practice I have found nothing to excel Adlerika."—Dr. James Weaver.

"I suffered with intestinal stasis and gas. Soda or magnesia helped me very little. I got relief from the first dose of Adlerika, and since taking it, I eat almost anything, sleep well and gained weight."—Mrs. Chas. Rhodes, Yakima, Wash.

"Both my wife and myself suffered a great deal from indigestion and gas. Soda would give some relief, but Adlerika has done us more good than anything we have tried."—Charles Slaven, Terre Haute, Ind.

"ENFORCE DRY LAW," GOV. SMITH TELLS SHERIFFS

New York Executive Threatens to Remove Peace Officers Who Ignore Federal Statute.

By the Associated Press.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 5.—Gov. Smith, in his annual message to the Legislature today, urged that Congress be memoralized to take immediate action to the end that "harmless beverages which our people have enjoye for more than a century may be restored to them."

While advocating modification of the Volstead act, the Governor said that until such modification is effective, the Federal liquor laws are as much laws of this State as any State statute, and must be enforced.

"I again warn Sheriffs and peace officers generally," he said, "that it is their sworn duty to enforce these laws. Failure to perform this duty I will consider as serious an offense as a failure to enforce the State statutes, and when laid before me, supported by proper and competent testimony, I will exercise without fear or favor the power of removal wherever it is vested in me."

"At the recent election," said the Governor, "there was submitted to a referendum of the people the question of whether or not they desired a modification of the Federal statute giving force and effect to the eighteenth amendment of our Federal Constitution. By 1,164,586 majority the people of the State of New York voted for modification of the statute.

"I believe that the duty now rests upon the Legislature to pass suitable resolutions conveying in a formal manner the result of that vote to the Congress of the United States and memorializing it on behalf of the State of New York to enact at the earliest moment a sane, sensible, reasonable definition of what constitutes an intoxicant under the eighteenth amendment, so that harmless beverages which our people have enjoyed for more than a century may be restored to them."

The Governor said an analysis of the requests of the various state departments for appropriation indicated that the burden of the taxpayers would be lightened "very much along the lines adopted at the last session of the Legislature," when a substantial cut in the personal income tax payments was made.

The Governor recommended that a conference of State and Federal officials be called to make arrangements for the construction of an all-American canal from Lake Ontario to the Hudson River. He urged abolition of motion picture censorship and a 48-hour law for women and minors in industry.

CITY PLAN HEADS RE-ELECTED

E. J. Russell and A. S. Langsdorf to Continue to Direct Commission.

E. J. Russell was re-elected chairman of the City Plan Commission, and A. S. Langsdorf, head of the department of industrial research at Washington University, was re-elected vice chairman, at a meeting of the commission last night at Melbourne Hotel.

A proposed plan for a driveway open to business vehicles through Tower Grove Park, connecting Morganford road, which is to be widened, on the south, with Tower Grove avenue, on the north, was taken under advisement. A real estate company offered to sell 15 acres near Clara avenue and Morris place to the city for a playground.

Defer Tariff Board Nominations.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Investigation of the Tariff Commission will be resumed by the special Senate Investigating Committee Monday. Meanwhile, Chairman Robinson (Dem.), Arkansas, says the Senate will be requested to defer consideration of nominations for membership on the commission until after the investigation. Commissioners Brossard and Lowell are expected to testify Monday.

Stabbed by Neuritis!

Many people suffer attacks by this arch fiend, commonly called "nerve inflammation." The first warning is usually a sharp, stabbing pain, which may "come and go" or hurt constantly. You may feel it in the shoulder, neck, forearm, small of the back or down the thigh and leg to the heel. It is sometimes mistaken for sciatica, rheumatism or neuralgia, which troubles often do end in neuritis.

No matter where you have nerve pains or what caused them, you can get quick relief without using narcotics or poisons. Apply Tysmol over the part that hurts and the pain will soon be gone.

Tysmol is absorbed through the pores of the skin. It has a soothing, healing effect upon the diseased nerves, gradually helping to restore them to healthy condition.

Don't suffer any longer. Get a supply of Tysmol (at Wolff-Wilson Drug Stores, Walgreen Drug Co. or any other good drug store. Price $1. Mail orders accepted. Tysmol Company, Mfg. Chemists, 400 Sutter St., San Francisco.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product for only 75 cents. It is improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft luster and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

Don't Risk Croup!

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula of Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative mixed with olive oil. No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation—you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards's Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them—15c, 30c, 60c.

Babson says:—

"The effect of mere publicity is wearing off."

Is it?

Probably the best definition of "mere publicity," is advertising that has no real merchandising plan in it. If that's what Babson means, we agree with him.

That type of advertising is a habit hang-over of the days when all that was necessary for advertising success was to keep one's name before the public.

Something more than that is needed in these days, when not only products are competing with products, but advertising is competing with advertising for attention.

That "something more," in our opinion, is the most important phase of advertising work—the real basis of advertising success.

That "something more" is merchandising ideas built into and made a part of the advertising.

One of our clients recently said to us:—

"It is quite evident from the attitude of our salesmen that your advertising work has a real selling plan built into it. Before you took hold of our advertising, our salesmen exhibited our advertising simply 'to show what our company was doing'. Now they not only do that but they use the material in the advertising itself as a basis for their sales talks, because they recognize it has real selling in advertising form"

This is only a minor phase that shows the importance of having something more than simply publicity in your advertising work.

The main reason is to make your advertising more effective in moving merchandise.

That is the reason why our advertising work is always built on a merchandising basis instead of a publicity basis.

From our twenty years of experience, we could give you many actual examples of what this different, standard of advertising work could do for you.

SENATE TO BLOCK BAKER'S PLAN TO DROP STEPHENS

Democratic Majority to Retaliate by Refusing to Confirm Other Appointees of Governor.

TO DEMAND ENTIRE LIST AT ONCE

Highway Commissioner Has Offended the Executive by Refusing to Politicalize Department.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 5.—Gov. Baker's reported intention to penalize Hugh Stephens, a Democratic member of the State Highway Commission, who a month ago blocked his scheme to politicalize the department, is to be met by the Democratic majority in the State Senate with a retaliatory move. The Senate proposes to refuse to confirm other appointees of the Governor until he submits to it Stephens' name.

It will be recalled that the Governor ordered the commissioners to select former Supreme Judge Otto for counsel of the Highway Department, and H. H. Lotter for chief engineer. The demand for Otto was solely political, and that of Lotter a mixture of politics and personal friendship. Both Otto and Lotter are Republicans.

The commission, under the leadership of Stephens, took the position that to permit the Governor to inject politics into the organization of the Highway Department would mean the wrecking of the organization and the loss of public confidence in the integrity of the commission to the end that irreparable damage would result to the State road program.

Governor in Ill Humor.

The Governor was obdurate and insisted to the last that his orders be carried out, and was in exceedingly ill humor with the commission because of its refusal to obey.

Recently in making public a compilation of the officers he had filled by appointment during vacation of the Senate, the Governor told newspaper men that he was under no obligation to send into the Senate the names on the list, and that it was within his power to substitute other names wherever he desired. This was construed to mean that he had it in mind to withdraw his appointment of Stephens, a construction which he has sought to change. In fact, when questioned specifically on the matter, he has refused to discuss it.

That he has under consideration a method by which he might gain an upper hand of the Senate, the Governor has indicated it will be his plan to send his appointments to the Senate in small batches, thus trying to bring about the confirmation of Dr. Cortez Enloe, president of the State Prison Board, and others before sending in his appointments to the Highway Commission.

Democratic Senate leaders today said the Governor would find himself blocked if this was his intention. The Senate will refuse to confirm any appointees until all are sent in. One of the more influential Democratic Senators said:

"We have not the slightest desire to interfere with the Governor's right to make appointments, and would not think of doing it so long as the Governor complies with the spirit of the law. The State Highway Commission is supposed to be nonpolitical. It is supposed to be conducted along business, not political, lines, and it has been so conducted.

"But we have had a situation in which the Governor has sought to inject politics into it, to force the commission to become a mere political tool to be used by the Governor in paying his political debts. We are informed that there are evidences that he intends at the last minute to appoint somebody other than Hugh Stephens to the commission because Stephens refused to take the Governor's political orders.

"There can be little doubt that we are not going to stand for that. The Governor can send in Stephens' name along with the rest of his appointees, or the Senate will not confirm any of them. I feel that I am safe in asserting that neither Dr. Enloe nor any other of the Governor's appointees will be confirmed until we have Stephens' name before us.

"The Governor should bear in mind that if the Senate adjourns without confirming his appointees they cannot legally serve and the State Auditor cannot legally pay their salaries if they are continued in office.

"We hope the issue will not be raised and believe when the Governor thinks it over that he will realize that public opinion will not support him, and that when the time comes he will send in all the names in a routine manner as previous Governors have done."

Way to Force Governor's Hand.

There has been discussion among the senators of another way to force the Governor's hand, through a refusal to provide funds for salaries of some officials. Under the law salaries cannot legally be paid after Jan. 1 until the appropriation bills are passed late in March.

It has been the custom to get around this by the passage of a resolution by the Legislature directing the Auditor to audit and the Treasurer to pay salaries and other accounts of the several departments, and pledging the members to make the appropriations.

If the Legislature should exclude from this resolution any official or department, he or it would be compelled to wait until the appropriation bills were passed before funds would be available.

Baker Interested in Enloe.

The Governor is more interested in the confirmation of Dr. Enloe than that of any other official. Undoubtedly his name will be among those sent first to the Senate, but the Senate need not act on it until the closing day of the Legislature if it cares to postpone action.

The administration is anxious to avoid a Senate investigation of conditions at the penitentiary, and it is not likely there will be such an investigation unless the Governor goes through with his reported intention to punish Stephens. If he does it is almost certain that the Senate will make Enloe's appointment the excuse for a searching inquiry into many rumors concerning Enloe's management of the prison.

WASHINGTON DEFEATS ST. LOUIS U. BASKETBALL TEAM, 35 TO 24

5500 PERSONS SEE QUINTETS IN FIRST TILT

Everything Goes Along Smoothly at Game—Heinrichs Proves Star of Contest for Winners.

By Jack Alexander.

Washington and St. Louis University officials are gazing upon creation this morning through rose-colored glasses following last night's "reunion" basketball game at the Washington Field House. Washington won, 35 to 24. It was the first time the schools had met, willingly, since 1921, when the Thanksgiving day football game ended in a tie. They met at the Coliseum in 1924 at the behest of Olympic Fund officials, and it ended in what some have referred to as a riot.

Last night's affair was pleasing to everyone, including the athletic departments and the public. About 5500 persons attended, according to the figures of Artie Eilers, Washington U. business manager. Of these, 2000 were paid attendance and the remainder student tickets. It was the best crowd Washington has had since they met Kansas at the Coliseum two years ago in the heat of a Valley race.

Nothing marred the evening, and persons standing by the telephone booths with nickels clutched in sweaty palms, ready to call the police, were badly disappointed. Not a skull was cracked. The bands of both schools were on hand to fill the intermissions and the old familiar yells filled the field house. Razzing of the officials was mild and not flagrant enough to draw penalty.

Very Little Back-Slapping.

On the other hand, there was not much mutual back-slapping or forced smiling. Both sides were sanguine and carried off the situation in a way which should go a long way toward maintaining the new alliance. The straightforward manners of Doc Edmunds and Bob Mathews seemed to permeate the atmosphere, and as long as these two are on the job, St. Louis is fairly certain of retaining its favorite athletic exhibitions.

Nothing can take the place of a Billiken-Bear game in this town. However faulty the play may be in a technical sense, it is always a spiritual success. Last night's game was a case in point. St. Louis U. was counted out several weeks before the game started, but dashed away with the lead and held on to it for most of the first half, when the Bears spurted to hold the lead at the half mark, 17 to 13. The Billikens again put up their backs in the second half and fought up to a 22-20 count, but the Bears finally hit a better stride and won going away.

Heinrichs Proves Star.

A distinct advantage in height favored the Bears, but the superiority in experience was not so much as had been advertised. Capt. Hutton was the only letter man in the opening lineup, and Eckert played in the second half. Several others were on the reserve list last year, but in general the team is considered pretty green.

The Billiken squad was thoroughly green and the showing the team made bore out the advance notices about the new coach, "Squinty" Hunter. It was a very creditable exhibition and enough to keep the issue in doubt up to the last minute. In Pope and Steinger, Hunter showed a neat pair of forwards who need only a bit more seasoning. Knight is already a good guard, and Fitzgerald goes nicely at center.

Heinrichs proved a surprise for Washington. This forward, never much except in practice, showed the best eye on the team and scored 13 points, the high mark for the evening. Rippetoe, at running guard, also showed unexpected talent. Hutton was in good form, and Kurs at guard played effectively.

Next Game on Feb. 15

The next game is scheduled to be played at the new Billiken gymnasium Feb. 15, but the lacale may be changed due to the numbers in which the public turns out for these affairs. The gym seats less than 4000 persons.

Choynski Says Short Round Cost Him Victory In Fitzsimmons Bout

"Kayoed" Ruby Robert in Third, but Record Books Show That Contest Was Recorded as Five-Round Draw.

JOE CHOYNSKI.

THE DAYS OF FINISH FIGHTS.

By Joseph B. Choynski.

CHAPTER XIII.

AS I write these recollections I find myself constantly remembering knockouts that had entirely escaped my memory. I mean, of course, knockouts of men of little or no ring knowledge—strong, tough fellows with plenty of confidence and ambition, but no match for one of my skill and wallop.

By this time I had fully mastered ring science. I had developed an unerring judgment of distance and had become expert in hitting a moving target. I had studied and analyzed the work of every skilful boxer I had seen and had adopted their best features.

In 1892 I fought "Australian Jimmy" Ryan at New York, knocking him out in seven rounds; Jack Dalton in Chicago, stowing him away in the third round; George Godfrey at Coney Island, flattening him in the fifteenth round, and Joe Godfrey at Philadelphia, ending his misery in the first minute of the first round.

After my marriage at Cincinnati to Miss Louise Anderson Miller, my next important match was with Rob Fitzsimmons, which took place the following year. It was a great battle—a contest of wits as well as punching power.

Floors Bob Fitzsimmons

I FLOORED Fitz for the count in the third round of our battle, but was robbed of the decision. The record books do not credit me with this knockout; they tell you that the fight was stopped in the fifth round by police interference and that the referee called it a draw.

I don't think Fitzsimmons was a party to the proceedings whereby I was robbed. The fight was held in Music Hall, Boston, on Bunker Hill Day, June 17, 1894.

I had seen Fitz several times in battle, had seconded him in important fights and felt that I knew his bag of tricks. It had been interesting to me, a fellow knockout artist, to observe Fitz purposely leading short to lure a foe closer and make him careless so he could hand him the works.

I can see the crafty gladiator now as he stood opposite me that night waiting for the bell, his little semi-bald head set down low under the protection of his high shoulders, his eyes gleaming brilliantly like blue flames as he studied me. Fitz never tried any goat-getting. In fact, he didn't have to. Most of his opponents entered the ring with him scared half to death.

Both Start Cautiously

THE bell finally rang and we began feeling each other out. I saw that Bob was as cautious as I. The first and seconds rounds were fairly even. Both of us had been shaken by punches, but no real damage had been done. Once Fitz stung me with a left jolt to the nose.

Then came the third round and the fireworks began. We fiddled and feinted, trying to pull one an other out. Bob began shuffling his feet, edging his left foot steadily forward, a characteristic Fitzsimmons maneuver. Instinct told me he was setting the stage for a lightning double lead, a left for the body or head, followed by a darting, good-night crusher to the jaw.

Quick as a flash I decided to break it up with an offensive. I started a swishing right high stopped it suddenly as Bob worked the Jem Mace head shift, then hooked a terrific left over to his ear. He fell flat on his back.

Capt. Jack Dalton, the referee, started to count: "One, two—keep away, Choynski—three, four—there will be no more counting while you are close"—and so on the old army game over again. Just before 10 was reached the bell rang with the round just one minute and 45 seconds old, according to my timekeeper.

Bout Ordered Stopped.

FITZ was assisted to his corner. I learned afterward that the bell had been rung at the behest of Capt. Glori of the Newark (N. J.) police department. Glori was then acting as Fitz's manager.

Feeling that I had Fitz where another minute or two would give me time to flatten him, I offered little protest. But he had amazing recuperative powers and the opening of the fourth round saw him completely restored and coming at me like a tiger. The fighting became fast. Both of us were bloody. In the middle of the fifth round Fitz caught me a stiff uppercut and sent me to my knees.

Again the bell rang under police instructions. The party was getting too rough for Boston. The fight was ordered stopped and the referee pronounced it a draw.

Several days after the fight I met Fitz on the street and we fell to discussing the battle like a couple of lawyers chinning over a tilt in court.

Qualifying Round Coast Tourney to Be Played Today

36 Holes of Competition Will Cut Field for $10,000 Event to 128.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 5.—Six Los Angeles golf courses teemed with activity today as the hour approached for the preliminaries to the $10,000 open tournament. Nearly 300 players, both amateur and professional, representing the best from 26 states, England and Canada, were entered.

Thirty-six holes of qualifying play on the courses of the Los Angeles, Brentwood, California, Wiltshire, Midwick and Hillcrest Country Clubs will determine before night the 128 players to qualify for the start in the 72 holes of play at El Caballero Country Club Friday. About 40 of these 128 already are chosen, these being the foreign players and leaders in the national open and local champion tournaments of the past year who are exempt from qualifying play by virtue of their past performances.

These topnotchers are practicing on other courses. Out of the 128 players who qualify for the entry list, only 64 will get into the final 36-hole championship flight Sunday. That field will comprise the 64 low scores and ties at the end of the first 36 holes at Caballero, 18 of which will be played Friday, and 18 Saturday.

The one-day interval in the play, Thursday, will be devoted to practice on the various courses.

The El Caballero Country Club offers a real championship par 72 course, 36 out and 36 in. Its record was set last Nov. 19 by Jack Tarrant, professional at the club, who then went over it in 66. Greens are in excellent shape, a bit fast now after the cold weather, but with rising temperatures prevailing it promises to offer its best challenge to the entrants.

ST. LOUIS U. FRESHMEN AND SHURTLEFF PLAY TONIGHT IN NEW GYM

The St. Louis University freshman basketball squad, which has been causing havoc in one of the Municipal League divisions, will play its first college game tonight against Shurtleff College of Alton. The contest will be at the new St. Louis U. gymnasium, Spring and West Pine, starting at 8 o'clock.

As in football, the Billiken basketball material for the current year is generally considered superior to that of the varsity. Ham Strong, who made the national Catholic intersholastic five last year while at St. Louis U. High, is paired off with Barney Oldfield at the forward positions. Joe Lintzenich, fullback on the frosh gridiron squad, has lots of rough-cut power and is shaping down nicely at one of the guards. Others who will be watched are McAtee, Joyce, Juergens, Haessly and Boyle. Fifteen men are on the squad.

Recently the freshmen hung up a record score in the Municipal League by trimming the Typos, 94 to 14. Coach Hunter used reserves in the second half. Later they beat the Turners, 50 to 7.

THREE WRESTLERS ARE HANDED SUSPENSIONS

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—Three wrestlers were suspended last night by the Illinois Athletic Commission for unsatisfactory work in matches preliminary to the Ed "Strangler" Lewis-Wayne "Big" Munn bout at the Coliseum.

Marin Plestina, once rated as a contender for the world's heavyweight championship, and John Freberg, a Chicago heavyweight, were suspended for 30 days for stalling in their match.

Raffaela Grenna, an Italian heavyweight, was suspended indefinitely for failure to get into condition.

Ray Rychell, Chicago bantamweight fighter, drew a 60-day suspension for failing to make the required weight for his match with Midget Smith Dec. 28.

Eddie Burke in Bout Tonight

135-Pound Titleholder Will Box in Feature of Garrick Amateur Show.

The regular Wednesday night amateur fight card at the Garrick Theater tonight has 24 entries in the various weight classes. Most of the athletic associations of the city are represented by one or more boxers.

Eddie Burke, present Western A. A. U. champion in the 135-pound class, will fight in the windup and his opponent will be selected from the entries of Bob Shea, who is fighting with no club affiliations; Eddie Mitchell of Sherman Park and Russell Hemenway or Thomas Powell of the People's Motor Bus Athletic Club. The motor bus people also have entered Harold Rose in the 112-pound class and William Hakeman in the 147-pound class.

There will be six bouts. Harry Sharpe will referee all bouts.

CONCORDIA WILL PLAY CAPE TEACHERS FRIDAY

Ernest Kuechle has been chosen as captain of the Concordia basketball team. The season will start Friday when the State Teachers' College from Cape Girardeau will be the opponent. The game will be played in the Armory at Grand boulevard and Market street. The Concordia lineup is as follows: Kuechle, lg; Reinke, rg; Woerling, or Eugene, c; Chueaza, lf; Wolters, rf. Substitutes: Schmidt, L. Mahl and T. Mahl.

Tragos to Meet Pope.

George Tragos and Eddie Pope will meet in a wrestling match tomorrow night at Sutton Theater in Maplewood. The first fall will be decided by catch-as-catch-can holds, the second by jiu-jitsu grips, and the third, if one is necessary, by catch-as-catch-can. The bout will be in connection with the regular performance.

Londos to Test Canadian Star In Bout Tonight

Wrestler Jack Taylor Reported to Have Beaten Greek Rival Six Years Ago.

An opportunity to square accounts with a rival grappler who defeated him six years ago and also to further his campaign for a world championship match with Joe Stecher, will be presented Jimmy Londos when he meets Jack Taylor of Canada in the headline event of three mat features at the New Coliseum tonight.

The affair will mark the introductory appearance in St. Louis of the Canadian grappler, who is credited with a long list of triumphs which includes decisions over Wladek Zbyszko, a former champion, "Tiger John" Pesek of Ravenna, Neb., and Marin Plestina, the Jugo-Slav "Tarzan."

Although he is a trifle over six feet tall and weighs 215 pounds, Taylor is reported to be one of the most agile athletes in the game.

Londos Shows Good Form.

Londos, last month, won over Dick Daviscourt, in a match here. The Greek champion has not lost a bout since his defeat by Champion Stecher, last February. In two subsequent bouts with Stecher at Los Angeles, Cal., he was credited with draws owing to the fact that time restrictions prevented them from battling to a finish.

The semi-windup of tonight's card will feature Paul Jones of Los Angeles, and John Maxos, a Greek heavyweight, in an elimination tryout. Jones scored a spectacular triumph over Roy Steele in a previous local match while Maxos defeated Jack Roller and Herman Webber in other tests.

Barton Meets Steele.

Ernest Barton of San Antonio, Tex., and Roy Steele of Seattle, Wash., will meet in the curtain-raiser. Steele is substituting for Renato Gardini, Italian heavyweight, who has withdrawn from the card on account of illness, according to an announcement by Tom Packs, the promoter.

Harry S. Sharpe is slated to referee the main event while John C. Meyer has been designated to officiate in the semifinal and Harry Cook in the curtain-raiser. The two preliminary bouts will be contested over the one-fall route with a time limit of one hour.

MISS COLLETT WILL PLAY IN TWO EVENTS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Miss Glenna Collett's plans for winter competition, disclosed today, include participation in only two major fixtures, the Bahamas tournament at Nassau late this month and the North and South championship at Pinehurst, N. C., in March.

The former national women's champion will sail for Nassau Jan. 14, she said, accompanied by Mrs. John Renwich, Miss Rosamond Sherwood, Mrs. Norman K. Toerge of New York and Mrs. Fred C. Letts of Chicago.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Tunney's Next Foe.

WAR drums announcing Gene Tunney's first defense of his world's championship title will begin beating in St. Louis, tonight. Tex Rickard, of Reno, Goldfield and New York, is advancing on the town with a few able tom-tom beaters, Tunney's manager, Billy Gibson, and other persons notable in professional pugilism.

Tunney, with a lot of eclat and no little expense, will be solicited to sign for his first title match as defending champion. Before the spectacular Mr. Rickard departs for New York we will probably know whether Jack Dempsey, Jack Delaney or some other heavyweight will get the coveted opportunity.

• • •

Who Tunney's opponent will be depends something on the ability of the available heavyweights, but more on their drawing powers.

Jack Delaney, light heavyweight champion, and Jack Dempsey, former world champion, look like the very fattest of all the gate attractions, with Dempsey having the shade.

Dempsey, it is believed, has been about won over to the thought of fighting two bouts next year—one with the winner of an elimination tourney, the other with the champion—if he wins the first fight.

• • •

Should Fight Several Times.

IT doesn't make much difference what man Tunney fights next September. What really matters is how many fights he engages in before the crucial one.

Tunney is facing the problem all fighters confront: Whether to take it easy and do the least fighting for the most money, or to step out and practice the profession that brought him into the public eye. Taking the parasitic profits of the movie and the stage proves the more attractive to most boxers.

Tunney will probably not fight again until he defends his title and therein he will be making a mistake.

One fight a year does not keep any boxer tuned up properly. Instead of progressing in his profession, he stands still while some of the ambitious new-comers are gaining experience enough to wrest his title from him.

Should Tunney box three or four times this year, against fairly strong opponents, he should have no trouble taking care of the present crop of rivals. There is a temptation to believe, however, that he would a bit rather meet the waning and ambitionless Dempsey than the coming and more youthful Delaney.

Overemphasis?

THERE is a strong tendency to sneer at major league baseball's honesty, because of the developments of the past few days.

In this connection the outstanding fact seems to be that, so far as the PROMOTERS of the game are concerned, there has been no scandal. The offenders have been the PLAYERS.

It would be just as fair to condemn one of our great banks because of the peculations of some of its employes as to condemn all organized baseball for the recent disclosures.

The owners and the men in whose hands rest the maintenance of clean play have done much and faced some truly perplexing situations. They have done what they could to clean up the game—and still are doing it.

One owner alone lost playing assets which today would be valued at more than half a million dollars, when the Black Sox scandal of 1919 wrecked the careers of his various high priced stars, Cicotte, Jackson, Risberg, Weaver, Williams and others. It took nerve to face the sacrifice Comiskey had to make in 1920.

The Salary Problem.

SAM BREADON, as with all pennant-winning club owners, faces the problem of satisfying their old and new players with contracts for the coming season.

Frankie Frisch is going to ask $20,000 a year; members of the old guard will all demand a substantial raise in pay. Hold-over contracts are rare, on the Cardinal team.

A satisfied ball player is a real asset. Sometimes it pays to sign on the dotted line on the chance that the ball player will deliver again at the same pace he set the year before.

Far better and fairer would seem to be a bonus plan, dependent on what the club and player himself accomplish. It is certain that no club dare speculate heavily on a continuance of title success for three years, when it comes to make up its salary budget.

Sarazen Wins Tourney.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 5.—Gene Sarazen, winner of the Miami open last week, added the annual Miami Beach open golf title to his winter record here yesterday, beating Jock Hutchison of Chicago by four strokes for the 72 holes. Sarazen's score was 277.

RICKARD PROMOTER TO MAKE AN OFFER FOR TITLE BOUT

Hopes to Sign Dempsey's Conqueror for July Date; Has Mentioned no Special Opponent for Champion.

Tex Rickard, New York boxing promoter, will arrive in St. Louis at 5:10 o'clock this evening. The Eastern promoter is coming here for a conference with world's champion Gene Tunney. He will make the titleholder an offer for a bout next July. Rickard is bidding against Humbert Fugazy, Brooklyn promoter, who recently made, what Tunney himself admitted was a "very liberal" offer for a match next summer.

Rickard, before his departure from New York last night, would not mention any special opponent for the world's champion, but intimated that the trip might prove more successful than he had hoped. He has been exchanging telegrams with Tunney for several days.

"For one thing," Rickard said, "the journey will be a flying trip. We will be back in time for the Morgan-McGraw bout in the Garden on Friday night. Tunney will greet us in St. Louis and we will waste little time in getting down to business.

"I hope to get Tunney to agree to two bouts. In the event he does there are four outstanding heavyweights, any of whom I feel sure the public will agree with me is worthy for a chance at the title. "I will fire at him three Jacks and a Jim—Delaney, Sharkey and Dempsey. Jim Maloney will be my reserve man."

Rickard added that he may juggle things about so as to bill Tunney in a July bout which will act as a semifinal to a world's championship battle in September, both contests to take place at the Yankee Stadium.

Gibson to Attend Conference.

The fact that Billy Gibson, manager of Tunney, is with the party coming to St. Louis with Rickard, interested many friends of the man who put Benny Leonard on the map years ago.

It was feared that Gibson and Tunney might have come to the parting of the ways, because Tunney seemed to be doing most of his own negotiating.

The fact that no conference was held when Tunney was in New York only a week ago, with Gibson on the ground, also lent color to the local belief that manager and fighter might have separated.

In a telegram to the sports editor of the Post-Dispatch, filed two or three days ago, Gibson said in part: "I know you will be impressed with the new heavyweight champion. Tunney, I believe, outside of being the greatest heavyweight champion of all times, is also one of the best assets the boxing game and other sports have ever had."

This utterance seems to preclude the possibility of friction between manager and fighter.

BOBBY JONES WILL NOT DEFEND BRITISH TITLE

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 5.—The change in the date of this year's British open golf championship will not alter Bobby Jones' decision not to defend his title. He made this declaration last night in reiterating that his law studies at Emory University here and business interests would prevent him from devoting sufficient time to preparation for the event.

There is one cigarette, and only one, which has been among the top five of all brands, every year since 1906!

Takes a top-notcher to turn in a record like that. Apparently, too, it takes the taste of Virginia tobacco straight—for Piedmont wins on taste, and Piedmont is all golden Virginia tobacco!

Women to Form Exclusive Club

Miss Collett, Former Golf Champion, in Charge of Organization.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Organization of a new country club exclusively for women, situated in Westchester County between Greenwich, Conn., and Bedford, N. Y., has been announced by Miss Glenna Collett of Providence, former national champion. It will be known as the Women's Westchester Golf and Tennis Club and if present plans materialize will be opened formally by the summer of 1928.

The club will be the second of its kind in the country and modelled somewhat after its predecessor, the Women's National Golf and Tennis Club of Glen Head, Long Island. It is the hope of women golfers, Miss Collett explained, that such organizations as these will form the foundation for a nation-wide group of clubs offering adequate facilities for holding future women's championship events.

The Westchester Club's membership goal is 300 but building operations will start, Miss Collett said, as soon as 150 are enrolled. She expects that by May ground will be broken for the 18-hole golf course to be laid out on the 150-acre tract obtained. The course will measure between 6000 and 6200 yards, a distance more suited to feminine players than the regulation men's championship courses, which average around 6500 yards. It has been designed by Devereu Emmet, who also laid out the women's national.

The first 100 members of the new club will become "founders." Miss Marie Jenney, former metropolitan champion, and Mrs. Henry Topping of New York are among those interested with Miss Collett in the project.

BEAR SWIMMING TEAM TO OPPOSE ILLINOIS SQUAD ON SATURDAY

A Washington U. swimming team of 12 men will depart for Urbana, Ill., Saturday morning, where they meet the Illini tank men in a meet in the new University of Illinois pool.

Final selection of the Bear relay teams had not been completed this morning but Coach Ellers had decided on a majority of the swimmers he will use. In the 200-yard dash relay, Power, Ledbetter and Specht are sure to start, with the fourth selection lying between Capt. Baer and Cohn. In the medley relay McArdle, Heldeman and either Powers or Specht are the entrys.

Varsity men who will figure for Washington are Capt. Baer, national junior champion, who will swim the 440-yard dash and possibly in the relay. McArdle, Valley breast stroke champion, will be entered in that event, while Specht, former titleholder in the same event, will make his debut in the dashes and possibly in the medley relay. Power, last year's sophomore star, will again swim the shorter distances, while Cohn will be entered in the 440. Millstone is entered in the dive.

From the additions to the squad through the sophomore class, a new backstroke star has been found in Heldeman, with Langenohl, diver, and Brenner, breast-stroker, also showing well. Jonas, reserve diver from last year, and another backstroke entrant, either Marshall or Barngrove, will complete the squad.

25 Boxers Enter Amateur Tourney

Nine of the Preliminary South Broadway Show Entrants Rated Class A.

Twenty-five amateur boxers, ranging from 112 to 160 pounds in weight, have filed entries for the open events of tomorrow night's fistic tournament at the South Broadway A. C. Nine of the preliminary candidates are rated as class A boxers in the Western A. A. U. district records. Contestants in the open events will draw for pairings one hour before the tournament begins.

A heavyweight bout between John Schwake of Webster Groves, and George Gallagher of Kirkwood, is carded as the special feature of the South Broadway show. Club officials expect to book two more special bouts today. A complete list of the prelim entries follows:

112-POUND CLASS—Cliff Doetzel, John Tomazzi and Fred Kaiser South Broadway A. C.; Carl H. Lewis and Clemont Steinmetz Tower A. C.; Don Hyatt, National A. A.

118-POUND CLASS—Joe Tundell, South Broadway A. C.; Werner Luecke, Midland A. C.; John Nelson, unattached.

126-POUND CLASS—Joe Stanton, Emmett Bleitner, Edward Gnieke and Walter Schlittler, South Broadway A. C.; Tommy Ammato, unattached; Fred Hertzog, Red Ball Gymnasium.

135-POUND CLASS—John Buckley and Howard Miller, South Broadway A. C.; James Bacialupo, Neighborhood A. C.; Jack Reich, Business Men's A. C.

147-POUND CLASS—Phil Hackenworth and Joe Marrys, Tower A. C.; Al Keeney and Eddie McCleavey, South Broadway A. C.; Joe Nerviani, Business Men's A. C.

160-POUND CLASS—Frank Power, South Broadway A. C.

Victoria Hockey Team to Sail for Sweden, Jan. 22

Cahill, Former St. Louisan, Will Be in Charge of Club on Tour.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—The first invasion of Scandinavia by a North American hockey team will get under way when the Victoria Hockey Club of Montreal, the oldest organized amateur hockey club in existence, being now in its fifty-third year, sails from New York on the Swedish-American liner Stockholm, Jan. 22. The team will play a series of matches in Sweden and possibly other Scandinavian countries and, under plans as yet only tentative, may compete also in Germany and Austria.

At the head of the club will be S. C. Holland, its president for the past three years, a former president of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association, and now president of the Westward Amateur Athletic Association and vice president of the Canadian Rugby Union.

Assisting Holland, in the capacity of business manager, will be Thomas W. Cahill, former St. Louisan, called the "father of soccer football in the United States," and for a dozen years national secretary of the United States Football Association.

Cahill, who took American soccer teams on tours of Scandinavia in 1916, 1919 and 1920 and recently was awarded a medal of honor by the Swedish Football Association, arranged the Victoria Club's expedition.

Victoria has held the Stanley cup, emblematic of the amateur championship of the world, on five occasions, and of late years has always been well up in the running for the Canadian amateur title.

The personnel of the Victoria squad was announced in New York yesterday by Cahill, as follows: Russel Read, manager; Sig Slater, member of the last Canadian Olympic team which won the world's amateur title; Torry Shibley, defensive star and Victoria seniors captain; Wesley King, left wing; Frank Carlin, right wing or defense; Joe Lamb, former Sussex N. B. star; Ronald Beaudry, goal; C. Teddy Bowles, Earle Robinson, center.

The New York Canadians of the National Professional Hockey League have invited the Victoria players to be their guests while in New York and a friendly game between the Canadians and Victorias has been proposed for Jan. 19.

Alternates Named For Preliminary Coliseum Fights

Four dusky pugilists will be held in readiness to serve as substitutes in the event any last-minute changes are necessary on the preliminary program of Saturday night's boxing show at the New Coliseum arena in which the main attraction will be a four-round exhibition featuring Theodore "Tiger" Flowers, former middleweight champion of the world, and Bob Lawson, a light-heavyweight contender.

Matchmaker Harry Cook announced today that he has lined up Kid Carter and Vincent Minx, lightweight; Indian Joe, a well-known welterweight puncher, and Louis McGovern, a light-heavyweight, to serve as alternates. Cook stated that he has no reason to believe that it will be necessary to make any changes in the original card and that the alternate talent has been signed merely as a precautionary measure.

The prelim card will open with a four-round contest between George Williams and Billy Willie, lightweights. A light-heavyweight battle between Bob Johnson and Al Nixon, scheduled to go six rounds, will provide the second attraction, while Lawrence Hawkins and Elmer Jenkins are booked to clash in a bantamweight setto of eight rounds. The semi-windup will feature Speedy Moulden of New York, and Kid Dusty of this city, in a 10-round bout.

GLASGOW, Jan. 5. — Scotland's championship football team, the Glasgow Celtics, plans to tour America next summer if satisfactory terms can be arranged.

Detroit Council Unanimously Votes Confidence in Cobb

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 5. A RESOLUTION expressing confidence in the integrity of Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker, former managers of the Detroit and Cleveland baseball teams was adopted unanimously by the City Council last night.

Citing Cobb's "20 years as the idol of Detroit fans," the resolution declared nothing has been brought forth to prove Cobb and Speaker were involved in any "fixing" agreement as charged by Dutch Leonard, former Tiger pitcher.

Thistlethwaite to Coach Wisconsin

New Mentor Last Year Led Northwestern to Tie for Title.

By the Associated Press.

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 5.—Glenn Thistlethwaite, football coach at Northwestern University for five years, will act in a similar capacity at the University of Wisconsin next fall.

Announcement if Thistlethwaite's selection was made today by George Little, athletic director at the university here, and followed the statement by the athletic council that Little would be empowered to select a new coach.

Under the arrangement Little will devote his entire time to directing athletics, while Thistlethwaite will be in complete charge of football.

Hoppe Is Favored To Regain 18.2 Balkline Honors

Former Titleholder Starts 1500 Point Match With Hagenlacher Tonight.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Willie Hoppe tonight will begin his fight to recover the world's 18.2 balkline title snatched from him by Jake Schaefer of Chicago two years ago.

In the path of his attempted comeback stands Eric Hagenlacher, cool, quiet, calculating German star. Hagenlacher, the man who unexpectedly overthrew Schaefer last spring, apparently has no fears for his championship. In two previous matches he won victories over Hoppe. But metropolitan students of the game consider the veteran former titleholder to be playing in such brilliant form that they have installed him a favorite to regain the honors he held for more than a decade.

Hoppe, who for many years ruled supreme in every branch of the balkline game, enters the opening 500 points block of the 1500 point duel without a championship for the first time in his career. He lost the last of his crowns—the 18.1 diadem—to Schaefer almost a year ago.

Cutler Named Referee.

Recent exhibition play apparently has put Hoppe in his best form. In one match against the Japanese player, Kinrey Matsuyama, he put together seven runs exceeding 200 points each, one reaching as high as 342.

Hagenlacher, who has not defended his championship since he defeated Schaefer, has veiled his form by secret practice. The former German champion has been playing in this country only a little more than five years, but each season he has made rapid strides, until today he is considered by critics one of the greatest exponents of the nurse that ever held the title.

The match, to be played at the Hotel Pennsylvania, will be refereed by Albert G. Cutler. Play will start each night at 8 o'clock, with the final block to be played on Friday.

Last Night's Fights

Wood Is Cleared Of Charges by Yale Officials

No Evidence Produced to Discredit His Honesty, Authorities Fnd.

By the Associated Press.

NE WHAVEN, Conn., Jan. 5.—No evidence has been produced to discredit the honesty and integrity of "Joe" Wood, coach of baseball at Yale University and one of three men accused by "Dutch" Leonard of betting on a "fixed" game between Cleveland and Detroit in 1919, in the opinion of the Athletic Board of Control of Yale University.

"No action has been taken or is now contemplated by the Board of Control of the Yale University Athletic Association to alter its existing relations with Joe Wood," said a statement issued today following the regular January meeting of the board last night.

"During his term of service at Yale he has confirmed in character and conduct the definite endorsements which led to his appointment at athletic coach," the statement continues. "The Board of Control possesses no evidence, in its judgment, which discredits the honesty and integrity of his past record."

COOLIDGE STANDS PAT ON NAVAL POLICY

Again Voices His Opposition to Building New Cruisers at Present.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—In the face of a gathering storm in Congress over enlargement of the American navy, President Coolidge today reaffirmed his opposition to the construction of new cruisers at the present time.

In a letter to Chairman French of the House subcommittee considering naval appropriations, the President declared that the budget's naval recommendations, omitting funds for the new ships, "represents my best judgment," and added that he felt it his duty to stand by that recommendation.

The President's Letter.

President Coolidge's letter apparently was prompted by widely circulated reports that he had receded from his previous position. The text of the communication follows:

"My dear Mr. French: This is to assure you that when I send a budget to the Congress it represents my best judgment and that I feel it my duty to defend it and support it, which I do at all times, unless I send up a supplemental estimate.

"This is sent to you because of certain reports which have come to me relative to further appropriations for the building of cruisers. The fact that I have expressed to certain members of the House Naval Committee my willingness to approve an authorization for more cruisers, if the Congress wished to provide for them in accordance with the recommendations in my general message, has apparently resulted in the confused conclusion that I had changed my attitude on my budget message in relation to building more than the five cruisers which we are now building during the present year."

Coolidge added, however, that he saw no objection to a congressional "authorization" for more warships of the cruiser type, provided there was no call on the Treasury to carry the authorization into effect.

Testimony of Admiral.

When the letter reached the Capitol, the House Naval Committee was hearing testimony regarding the condition of the Navy, including a statement of Rear Admiral Bloch, ordnance chief, that the present naval force includes about 20 old cruisers that "wouldn't have a chance against a modern ship."

On the basis of this and other statements, some of the House Republican leaders were giving serious consideration to a proposal to over-ride the budget recommendations and authorize construction of at least three cruisers.

Old Cruisers Listed.

The old cruisers referred to by Admiral Bloch had been included, the Admiral said, in a list of ships given the House yesterday by Representative French as representing the country's sea strength. Some of these cruisers dated from the battle of Manila, Admiral Bloch declared, and "one modern ship could lick the whole bunch of them."

He added that cruisers now being built or appropriated for by foreign countries would easily outspeed and outshoot the 22 American cruisers in service.

The Admiral's statement created something of a sensation in the Naval Committee. Chairman Butler declared he was "almost knocked over" when he learned that the list of ships given the House by Representative French included "these dear old derelicts—ships I knew 35 years ago."

French explained that his lists of vessels of other nations also included many old ships.

The committee decided to report favorably a bill for modernization of the battleships Oklahoma and Nevada.

Representative Britten today carried his fight to the House floor, where the naval appropriation bill is under debate. He described the Geneva preliminary arms conference as "Silly, a Joke, and Bosh," and declared no further arms limitation agreement can be reached "because the United States navy has nothing more to scrap."

The President, he told the House, was "wrong" in opposing the cruiser appropriation on the ground that relief from naval armaments might be expected soon through international conference.

"I am willing to co-operate with the President, whether he's Republican or Democrat," he declared, "but when he is wrong I refuse to follow him, and he's wrong in this instance."

Representative Blanton (Dem.), Texas, suggested that the advice of a chief executive should be followed but Britten replied:

"I know more about the navy than the President of the United States does."

Night Coughs
Stopped in 15 Minutes

Almost always coughing is caused by an irritated and inflamed throat or bronchial tubes, which cough syrups and patent medicines do not reach. But a famous physician's prescription recently discovered, called Thoxine, goes direct to the cause, relieves the inflamed membranes and stops the cough almost instantly, one swallow does the work, and the remarkable thing about it is that it contains no dope, chloroform or harmful drugs. Once used you will never be without it. Pleasant taste. Safe for children. 35c, 60c and $1.00. At all druggists.

"I had anemia and was so run-down and nervous that I was unable to do anything. I took Vinol and feel like a different person. I have a good appetite, quiet sleep and ambition to work."—Mary Baez.

Neuro-anemia, which makes so many women weak, nervous and run-down, is caused by lack of hemoglobin in the blood. The very FIRST dose you take Vinol, the life-giving iron oglobin in your blood begins to increase. Soon you feel stronger, your blood is richer, you eat better and sleep better. Just ONE bottle often gives surprising results, though more should be taken in obstinate cases.

For over 25 years this simple, strengthening iron and cod liver compound has been prescribed for nervous, anemic women, over-tired men and weak children. Very pleasant to take. Wolff-Wilson Drug Stores. In East St. Louis at Central Drug Co.

WAS DOWN IN BED WITH LUMBAGO
Went back to work after three days of home treatment

C. L. Normandy, a civil engineer living at 234 West 9th Street, St. Paul, Minn., was taken with an attack of lumbago and for one week could not move in his bed.

"A friend told me to use Sloan's Liniment and I got a bottle. After using it one day, I was able to walk about the house. After three days I was able to go to work, and now I am as well as ever. I would not be without Sloan's Liniment if it cost $5.00 a bottle. It is a sick man's friend."

The reason that Sloan's gives such marvelous relief is that it gets right at the cause of the pain. It stimulates the circulation throughout the place where the pain is; and clears out the germs that are causing it.

Right away you feel relief. The pain stops, and soon you are fit as ever. Get a bottle today and have it on hand. All druggists—35 cents.

CITY CLAIMS TAX OF $2,360,096 ON NATIONAL BANKS

Files Collection Suits Against Six for $1,836,-511 Following Decision of Federal Court.

LONG FIGHT LIKELY OVER STATE ACTIONS

Issue Involved Is Right to Levy on Valuation of Capital Stock — $1,000,-000 a Year at Stake.

Tax on the valuation of capital stock of 11 national banks in St. Louis for 1924, 1925 and 1926, which the city is trying to collect, following a decision by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals here yesterday abolishing an injunction against this action, amount to $2,360,096.

Suits for $1,836,511 of this amount were filed against six of the banks in Circuit Court today. Five of these banks were sued on bills for only two of the three years, and the sixth for all three. Other suits for the remaining bills of all the banks are expected to follow, if settlements are not made.

About 45 per cent of the total taxes go to the city, 30 per cent to the schools here and 25 per cent to the State.

Collector Koeln's attorney, Edward W. Foristel, under the law will be entitled to 5 per cent of the total bills, or about $118,000, if judgments are entered in suits for the whole sum, or 2 per cent, about $47,200, if settlements are made. He said today he expected it to be a number of years before the matter is settled finally, as he anticipates a persistent fight by the banks in the State courts against the suits, following their failure to defeat this tax in the Federal courts.

List of Bills Against Banks.

Bills against the banks for taxes for the three-year period follow: First National, $1,050,971; National Bank of Commerce, $790,956; Merchants-Laclede National, $197,-428; State National, $191,887; National City, $69,884; Republic National (now liquidated) $11,840 for 1925; Twelfth Street National, $10,-979; American Exchange National, of which Collector Koeln is president, $7717, for the last two years, their tax having been paid for 1924; St. Louis National, $6417; Cherokee National, $5855; Security National Bank, Savings & Trust Co., $298.

Sums asked in today's six suits, together with approximate valuation of the capital stock of these banks, as given in the petitions, are as follows:

National Bank of Commerce, $790,952 for all three years; value, $11,000,000.

First National, $725,495 for 1925 and 1926; value, $13,386,560.

Merchants - Laclede National, $129,582 for 1924 and 1925; value, $2,573,830.

State National, $125,152 for 1924 and 1926, value, $2,600,000.

National City, $61,198 for 1924 and 1925, value $1,254,000.

St. Louis National, $4129 for 1924 and 1925, value, $88,000.

In addition to the amounts of the bills, the city demands in every instance, under the law, a penalty of 1 per cent per month for every month of delinquency. For example, 1926 taxes become delinquent on Jan. 1, this year and the penalty thus far would be 1 per cent.

Totals $1,000,000 a Year.

This ad valorem tax on the capital stock of national banks amounts to nearly $1,000,000 a year in St. Louis. It is understood here that settlements of claims have been made by national banks elsewhere in the State. The injunction suit in Federal Court here was filed to prevent the Collector and Board of Equalization from collecting this tax.

Federal Judge Faris originally upheld this taxation, in a decision against the plaintiffs, the First National Bank in St. Louis and one of its stockholders, J. D. Bascom. In a new trial he reversed himself and issued an injunction against the tax, but the appellate tribunal now has ordered dissolution of his injunction and entry of a decree for the city.

Missouri law formerly provided for the ad valorem assessment of bank stock. A lew effective early in 1923 provided for either this method or taxation of bank income or taxation of stockholders on their dividends through a State income tax. Next, Congress provided that states should select definitely which form of national bank taxation was to be adopted.

Declared Methods Nullified.

Judge Faris, in his second and adverse decision, held that failu. of the Legislature to provide which method should be used nullified all the methods, leaving Missouri without a bank taxation law.

Early in 1925 a new Missouri law, providing specifically for the ad valorem tax on stock, became effective, exempting dividends of national bank stock from stockholders' state income tax returns. The Court of Appeals now holds, in effect, that this method really should have been followed all along.

The national banks of St. Louis declined to pay their tax bills on the ad valorem basis for 1924, 1925 and 1926, claiming the law did not justify it.

For a time the city feared it might lose the suit eventually, and was almost prepared to settle its claims against the banks for 46 per cent of the bills. Bascom, the First National Bank stockholder, asserted in the suit that he had paid State income tax on his dividends and objected to the ad valorem method as double taxation. The First National's bill for 1924 was $325,475.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membrane and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"Speculators for the rise retained control of the stock market in fairly active trading today, bidding up stocks in virtually all active groups and forcing traders who had sold for a decline to cover their commitments or take the consequences. News developments were generally unimportant. Most of the standard industrials advanced impressively, although Steel and Baldwin failed to join them. The weekly summaries of the steel trade were anything but enthusiastic, although stress was placed upon prospects for heavy buying by railroads. Nevertheless, equipment and rail shares were neglected. Foreign issues featured investment securities, all kinds of French, Belgian and Italian bonds being in demand. Government issues were quiet and little changed. Utilities were steday.

• • •

Expected Money Ease Factor.

"The principal stimulating influence behind the broad, upward movement in standard industrials appeared to be the prospect of more favorable credit conditions in the next few weeks. Offerings of funds from the interior, reflecting the return of interest and dividend payments to investment channels, brought about an abundance of offerings in the 'outside' market at 4 and 4½ per cent, against a renewal rate of 5 per cent on the Stock Exchange. Another factor tending to give the market a firm foundation was the active bidding for motor shares, regarded in speculative circles as 'window dressing' for next week's automobile show here. General Motors maintained a steady tone, while Nash spurted to a record top and Hudson was pushed forward with Pierce-Arrow preferred. Omission of the dividend on Moon Motors had been fairly closely discounted and appeared to have little influence on Moon shares or on the motor group.

• • •

Specialties to Front.

"Specialties attracted attention when pool operators renewed operations for the rise in anticipation of easier money conditions. Commercial Solvents was bid up sharply, while Ludlum Steel rallied in response to a favorable court decision. International Harvester moved forward, but Pullman sagged on disappointment over the failure of directors to order more than the regular dividends due at this time. It was reported, however, that action favorable to stockholders was still under consideration. Cast Iron Pipe came back further and Stewart-Warner improved in sympathy with strength in motors. Continental Baking was in good demand and Woolworth pushed upward. Railroad shares failed to keep pace with industrials, but the Van Sweringen group was in fairly good demand and Rock Island held up well in face of the fact that directors took no action on the common dividend at their meeting today.

• • •

Foreign Exchange Quiet.

"Business in the foreign exchange market was virtually at a standstill and fluctuations were narrow. The trend was slightly lower, sterling and lire easing off slightly and Norwegian rates pointing downward. Chinese rates sagged in sympathy with a lower rate for silver.

• • •

Narrow Range to Commodities.

"A narrow range prevailed in the principal commodity markets, wheat advancing slightly and corn easing off with cotton. Improved demand for wheat in Argentina and British markets helped prices in Chicago.

LARGER AND EXTRA DIVIDENDS ON AMERICAN WATER WORKS

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Directors of the American Water Works and Electric Co. today increased the regular quarterly dividend on the common stock from ¼ to 2 per cent and declared an extra dividend of 2½ per cent on the common stock payable in common stock at par.

The regular quarterly dividend on the common ($20 par) of 1½ per cent, previously paid, amounted to 30 cents a share. At the increased rate this dividend amounts to 40 cents a share, or $1.60 annually.

The company reported gross earnings of $45,913,322 for the year ended Nov. 30, 1926, an increase of $4,248,784 over the 12 months. Consolidated net income was $4,303,090 after all charges, equivalent to $5.12 a share on the common stock outstanding, an increase of $1.18 a share over the preceding year.

DAILY AVERAGE CRUDE OIL PRODUCTION SHOWS DECREASE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—The daily average gross crude oil production in the United States decreased 13,950 barrels for the week ended Jan. 1, totaling 2,388,400 barrels, says the weekly summary of the American Petroleum Institute today. The daily average production east of California was 1,724,400 barrels, a decrease of 14,350 barrels.

Steel Industry Situation.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Iron Age says steel buying and steel works operation thus far in 1927 give no signs of an upturn from the pre-holiday rate. The fact that December brought a net loss of eight from the list of steel company blast furnaces points to a lessened rate of steel production. In December, 1925, on the contrary, when steel output was growing, there was a net gain of eight in steel company blast furnaces. Yet steel production in December has shown fully up to expectations.

Lower prices for foundry iron at Philadelphia and for basic iron have reduced the Iron Age pig iron composite price to $19.71 from the $19.88 of two preceding weeks. The finished steel composite is unchanged at 2.453 cents per pound.

LOCAL STOCK TRADE LARGER ON 'CHANGE

ST. LOUIS STOCK EXCHANGE, Jan. 5.—Prices were mixed in the initial local market today. Ely-Walker and Rice-Stix sold on unchanged basis. Fulton Iron was fractionally lower, and Scruggs higher. Bank of Commerce was unchanged to higher.

Subsequently International Shoe sold at advance and so did Hydraulic Brick common. There were further transactions in Rice-Stix and Ely-Walker, both at previous closings.

Fulton Iron recovered the early loss and last sale at 11¼ was fractionally net higher. St. Louis Car preferred was highest at 96¾.

MOON MOTOR CAR CO. OMITS QUARTERLY DIVIDEND

Directors of the Moon Motor Car Co. at a meeting decided to omit the quarterly dividend that would have been payable Feb. 1. The last quarterly dividend was 37½c. The rate was reduced during 1926.

Would Take Over Two Lines.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The Spokane Coeur d'Alene & Palouse Railroad asked permission of the Interstate Commerce Commission today to take over the Spokane & Eastern and the Inland Empire railroad companies which operate two lines of electric railroads in Eastern Washington. The purchase price, including obligations assumed, was $1,250,000. The electric line will be operated as a part of the Great Northern Railroad.

Permission to use the Great Northern terminal in Spokane, Wash., and to abandon the present electric line terminal in the same city was also asked.

CONTINENTAL OIL HIGHER ON CURB

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—There was a pronounced broadening in the demand for many groups of stocks in special issues from the beginning of business on the Curb Exchange today. The majority of active issues made substantial gains.

Among the special features was the trading in American Gas and Electric which was ex-42 per cent stock dividend, equal to about $30 a share. That issue which closed yesterday at 98½ started at 59 and had a quick advance of over two points. Victor Talking Machine was again strong and advanced three points following the closing steps in the creation of the new industrial position for the company.

Oil stocks generally were influenced by the reduction in the daily output but there were some special features. Most interest was attached to the continued heavy buying of Continental Oil which made a further advance in today's trading. Curb Syndicate was heavily traded, making a further advance of about a point. Standard Oil of Indiana also moved up about a point, coming close to its recent high level. Gulf Oil was weak in the early trading, but later rallied.

Electric Bond and Share was one of the most active of the utilities, moving up over a point. Southeastern Power was active and strong.

Pittsburg and Lake Erie made a further advance of two points, crossing 75.

Motor stocks were prominent in the industrial group. Marmon advanced over two points, above 50, and gains were made in a number of other issues. General Baking was again strong and Rand Kardex moved up two points.

New York Cotton

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Though the cotton market advanced during early trading today to about the high levels of last week all three markets came under pressure at the higher level of quotations and eased off later. Houses with Southern connections had cotton for sale as a result of improved weather and final prices showed a loss of a few points. Spot reduced 5 points to 12.95.

PRICE CHANGES SMALL ON THE COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—A further advance at the opening of the cotton market today was prompted by relatively firm Liverpool cables, but seemed to meet a little more Southern selling and realizing. The selling was by no means active or aggressive, but proved sufficient to ease prices after the early demand had been supplied, the midafternoon market ruling about 2 to 5 points net lower.

Futures closed easy, five to nine points lower: Jan. 12.65c; March, 12.81c; May, 13c; July, 13.17c; October, 13.34c. Spot quiet; middling, 12.95c.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—The cotton market opened steady today at an advance of 2 to 4 points in response to the continued firmness of Liverpool and reported absence of any increased selling pressure in the South.

The advance to 12.92 for March and 13.30 for July met some Southern selling and realizing but offerings were absorbed on reactions of 4 or 5 points and the market held generally steady during the first hour. Houses with Liverpool connections were buyers here again while there was some trade pricing which absorbed some early selling by the South.

Private cables reported covering and continental buying in Liverpool and said the inquiry for cotton cloths from India was increasing with good business pending.

Demand tapered off after the close of the Liverpool market. Offerings continued light, but the market seemed a shade easier in absence of any aggressive support, prices sagging back to about yesterday's closing figures. March was selling around 12.87c at midday with the general list net unchanged to two points lower.

New Orleans Spot.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 5.—Spot cotton closed quiet, 6 points down; sales, 3680 bales; low middling, 10.44c; middling, 12.69c; good middling, 13.54c; receipts 24,628 bales; stock, 687,886.

New York Coffee.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Coffee spot largely steady. Rio No. 7, 15⅝c; Santos No. 4, 19¾c. Futures steady; January 14.80c, March 14.92c, May 14.35c, July 13.90c.

Chicago Cotton Market.

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—Cotton futures closed as follows: Jan. 12.63c; March, 12.81c; May, 12.97c; July, 13.16c; Oct. 13.30c.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Raw silk unchanged.

FIRM UNDERTONE ON THE BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—A gradual broadening of the investment demand brought a firm undertone to prices in today's bond market. Ready absorption of new offerings and easier money rates were accepted as indications of a huge volume of funds, a large portion of which is expected to find its way back into security markets.

Activity and strength of the French issues continued to feature the foreign group. With several of the new European and South American countries in position to finance a major part of their own requirements, Wall Street hears reports that loans of several foreign governments and municipalities will make their appearance here this year. One of the early possibilities is a loan of $[illegible] to the City of Budapest.

Railroad liens held fairly steady, though some investors showed an inclination to await the trend of spring traffic before extending their commitments in that group. Outside of a point gain in Atlantic Gulf 5s, industrial liens showed narrow and irregular changes.

U. S. Government issues were [illegible].

The Westinghouse Electric Manufacturing Co. has called for redemption Feb. 1 $6,000,000 Westinghouse Machine Co. 6s assumed in 1917 when the machine company was absorbed.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Jan. 5.—Wheat and corn ruled fractionally higher on the local market today.

Better export demand, Seaboard estimating takings at 900,000 bushels was a late factor in the market. Cash wheat was firm.

In the local cash grain market soft wheat was 1c to 1½c higher. Offerings were scarce and in demand. Mills cleaned up all offerings. There was no hard wheat on market. Corn was steady to 2c higher. Demand was good. Oats were ½c to 1c higher. Demand was fair.

Wheat ruled fractionally higher early after slightly better start. Liverpool came unchanged to 1d higher and Winnipeg early was unchanged to shade higher. Corn was about unchanged early. Hero May wheat opened at $1.36⅝ and May corn, 80⅛c.

The fact that Argentine shipments were forecast at less than expected exerted its influence early. Liverpool closed ⅛ to ¼ higher.

The shrinkage in Argentine shipments appeared to be temporary. It was said reports saving crop turning out as estimated.

Clearances were 288,000 bu of wheat, 12,000 bbls of flour and 342,000 bu of wheat and flour.

The three northwestern markets combined had 1554 cars of wheat compared with 1219 a week ago and 959 a year ago. Minneapolis receiving 93 cars, Duluth 34 and Winnipeg 1427.

FIRM TONE DEVELOPS IN WHEAT MARKET

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—The tone was firm in the wheat trade today after an early period of weakness. The steady trend in later trade was due more to lack of selling pressure than to any increase in the volume of buying.

Covering by local shorts gave the wheat market a firm close and last prices were ⅛c to ⅜c higher. May, $1.37 to $1.37⅛; July, $1.29¼ to $1.29⅜. Corn closed ⅛c to ¼c lower on selling by early buyers. May 78⅝c; July 82⅝c. Oats were unchanged to ⅛c lower. May 49⅛c; July 47⅛c. Lard closed 15c to 20c higher, ribs 20c higher and bellies 25c higher. Local cash sales were 10,000 bu wheat, 56,000 bu corn, 46,000 bu oats and 15,000 bu barley. The seaboard reported 500,000 bu wheat taken for export.

There was selling for foreign account based on the fact that Liverpool was lower than expected. On the dip there was some buying by export houses and later some shorts covered. Many local traders feel that the market's technical position has been strengthened by the clean out of stop loss orders during Tuesday's break. Others think that there is more long wheat to be liquidated but they do not care to press the selling side except on hard spots.

Liverpool finally closed ⅛ to ⅜ higher because of the oversold condition of that market. Buenos Aires was ⅜ higher on the second call. Broomhall cabled that the Argentine crop is turning out as expected and he estimates the surplus for export at 185,000,000 bushels of which 220,000,000 bushels will be shipped before the end of July.

The seaboard reported a fair demand for gulf red winters, durum and Manitobas with possibly 300,000 bushels worked over night. Local shippers report no improvement in milling demand but they think that mills have to buy hard winters soon. This wheat is selling at high premium but the supply is scarce.

Some of the local operators were more friendly in their attitude toward corn and the market reflected this change in sentiment. They believed that the market was heavily oversold and bought on the soft spots in the early trade. Northwestern houses also took some.

Country offerings were light and shipping demand showed little improvement.

Oats followed other grains. Trade was almost entirely local.

Provisions were firm with hogs.

FIRM UNDERTONE ON THE BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—A gradual broadening of the investment demand imparted a firm undertone to prices in today's bond market. Ready absorption of recent offerings and easier money rates were accepted as indications of a huge surplus of funds, a large portion of which is expected to find its way back into the security markets.

Activity and strength of the French issues continued to feature the foreign group. With several of the large European and South American countries in a position to finance a major part of their own requirements, Wall Street heard reports that loans of several foreign cities and municipalities will make their first appearance here this year. One of the early possibilities is a loan of $13,000,000 to the City of Budapest.

Railroad liens held fairly steady, although some investors showed an inclination to await the trend of spring traffic before extending their commitments. Outside of a point gain by Atlantic Gulf 5s, industrial liens showed narrow and irregular changes.

U. S. Government issues were irregular. The Westinghouse Electric Manufacturing Co. has called for redemption Feb. 1 $6,000,000 Westinghouse Machine Co. 6s assumed in 1917 when the machine company was absorbed.

FIRM TONE DEVELOPS IN WHEAT MARKET

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—The tone was firm in the wheat trade today after an early period of weakness. The steady trend in later trade was due more to lack of selling pressure than to any increase in the volume of buying.

Covering by local shorts gave the wheat market a firm close and last prices were ⅛c to ⅜c higher; May $1.37 to $1.37⅛; July $1.29⅛ to $1.29⅜. Corn closed ⅛c to ⅜c lower on selling by early buyers; May 78⅝c; July 82⅛c. Oats were unchanged to ⅛c lower. May 49⅛c; July 47⅛c. Lard closed 15c to 20c higher ribs 20c higher and bellies 25c higher. Local cash sales were 10,000 bu wheat 50,000 bu corn 40,000 bu oats and 15,000 bu barley. The seaboard reported 500,000 bu wheat taken for export. There was selling for foreign account based on the fact that Liverpool was better than expected. On the dip there was some buying by export houses and later some shorts covered. Many local traders felt that the market's technical position has been strengthened by the clean out of stop loss orders during Tuesday's break. Others think that there is much long wheat to be liquidated but they do not care to press the selling side except on hard spots.

Liverpool finally closed ⅛ to ⅝ higher because of the oversold condition of that market. Buenos Aires was ⅝ higher on the second call. Broomhall cabled that the Argentine crop is turning out as expected and he estimates the surplus for export at 166,000,000 bushels of which 120,000,000 bushels will be shipped before the end of July.

The seaboard reported a fair demand for gulf red winters, durum and Manitobas with possibly 300,000 bushels worked over night. Local shippers report no improvement in milling demand but they think that mills have to buy hard winters soon. This wheat is selling at high premium but the supply is scarce.

Some of the local operators were more friendly in their attitude toward corn and the market reflected this change in sentiment. They believed that the market is heavily oversold and bought on the soft spots in the early trade. Northwest houses also took some.

Country offerings were light and shipping demand showed little improvement. Oats followed other grains. Trade was almost entirely local.

Provisions were firm with hogs.

To cut short a cold or cough due to a cold and prevent complications, nothing gives such quick and delightful relief as ASPIRONAL, a delightful elixir, medicated with the latest scientific remedies that are used and endorsed by the highest medical authorities.

Every druggist is authorized by the manufacturer to refund your money while you wait at the counter if you cannot feel relief coming in two minutes. Relief means: Clears the head; relieves the congestion in the nose and throat; checks the excessive flow of mucus; banishes the dull, frontal headache and that chilly, creepy, achy feeling that attends a cold.

Aspironal is a complete cold remedy, in itself, including agents that almost instantly begin to relieve the distressing symptoms and later remove the cause by acting gently and most delightfully on the liver and bowels. Aspironal is perfectly safe for children as well as adults. Quickest and best relief for catarrh, croup and children's "choking up" with phlegm at night. Only fifty cents for a family bottle. Clip this guarantee offer and take it to your druggist today.

MELLON TO SEND POISON ALCOHOL DATA TO SENATE

Paint and Varnish Association Wires to Dry Chief to "Stand by Your Guns."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Secretary Mellon will send to the Senate the correspondence he has had with Wayne B. Wheeler of the Anti-saloon League relative to the poisoning of alcohol, and with it all the formulas employed in the Government's denaturization.

This will be in response to Senator Edwards' resolution adopted by the Senate. It is really the first step toward ending poisoning of alcohol in the effort to enforce prohibition. Senator Edwards will follow the receipt of the Treasury information with a bill to make employment of lethal agents in making alcohol undrinkable a penal offense. The drys are not anxious to meet the issue, and they are expected to try to refer the bill to a committee and hold it there.

The National Paint, Oil and Varnish Association appealed to Assistant Secretary Andrews to "stand by your guns" in the present controversy. In a telegram to the dry chief, H. S. Chatfield, chairman of the association's Industrial Alcohol Committee, said denatured alcohol is an essential raw material in the paint, oil and varnish trades; that a 5 per cent wood alcohol denaturant had been used in this country for nearly 20 years, as against 10 per cent in England, and that any change in the formula without consultation with representatives of industries interested "would be unwarranted."

MOTHER KEEPS YOUNG CUDAHY FROM WEDDING MOVIE ACTRESS

Youth Is Held in Jail at Her Request at Santa Barbara, Cal.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 5.—Michael Cudahy, 19-year-old scion of the Chicago family of meat packers, is in jail after having been foiled by his mother in three attempts to marry a motion-picture actress. Sheriff Ross of Santa Barbara took the youth into custody last night at the request of his mother, Mrs. John P. Cudahy, as he visited town after town with his bride-to-be, Marie Astaire, 19, in quest of some official who would issue them a marriage license.

Young Cudahy's quest for a marriage license, which began early in the day at Santa Ana, took him and Miss Astaire to Los Angeles, then to Ventura, and ended when the pair was found at Santa Barbara. At each place where a license was applied for their plans were spoiled by either the ringing of a telephone or the arrival of a telegram.

CALLS FOR HOUSE INQUIRY INTO GOSSIP OF TOURISTS

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—A resolution designed to establish whether "unofficial gossiping" by Americans abroad is in violation of statutes prohibiting unauthorized diplomatic intercourse with foreign nations has been introduced in the House by Representative Beck (Rep.) of Wisconsin. He wants the House Foreign Affairs Committee to conduct an inquiry in this direction.

Beck in his resolution referred to views recently expressed at the White House. He said: "The President declared that he was being embarrassed in the conduct of foreign relations by the declaration of American tourists and others that the United States eventually would cancel the debts owed to it by European countries."

NEW TRAIN WILL CUT TIME

A new fast St. Louis-Memphis passenger train and a two-hour shortening of the schedule of the "Meteor," from Oklahoma City to St. Louis, are announced by the St. Louis-San Francisco Railroad, effective Jan. 20.

The new train will be a companion to the "Sunnyland" from Kansas City to Memphis, where the trains will unite for Birmingham and the Florida West Coast. It will leave St. Louis at 1 p. m. and arrive at Memphis at 9 p. m.; leave Memphis at 8 a. m. and arrive here at 4 p. m.

The "Meteor" will leave Oklahoma City at 4 p. m. instead of 2:40 p. m. and arrive here at 7:59, instead of 7:35 a. m. Train No. 8 will become No. 6, leaving Oklahoma City at 1:30 p. m., instead of 7 a. m., and arriving at 7:35 a. m.

Child Scalded in Tub Dies.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WEST FRANKFORT, Ill., Jan. 5.—Juanita, 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Weaver, died this morning from scalds suffered Tuesday when the child fell into a tub of boiling water which had been left on the kitchen floor.

THE WOMAN OF IT

—By—

Marguerite Mooers Marshall.

Our Own New Year's Resolutions

(With assists from a helpful family, kind friends and a guilty conscience)

RESOLVED, That we will NOT let our angry passions rise against clerks, office boys and other dumb-wit hired help, who don't know their own business and who muddle ours whenever they touch any of it. After all, there's no sense in wasting a hundred per cent rage on a half-of-one-per-cent moron.

That we will stop being self-absorbed and absent-minded to the point where we cut all our friends—and even our husband's friends.

That we will take our inferiority complex by the throat and kindly but firmly choke it to death.

That we will try not to be too contemptuous of the passion for personal adornment, as exhibited by the boy of today, who is as vain as any girl—vainer!

That in domestic discussions we will not use the argument, "Yes, but you know what you did last time"—that we will Learn to Let Things Drop.

That we will stop fussing about life in the suburbs. We have to live there, winters, and the beauty of the recent ice storm can be set against the nerve-irritant of the extra-energetic whistle on the 4:22.

That we won't believe our best-beloved aunt has stopped caring for us, just because she hasn't written a decent letter in six months.

That we will sympathize with sufferers from colds and from attacks of indigestion, even when we know that they could keep well if they would take proper care of themselves.

That we will suffer fools, if not gladly at least with some degree of patience.

That we will not criticise our husband for being illogical; after all, it's his privilege—isn't he a man?

That we will buy a new hat, a new spring suit and some new summer dresses, even if the checking account cracks under the strain.

That we will try to make THE WOMAN OF IT in 1927 a place for the intelligent and entertaining expression of a woman's laughter, a woman's sense of beauty, a woman's ideas about herself and men and the world—and, to be fair, a place for occasional male comebacks.

THE MODERN MAID.

She smokes, and drinks,
And reads, and thinks,
And shaves, and clips her tresses;
Her dimpled knees
In winter freeze
Unhid by woolen dresses.

She runs the shops,
And shoots the cops,
Adept in bridge and poker;
She once could scrub
The wash-day tub,
But now becomes a broker.

She votes, and rules,
And goes to schools—
Nay, not for dietetics;
Her brain instead
Is freely fed

No more her pride
To be the bride
Before the candled altar;
The business maid
Is better paid
Than she who wears the halter.

No charms, no fears,
Too cold for tears,
No thought about the morrow;
What creature this Man-aping miss?
Our country's greatest sorrow!

JACK I. MALTZ.

You Can's Tell Him Different.

Our idea of the apex of the ultimate in superfluous counsel is that just handed out by Mrs. Wilber W. Leonard, a golden wedding veteran of Milo, Me.: "Be sure to let your husband think he is much wiser than he really is."

How can you STOP him?

"You Have to Manage Men, My Dear!"

"What can woman do for diplomacy? There is a vast field," declares Mme. Kollantay, soviet envoy to Mexico. Yet it's only a tenacre lot compared to the vastness of what diplomacy can do—and has done—for woman.

One date a week for the college man and a different girl for each date is the recommendation of Prof. Jesse E. Wrench of the University of Missouri. But football being a daylight game and the quality of current booze being proved by the Christmas casualties, how DOES the professor suggest that a college man use the other six evenings—to say nothing of the accumulation of once-petted girls?

Frocks Seen at St. Louis Debutante Party

By PHILLIS BABETTE STEIN.

FORMER Gov. and Mrs. Frederick D. Gardner entertained 130 of the younger set at their home 4508 West Pine boulevard, Dec. 28 in honor of their daughter, Miss Janet Gardner.

Miss Gardner wore a dress of peach crepe, the skirt was embroidered in crystal beads and split up the side at intervals, showing an underskirt of peach satin. Blue velvet ribbon started at the shoulders and tied at the center of the back. She wore slippers of pink kid trimmed with silver.

Miss Dorothy Bemis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Bemis of Hotel Chase, wore an exquisite import; the bodice was fashioned of gold cloth and the skirt was of chiffon embroidered in gold sequins, crystal and pearl beads. The yoke was made of lace, and was also embroidered in flowers of gold sequins, pearls and crystals. Miss Bemis, who is now attending Miss Bennett's School in New York, will be a debutante of next season.

Miss Martha Pettus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Pettus of 33 Westmoreland place, was gowned in a graceful period dress of coral taffeta. The skirt drooped longer in the back than in front. Two bands of a lighter shade of coral taffeta formed a V on the bodice and on the skirt. Taffeta flowers adorned the waist. Miss Pettus is attending Bryn Mawr College, and will make her debut next year.

Another sub-deb of interest is Miss Kathleen Sheldon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen B. Sheldon of 14 Kingsbury place. She wore a two-piece dress of bluette silk crepe, the skirt being made of four ruffles. The dress was trimmed with a large bow of the same material and a flower at the shoulder.

Being What They Ain't.

Furs seemingly take little pride in ancestry at present. They are engaged in appearing what they are not. Even mink and sable are dyed and other less expensive furs are tricked out into stripes, checks and squiggles, some pretending not to be a fur at all. Many of the skating and skiing costumes are fur trimmed. The new kidskins are turned into over-checks in two shades on a pale beige ground.

Seen on Fifth Avenue.

Unborn calf is used as a medium for trimming hats and entire coats to say nothing of shoes, pocketbooks and boutonnieres.

A charming little flared black velvet suit is trimmed with ermine.

A cape of woolen fabric is worn over a matching suit.

Brown, varying in tone from the warm tan to deep chocolate shades is always popular, and can be strikingly combined with leopard or gold cloth.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

Antiques Aid Home-Makers.

HARKING back to the simple way of furnishing, especially the bedrooms, modern decorators use Colonial fittings brought up to date. Modern wall treatment, hanging, lighting fixtures and rebuilt antique furniture, while preserving the old charm, combines it with present-day comfort.

The use of maple, bird's-eye and plain, applewood and walnut is again favored and much attention is given to hardware and decoration. The vogue for painted wood is still on but it must be substantially built and well decorated to be considered in better homes. Windsor chairs shine in these modern rooms and some of them are amazingly comfortable to sit upon, especially when tuck pillows and cushions for the seats are added.

On the four-post beds, the posts, topped with the old pineapple carvings or the acorn, or perhaps turned, head and footboards carved with the old acanthus leaf pattern the candlewick spread seems perfectly at home. The high-boys and low-boys are picked up quickly when found, but modernists have a tender spot in their hearts for the chiffonier or chifforobe.

The adoption of a refectory, Jacobean, tavern, or chemin table, while it is highly favored by decorators, is a mistake unless the room, living or dining, is shaped specially to suit the style. A very large room, or one that is long and narrow, seems to show it to the best advantage. Where the long bench is used at either side instead of chairs, the benches may be shoved underneath when not in use. With the benches the carved end chairs are particularly dignified.

Three Recipes That Are Different.

By HANNAH WING.

YOU have no idea how delicious a cranberry pie can be until you have made one with eggs and butter. Then it becomes rich and smooth as well as tart and pleasant.

Two cups cranberries, one and one-half cups sugar, one-half cup cold water, two eggs, one tablespoon flour, one tablespoon butter, one-half teaspoon lemon juice, two tablespoons powdered sugar.

Make a cooked syrup of the granulated sugar and water. Add the cranberries and cook them until they break open. Mix the flour with the egg yolks, rub until smooth, thin with a little of the cranberry syrup and stir into the cranberries. Cook gently until thick. Add the butter and the lemon juice. Cool and bake in a pastry shell. Cover with a meringue made from the egg whites and the powdered sugar.

Did you ever realize that a very satisfactory sandwich filling could be made from calves' liver, which if not quite as luxurious as pate de fois gras is at least much cheaper and very tasty, indeed.

Purchase two pounds of calves' liver and have it larded with five or six strips of salt pork. Score the skin of the liver slightly in several places and plunge into boiling water for a few minutes to loosen the skin. Remove and peel off the skin. Wrap the liver in a clean piece of greased muslin as you would a pudding, and boil slowly in water to which has been added a half-teaspoonful of salt, a sliced onion, two bay leaves, four cloves and a fourth of a teaspoon of poultry seasoning. Remove from the water when tender and let it become cold. Slice very thin and use as a luncheon meat or in sandwiches. To make the sandwich paste put the liver through the fine knives of the food chopper, add one-half cup of melted butter, salt, pepper and a little cayenne. Moisten with the water in which the liver was cooked to make a paste. This may be kept in glass jars in the ice box for some time.

Another savory meat that is useful when one wishes to economize on a cheaper cut is pickled beef. This is not—as you may think—the usual corned beef, but a meat made for the occasion. Buy three pounds from the lower round, wipe the meat and cover with a mixture of water and vinegar. Add a teaspoonful of salt, six sliced onions, several bay leaves, cloves and peppercorns. Let the meat stand in this mixture for 24 hours and then simmer in the same mixture until tender. Brown as for pot roast and serve with a gravy made from the drippings in the kettle.

Vain Sacrifice.

MRS. HUNNIE came into the office with Ethel. "She is not doing well in the school she is in. Not at all. I want her to spend the day here and let me see whether it is the right sort of place for her. Can you do that? Let her visit in a class for today?"

Of course that could be done and as Ethel started away with the guide I picked up her coat which she had left on the chair so that she need not have to return for it later. "That's my coat," said mother. "The fur coat is Ethel's."

"You see she is our only child. We have given her everything in the world to make her happy but she doesn't seem to appreciate it at all. The more we do for her the more she seems to want. Never satisfied. Always demanding more of people than they can give. I think that is what is wrong with her in school. She is forever having trouble with the teacher. What can you do with a child like that? Sometimes I think children were sent into the world as a scourge to their parents."

I could not help saying "Sometimes I believe they are sent as an education to their parents."

"What do you mean? You think we haven't done right with her? Why I tell you, you can ask anybody who knows us, we have sacrificed everything for that child. Sleep and rest and health and money and worry and everything. Yet she doesn't care."

"That's the trouble. Children don't need our lives. They need their own. They cannot use our lives after we have handed them to them. They have to make their own selves out of the stuff that is in them and they can only get that out by their own efforts. Now for instance, Ethel's coat?"

"Well, what could I do? She said she wanted a fur coat. I told her how expensive they were but that made no difference. Everybody had a fur coat so she had to have one. Well, I would cheerfully go without anything to make her happy. All mothers are like that. Their children come first. So, as I couldn't afford fur coats for both of us, I bought her the expensive coat and took the cheaper one myself."

So mother wore the tweed top coat with the squirrel collar that Ethel should have been wearing and Ethel wore a fur coat with deep cuffs of fur, a dowager's cuff that nobody ought to have been wearing—if I'm to be the judge.

Of course the coat itself did not matter save in the realm of good taste, which matters very much. What mattered most was that this child had been given a wrong idea of her relationship to her parents and to people generally. She thought her wants were highly important but she had never been given a chance to meet them herself. Handed everything she had asked for she knew nothing about the value of them either in terms of money or love or labor or life. She was ignorant of all human values because she had been pampered to death.

When will we learn that we can give a child nothing worth while? Vain sacrifice brings bitterness to him who offers it and to him who accepts it. Things do not matter. Attitude of mind is what tells.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

I GIVE a toast to happiness, that one gift best of all; and though we may not win success, still glad we know, through all life's stress, joy's alms, however small, that may we keep, through sun and shower, by every road we go, this boon, more dear than worldly power, more rich than any fabled dower that any king may know. So may we own this heritage, untouched by cares that press, this inner wealth, this secret wage the wise have treasured, age on age, this priceless happiness! It matters little what our state, though mighty men or low; the rich, the proud, the high, the great, would barter fame and all its weight for bliss the children know. No toast I name to fortune rare, to flickering fame's caress; but praise this prize beyond compare, this touch which makes the whole world fair, this priceless happiness!

Beauty beyond compare in the flash of CLEAN teeth

—and teeth flash cleaner, whiter from the dual cleansing action of Colgate's

SPARKLING like ice on a bright winter day—gleaming white in contrast to dark furs—there is beauty, a beauty beyond compare in the flashing of clean teeth!

And now, with the dual cleansing action of this tooth paste, all teeth can have glorious, incomparable cleanness. For Colgate's washes and polishes every surface clean.

The Dual Cleansing Action

Modern mouth hygiene demands a dentifrice with a dual cleansing action. Colgate's formula is based on this principle. As you brush, Colgate's expands into a plentiful, bubbling foam. First, this foam loosens imbedded food particles and polishes all tooth surfaces.

Then it thoroughly washes the entire mouth—teeth, gums, tongue—sweeping away all impurities. Thus the dual action of Colgate's brings unequaled cleanness; removes the causes of decay.

Normal, healthy mouths need no drug-filled dentifrice. Just visit your dentist at least twice a year. Brush your teeth with Colgate's at least twice a day. And then you need never worry over mental or dental ills.

MEDITATIONS —OF A— MARRIED WOMAN

By HELEN ROWLAND

THOSE WEDDING-BELLS!

EVERY day in every way, marriage, like love and kisses, is being made EASIER for a man to attain—and it is becoming harder to make him attain it!

• • •

Two prominent writers, who recently refused to go through the wedding ceremony, and insisted upon being married "by contract" removed one more painful barrier between coy young men and the Holy Bonds.

• • •

Some girls will never feel actually MARRIED, without at least five bridesmaids, a dozen bolts of white satin ribbon, a 20-pound wedding cake, and their photographs in all the newspapers.

• • •

There is something about the "Till-death-us-do-part" ceremony with the Lohengrin accompaniment, engraved wedding invitations and monogrammed linen, that makes the thing seem sort of binding.

• • •

A man's crest on your stationery and your bath-mats is lots more convincing than just his shaving-brush on the bathroom shelf and his dancing pumps and dinner coat in the closet.

• • •

Many a man who would share his last dollar or his last cigaret with you, wouldn't think of sharing his NAME and his family crest with you!

• • •

A wedding is woman's greatest triumph—her golden opportunity to gratify her vanity, pacify her family, mortify her rivals, and electrify her friends, all with one grand gesture!

• • •

But, alas, the thrilling and beautiful ceremony may soon be in the discard, along with woman's back hair, her corsets, and her smelling salts. You've got to offer a man "special INDUCEMENTS," to entice him out of his bachelor shell these days! And to cut out the stiff coat, pearl gray trousers, white gloves, and the agony of facing the battalion of eyes would make the shock easier.

• • •

Perhaps it is easier to marry, as it is to die, when you are unconscious and don't know what's happening to you—just to pass on to Oblivion in a dream of romance, before the opiate wears off.

• • •

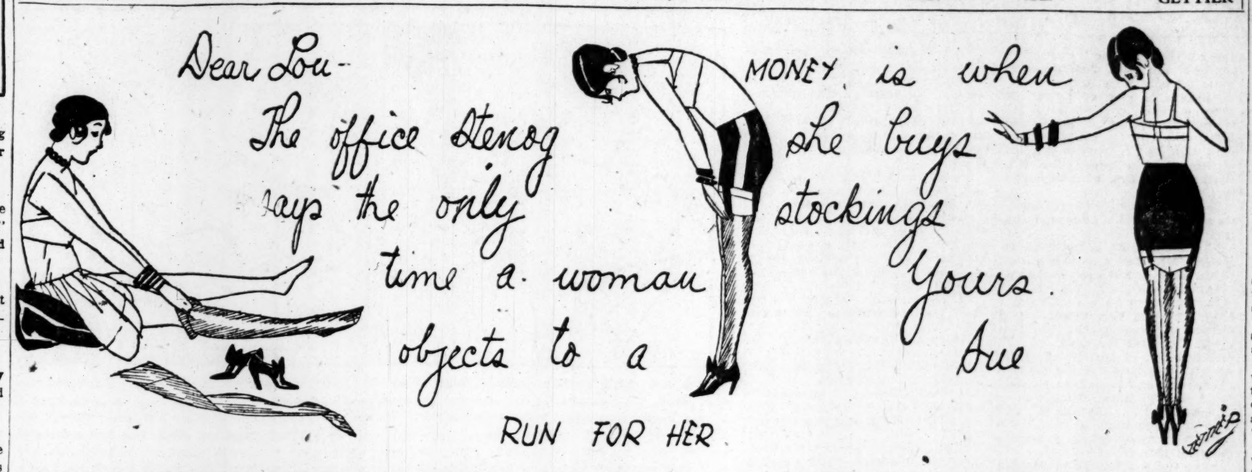

It is all being made so easy for him that he is already suspicious of it. He doesn't even have to court a girl or propose to her any more. He merely "pals around" with her, and wakes up some morning to find himself "engaged."

• • •

He doesn't have to go tremblingly to her stern father and "beg her hand." He just drops in casually to dinner, and announces to the family that he is going to relieve their anxiety and take their daughter off their hands—and waits for the hallelujahs and applause.

SUE TO LOU — Oh, Darn It! — BY GETTIER

HIGH HEELS FOR HER, THOUGH SHE'S 70

Sheer Chiffon Stockings and Bobbed Hair Help a Lot When One Goes Out Every Night in the Week.

By WINIFRED BLACK.

WHAT are you going to do with your mother if she's 70 years old and insists on wearing high heels, slippers and nude, silk stockings and dangling earrings? What if she bobs her hair and is learning to smoke and wants to tell stories that are just a little—well, don't you know?

WINIFRED BLACK

And what if she lives with you and your husband and she doesn't see why you don't want to go to the theater or to a concert or to a dinner in a smart hotel with her five or six times a week?

What if your husband isn't very well and you feel that you ought not to leave him, and your mother cries and says she knows she's old and uninteresting and she doesn't blame you for wanting to get rid of her. Just exactly what would you do?

How long have you the right to expect your husband to endure these goings on and say nothing?

What is the matter with old women who are determined to act as if they were young ones? Is there no way for them to enjoy life except by making everyone around them miserable?

What a comfort and a delight they were—the good old grandmothers who were glad to stay at home and think things over! They were glad to be a comfort and a solace to their children and their grandchildren. How in the world are we going to get on without them? The rising generation have been taught to do without mothers—poor things. Now they are going to do without grandmothers. I do wonder how they will manage. Shouldn't you think they'd be tired of it all?

Half a century of fuss and feathers and vanity and heartache and empty ambition—shouldn't you think they would like to sit down in a corner quietly and puzzle it all out? I mean this thing they've called living for so long. Shouldn't you think they'd be grateful to be through with the turmoil and the noise and the heartache? But no, they haven't enough of it—not enough clothes, not enough compliments, not enough excitement, not enough misery, not enough disenchantment.

They want more and more and more, poor things. How hungry they are and how they sap the vitality of the very ones they should be helping over the rough places.

Well, well! What strange things we take in our hands when we reach them out so eagerly for the things we love to call—happiness!

RECIPES FROM "My Old Virginia Cook Book"

Fruit Cake—Old Virginia

TAKE 1 and a quarter pounds of butter, one and a quarter pounds of sugar, one and a quarter pounds of flour (sifted); four pounds raisins, two pounds of currants, one pound of citron, four nutmegs; the grated rind of three lemons, one tablespoonful of cinnamon, one teaspoonful of cloves, two wine glasses full of wine, two wine glasses of brandy, one wine glass of rose water and 15 eggs.

Cream the butter and sugar. Then add the yolks of eggs (well beaten). Then add the well-beaten whites of eggs. Then add the flour, liquids, spices and flavorings. Finally add the fruit which should be well floured. Mix thoroughly. Line baking pans with well-greased paper. Bake in a moderate oven for about three hours. Put paper over top of cake when it has baked for one hour and continue baking for two hours longer. These portions will make between 12 and 15 pounds of cake.

The New Sans Gene Bob

By Lucrezia Bori

THOSE among my readers who like coiffures with bangs will find the new Sans Gene bob quite to their liking, I'm sure. This mode for bobbed hair is one of the newest observed in fashionable circles and much of its popularity is due to the innovation of two parts in the hair instead of one.

In having the hair cut for this bob a center part is made, which should begin about two inches back from the hair line on the forehead and extend to the crown of the head. The hair in front of the part is combed down over the forehead to make the bangs, which should be cut quite long to allow for waving. The back hair is shingled rather short, while the side hair is left long in front and tapers up to meet the shingle line in the back. The second part is made by pulling the comb through the back hair, beginning at the crown of the head where the first part stopped and continuing straight down the center of head to the nape of the neck.

In waving, the sides of the hair are marcelled so that the first wave is set close to the part and pressed in place just enough to lift the hair from the head, thus avoiding a flat appearance. The second wave is made a little deeper, a third one still deeper, so that it is the most prominent wave, while the fourth is the "finish" wave and turns the ends of the hair under.

The bangs are waved next, and the first wave is set very light to correspond with the first side wave, the second one deeper, and the third and last bang wave is set very deep so that it exactly meets the third wave of the side hair. The ends of this wave should turn up slightly instead of being turned under.

The back hair is brushed away from each side of the part, and just enough wave put in to set the hair with the sides so that it doesn't fall and destroy the line of the back part.

The Diary of a New Father

Wednesday night.

JOAN said this evening that she and Hilda were busy all day cleaning the apartment and sending out laundry, so that everything will be ready when my mother and her grandmother arrive Friday night. I said, "I have never seen your grandmother, you know. What is she like?" and Joan said, "She is the dearest little old-fashioned thing," and I said, "I suppose that means she will want to feed the baby bananas and soup."

Joan said, "Why is it you think a member of my family can't have any sense?"

After while I said, "I wish they weren't coming here at the same time. We will be awfully crowded." Joan said, "I think we need a larger apartment," and I said, "We need an annex, anyway."

Joan said her grandmother is worth quite a lot of money. I said, "How old is she?" and Joan said, "Well, of all things." I said, "Now what have I done?"

Joan's grandmother will arrive at 6:45 and my mother at 7:30. Joan will be busy here with dinner, so I am going to meet them alone.

I said, "Your grandmother and I may as well wait at the station until mother gets in; then I will have to make only one trip and we will need only one taxi," and Joan said, "Well, I never thought you would keep an old, old woman waiting around for hours just to save a dollar or so."

New Hat Forms.

PARIS—Rue de la Paix milliners, in an effort to get away from the too simple high-crowned coche hats, are producing turbans with draperies arranged to suit the wearer's face, made of fur, ribbon, lace, satin, crepe de chine, velvet or fur. The color is chosen to go with the coat or costume. With a fur coat the hat may match the dress, or with a cloth coat over a silk dress the hat matches the coat.

Children's Bedtime Story

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

A Lost Trap.

The trapper does no mercy feel
Who sets the vicious trap of steel.
—Old Mother Nature.

AS you know, certain of the people of the Green Forest are hunters. They live almost wholly on smaller people of the Green Forest, and these smaller people of the Green Forest are always in fear of these fierce hunters. But there is one thing that is understood among all the people of the Green Forest, little and big, and this is that the hunter hunts only that he himself may live. He hunts fairly. It is his wits against the wits of those he seeks. It is understood among all the little people that the price of life is the price of constant watchfulness; and that only the smartest live, which is quite as it should be.

Man alone, among all the hunters, has ever stooped to unfair hunting. Man alone has ever set a trap. The trap is unfair. It is a deadly enemy, lying in wait at a place where no enemy is to be expected. It is merciless. If it does not kill at once, it still holds on. The hunters in fur and feathers kill at once. The steel trap seldom kills. So it is that all the little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows, all the little people who travel up and down the Laughing Brook, around the Smiling Pool, and along the Great River, look on the trapper as one without honor and without justice or fairness.

Now, Paddy the Beaver is wise in the wisdom of the trapped and hunted. The moment he discovered that break in his dam he suspected a hunter. Until well into the night he and Mrs. Paddy worked to repair that dam. And when the next day they found it cut open again, Paddy was more suspicious than ever.

"I know," said he to Mrs. Paddy. "I know what it means. One of those two-legged creatures wants to catch us. He knows that we will repair that dam. He knows that we must repair it."

"But what I don't see is what he cut that hole for in the first place," declared Mrs. Paddy. "What good did it do? What good can it do?"

"No good," replied Paddy, "because he doesn't know that I know what he is about. But if young Beavers without our experience were in our place it might do him a great deal of good. You mark my words, my dear, there is a trap somewhere around that opening. That fellow wants our skins. But he'll keep right on wanting."

So it was that when Paddy and Mrs. Paddy went over to repair the second break in their dam Paddy insisted that Mrs. Paddy should not come too close. He himself, taking the greatest care, looked that opening all over. At first he found nothing suspicious. He found nothing suspicious, yet he was suspicious all the time. He couldn't get it out of his head that there was a trap there somewhere. Again he went around, slowly, carefully, swimming back and forth in front of that opening, but taking the greatest care not to step down on anything. He was just about to give up and decide that after all he had been mistaken when he discovered, cleverly hidden at just the point where he would be most likely to step in repairing the hole, a suspicious bit of iron.

Paddy got a stick and carefully poked it in over that bit of iron. He brought another stick and did the same thing. How he worked! Presently he had that place well covered. Then he and Mrs. Paddy worked as only Beavers can work. They buried that trap, for a trap it was, where it could not possibly harm anyone. In fact, they sprung the trap with one of the sticks they were pushing down. They heaped up the mud and piled it in and packed it in until that trap was so deeply buried that they knew that trapper would have to cut the dam wide open in order to find it again. Then they filled in the break in the dam, and, tired but happy, and once more safe, they returned to their house.

This time the trapper did not annoy them again. He gave up. Perhaps it was because he found out that Farmer Brown's Boy had discovered what he was trying to do. Anyway, no more traps were set for Paddy and Mrs. Paddy.

Scarfs.

No one can tell where scarfs will soon be worn. Their latest position is about the waist of lingerie sets. They are fastened to the band of the dancing bloomers and act as a sort of shadowproof petticoat of extremely diminutive size. They are worn under the transparent costume slips which form part of some dance frocks now popular.

How to Have Soft, Pretty White Hands

Many women will undoubtedly be glad to know how they may have beautiful, white, soft, pretty hands regardless of the work they have to do. The secret lies in rubbing a little Ice-Mint into the hands occasionally preferably just before retiring at night. In the morning you will be agreeably surprised at the pleasant transformation that has been wrought by even a single application. Ice-Mint is made from a Japanese product that is simply marvelous for its beautifying properties whether used on the hands or face. Regardless of what kind of work a woman does she should have pretty hands as they are really the true marks of refinement. A few applications of Ice-Mint will actually make any woman proud of her hands and skin. It costs little and is sold and recommended by good druggists everywhere.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

GIVE a toast to happiness, the one gift best of all; and though we may not win success, still may we know, through all life's stress, joy's alms, however small. Still may we keep, through sun and shower, by every road we go, this boon, more dear than worldly power, more rich than any fabled dower that any king may know. Still may we own this heritage, untouched by cares that press, this inner wealth, this secret wage the wise have treasured, age on age, this priceless happiness! It matters little what our state, though mighty men or low; the rich, the proud, the high, the great, would barter fame and all its weight for bliss the children know. No toast a name to fortune rare, to fickle fame's caress; but praise this prize beyond compare, this touch which makes the whole world fair, this priceless happiness!

"SALLY STEPS OUT"

A Tale of Romance and Adventure
By ACHMED ABDULLAH
Dramatic — Thrilling — Appealing

CHAPTER 11.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

Sally Dangerfield, a lovely tawny-haired Southern girl, lives alone with her invalid mother in their ancestral home in Charleston, South Carolina, both of them very poor and very proud. Sally has not been trained to earn her living although she has a marked talent for drawing and would like to take lessons if only she could afford it. However, though she has no money, she has beauty and there are three fine young Southerners, Jimmy, Tom and Tecumseh, who long to marry her, but she does not love any one of them. Presently a young man, George Wyatt, a novelist, comes to Charleston seeking quiet in which to write his new book and he and Sally meet and find themselves falling in love. George tries to help her by pretending to sell some of her sketches and paying her for them himself. Then they have the usual foolish lovers' quarrel. George becomes jealous of Jimmy and, believing that Sally has been flirting with himself he leaves for New York without even saying good-bye. And later when he repents and writes to her, Jimmy finds the letter and destroys it before it reaches Sally. Shortly after this she learns that George did not really sell her work but paid for it himself and she angrily returns the money without a word. Then suddenly Sally's mother dies and the girl is forced to sell the old home. She has a little money and comes to New York planning to study art, but after settling down in a cheap boarding house she finds her money is melting surprisingly fast and that she must go to work at once. Another young girl in the boarding house, Janet Powers, make friends with her and Sally decides to ask her for advice. Janet is an artist's model and promises to get Sally a job, too. And that night to add to her good fortune she meets George again.

"Friends Again."

SALLY was disillusioned the next morning when, for the first time in her life, with Janet as guide, interpreter and friend, she saw a studio.

It was so business-like, so precise, so efficient and prosy; and prosy and business-like were the two men who occupied it. Both were what is called "commercial artists." One was Dixon Lowe, Janet's most regular employer, a tall, rather saturnine man, whose magazine covers were in great demand and who was paid for them enough money to make many a banker envious. His studio mate was an elderly man, Paul Rorke, who seemed to Sally a little subdued by life and what life had held; seemed, indeed, a little bitter. He was small, pot-bellied, with a bluff manner and friendly, tired eyes that relieved the sharp tension of his lips.

Lowe could not use a new model at the moment. But Rorke, who was doing a series of advertisements for a complexion soap, ran an experienced eye over her and briefly announced that "she'd do." Both men were very nice to her, courteous in an offhand way; and Janet took an opportunity while Sally was walking around the studio to explain something of the girl's circumstances to them. They were interested and ready to help.

The upshot was that Rorke engaged Sally to come and pose regularly at the usual rates and she was very glad to accept. The thought of regular, paid employment banished the lurking fear from her heart and she liked both Rorke and his friend. Janet, who was posing at a nearby studio for a series of hosiery ads, bade her an affectionate farewell, requested Rorke not to work her to death and left.

Sally said timidly:

"I haven't very smart clothes, Mr. Rorke."

"'Sall right," he growled. "When you need 'em we'll see that you get 'em. Just now I don't want anything but heads and a school-girl complexion."

She took off her hat and cape and settled herself to watch him and Lowe pottering about the studio. Within half an hour she had taken her first pose. Rorke was easy with her, did not overtire her, told her at lunch time that if she could cook he'd be glad to have a cup of tea in peace, and she'd find something in the kitchenette. This was an arrangement after Sally's own heart; and she scurried into the boxlike little place and, finding it in a masculine confusion, made up her mind to give it a good going over and cleaning one of these days. She discovered some leftover chicken wings, some eggs and bacon and rice, coffee and tea and bread and butter, and in a very short time she had set a table and invited both men to the best luncheon they had had in many a day.

"She's a find," said Dixon Lowe over his empty plate. "Miss Sally, let's make a business deal. Hereafter, whenever you're here, we supply the food—and you do to it what's necessary!"

"Am I hired as cook—or as model?"

"As a model cook!" laughed Rorke.

"Very well."

And, during the next few weeks, the arrangement, entered into first in a half-jesting spirit, become routine—entirely satisfactory routine to both parties; saving Sally the price of her mid-day meal, since she had no time to return to the boarding house at noon; and saving the two men—as Lowe expressed it—the price of stomach specialists and digestive pills.

At times other people dropped in. There was a good deal of life about the studio, business-like as it was. Sally grew so she did not in the least mind her work, and she liked to watch the men hard at it although their comments on art for art's sake gave her a severe jar now and then. And she grew quite friendly with Rorke.

"Hate this sort of thing," he grumbled one day, putting the finishing touches on a resplendent Sally, swinging a borrowed golf club and clad in borrowed sports clothes. "Vile business! Look at it! Pretty-pretty, flat, no perspective, terrible stuff!"

Sally came down from the model stand and looked. She said, timidly:

"I think you do yourself an injustice, Mr. Rorke . . . it's . . . it has color and it's so clean cut."

He grunted.

"I wanted to be a real painter once," he told her, "God, how I wanted to be—just that. The real thing. I studied my head off . . . in Paris. But—I lacked the spark, my girl, and here I am. I make a good living and I oughtn't to kick. But I do. Who doesn't? Lowe there isn't satisfied . . . no one is . . ."

"Would you mind awfully," she asked him, "if I brought you some sketches I've done?"

"You too? What is it, fashion stuff?"

"No——"

"Bring 'em along then . . . ."

She brought them, and Rorke's eyes widened as he looked and called to Lowe to come and look too.

"The kid has talent," said the latter after a long time and Rorke nodded gravely.

"Sure has! What are you doing here, little Sally, mirking out of a halo of soap suds?"

She was sure of his friendship now and his interest. She told him and Lowe of her ambitions to find a teacher; that she was forced to earn what she could in order to save for lessons. And Rorke looked at his friend thoughtfully.

"You're better than I am," he said suddenly to Lowe, "but you're too damned busy, and unreliable to boot. She'll have to take me. Look here, Sally, we certainly owe you something for your talent in the commissary department. How about it? Shall we have a lesson now and then? Not that I can do much for you, damit, but I'll supply the materials and all that."

Sally was in the seventh heaven. She told Janet about it that night, and the latter was delighted.

"Rorke's not much of an artist," she said sagely, "and from all accounts he never will be. But he knows more than you do, Sally, so go to it."

And go to it she did. She had several lessons a week from Rorke and realized soon enough that what he could teach her was not enough for her ambitions. But it all helped and some day she would reach the goal. This was just the first step on the way.

She was not unhappy. She had faith and hope; she liked the studio and the men who shared it; she liked fussing about the kitchen which was now immaculate; she liked hearing Rorke talk of Paris days and great men and great art. She was progressing.

Last, but far from least, she was seeing a good deal of Wyatt. The arrangement had come about slowly until it was customary for Spellman and Wyatt to take the two girls out to dinner. The plan was simple and friendly and unembarrassed. On days when the two young men found their funds low they went to some cheap table d'hote, and the girls paid their own way. On rare occasions when Sam or George, or both, found themselves in funds they took the two girls to a more expensive place and split the check two ways instead of four. Very occasionally one or the other of them made a real ten-strike, and then the party was his and his alone.

Wyatt and Sally were becoming good friends again. They could not help it. The mutual attraction was too strong for them. It was as if they had recently met, as if they had no memories in common. They were friends on a new basis back again to George and Sally, all their talk of the present, none of it of the past. It was a curious thing. But it was inevitable. Neither would speak nor explain, and yet they were seeing each other; and friendship was the only possible thing between them; friendship which was love in a velvet mask.

One day Sally was late to the table d'hote rendezvous and explained that she had stopped at McDonnells for her mail. She had quite a batch of letters and read them while she was waiting for the first course.

Suddenly she exclaimed, laughed and frowned a little. Then she looked over at George so anxious to tell her news that she forgot the source of difference between them:

"Jimmy Pinkney's engaged!"

George flushed suddenly. But Sally was not looking. She went on eagerly:

"To the girl next door. The one his people always wanted him to marry. And from what Anabel says in this letter I don't think it will be long before she will be engaged herself and Marianne too."

Janet and Sam had heard all about Sally's friends by now so they were not uninstructed as they listened, but were more amused by her excitement than by the engagements, accomplished and probable, of people they did not know. But George was very interested indeed.

Pinkney, his rival, engaged! And Sally taking it so calmly.

Walking home he said, abruptly:

"But Pinkney was in love with you."

"So he was," Sally answered gaily. "At least he thought so. It's quite Southern, you know. I'm so glad about it all. Mary Lou will make him a wonderful wife and she's been crazy about him for years."

"Sally," said Wyatt on the surge of a resolve, "I've been such a fool—I flung off that way that night because I saw you in the garden with Pinkney and was afraid you liked him and—and, well—I was just plain or fancy jealous, that's all. As I told you in my letter."

"Your letter?"

"I wrote you as soon as I came home and asked you to forgive me. Didn't you get it?"

"Not a word; not a line."

"But, Sally!"

"No, not a word. Don't you think I would have answered?"

"I wondered why. I was awfully hurt. And then that money order. Oh, Sally! Sally, why did you do that?"

"But I hadn't heard a word from you," she repeated, "and then I found out—you hadn't sold the pictures—you'd given me the money out of your own pocket—and I was furious to think I'd been taken in. Perhaps I wouldn't have minded so much if I could have thought that you were still my friend. But how could I think that after what had happened? So I sent the money back."

"How did you find out?"

"I sent some pictures to that editor, McKenzie, and a note with them. I asked him when mine were coming out in the magazine. He answered he had never heard of me or my drawings and that he couldn't accept the ones I sent—that I had talent, but was not trained. Oh, what he must have thought of me. Do you wonder I was angry?"

"No, I'm sorry. It was a clumsy thing for me to do. But I knew how you wanted to take lessons. I knew that you had ambitions and talent. I knew, too, that if I offered to help outright you would never consent. So I tried that way of doing it. I was—oh, gosh! Well, if we'd parted friends I would have gone to McKenzie and sworn him to secrecy and got him to take an interest. But as it was—oh, what a miserable mess it's all been, and I haven't dared speak before, Sally, because I thought you hated me, and didn't know why, and it was so hard—waiting for the letter that didn't come."

"Well, it's all over now," she said, her heart singing. "Let's forgive and forget. And—it was dear of you to want to help me, and I do understand now and appreciate it."

"Then we're real friends now?" he asked eagerly.

"Of course."

She gave him her hand, right there in the street and Janet turned around and shouted: "Hey, you, look, look where you're going!"

When Sally reached home that night she was happier than she had been in many weary months. Yet not utterly happy. Subconsciously she had expected more, had hoped to hear him say:

"I love you!"

She had been ready to reply:

"I love you, too!"

But he had not spoken; and, hardly acknowledging the fact to herself, it clouded her happiness.

Still — everything was alright. They were friends again; she had her work; there were those two dears, Janet and Sam . . . oh yes—life was opening out before her—and, as for George—he'd speak some day! She knew that he loved her. It was in his eyes, his voice.

And then, once more, she would wonder why he did not tell her. Yet, although Sally never considered it, the reason was obvious—so obvious—and so trite and sordid. For George Wyatt was having a hard time. His novel had been refused everywhere, and his regular income from his inherited investments had shrunk almost to nothing. He was writing short stories and book reviews again, trying to make a living, and at the same time had begun a new novel which he was convinced was really good.

A mature piece of work—he had hit it this time, he thought. But he was working under terrible pressure and grudged every moment he had to take away from the novel in order to eat—in order to make the money that he might eat! And although he loved Sally desperately, although tonight he was convinced that she loved him and had suffered as he had under their misunderstanding, he was determined that he would not ask her to marry him until his book had made a success, until he himself was a success and worthy of her. He had made that resolve back in Charleston, when his love had seemed impertinent, hopeless almost; when he had been hedged about with rivals. And he would keep the resolve, now that she was here in New York as poor as himself, with no other man seeking for her favor, and—he was sure and glad of the surety—in love with him, as he with her.

No, he'd make his success first, and then he'd take her out of the beastly studios, and she'd never have to pose again for the stupid ads, and he'd marry her and carry her off somewhere and see that she had lessons from the best teachers, and they'd work together and play together and love each other—love each other!

Meantime, she was near him. He saw her almost every day, and was happy, waiting.

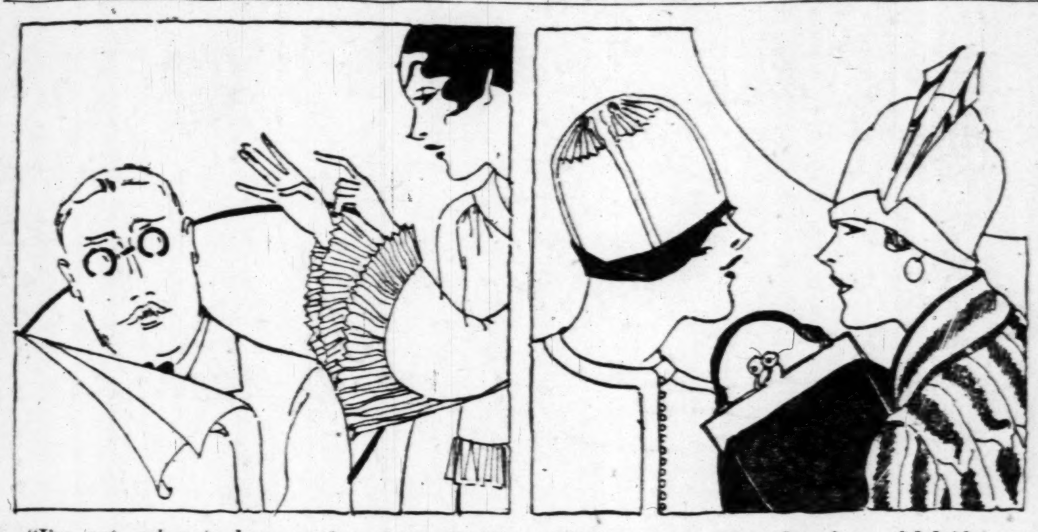

And Sally was happy, waiting—but not as happy as George.

MODISH MITZI

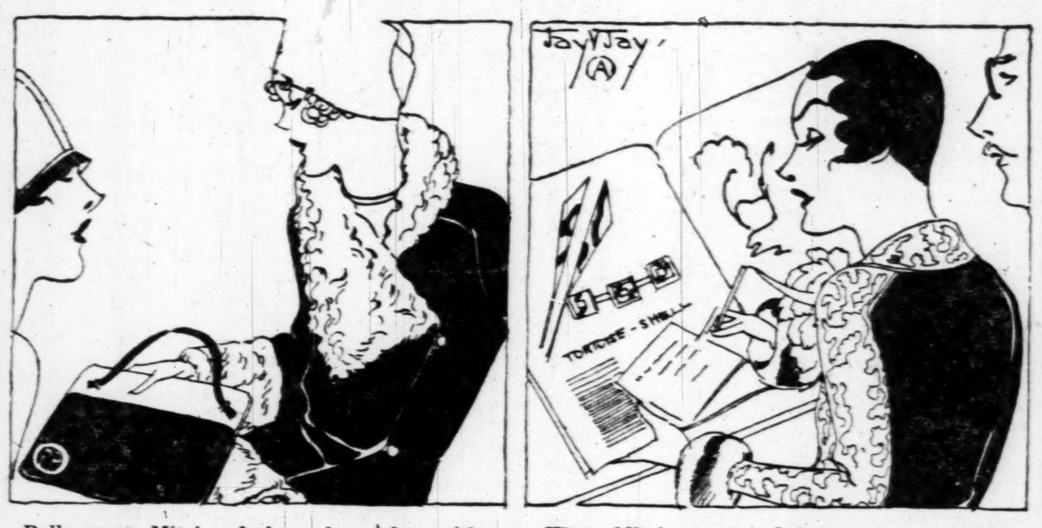

Mitzi Makes a Good Resolution

By Jay V. Jay

"I'm not going to buy another thing, Dad," says Mitzi, "this month." "That's about as good a New Year's resolution, Mitzi," replies Dad, "as I have ever heard." "What's more," says Mizi, carried away by enthusiasm, "I'm going to keep it." Dad muttered something that sounded like: "For five minutes."

Mitzi was not going shopping. Adelaide, you see had been. That's how she came to have a new felt hat with the twin shell pins. "New," she informs Mitzi, "and my suede bag has a tortoise shell frame to match." All this information five minutes after Mitzi has made her New Year's resolution, too.

Polly meets Mitzi and shows her a bag with a tortoise shell frame and her initials on the corner. Mitzi is beginning to feel completely out—she hasn't a thing in tortoise shell. Polly volunteers the information that it is being shown in the shops, for belts, you know and everything.

When Mitzi saw an ad for pins, a linked belt and some other tortoise shell things she immediately wrote the store to send her them. Dad peering over her shoulder inconveniently at this time, simply said: "Ah, I thought so." Wise, wise Dad. But for once he wishes he wasn't in the right.

Plumes.

Nothing is more effective in the matter of embroidery than the use of plumes. One striking dress worn during the Christmas festivities was of black velvet embroidered elaborately in diamante and bird of paradise feathers at the left hip and the right shoulder. With this costume was carried a graceful bird of paradise fan, while the shoes were adorned with rosettes of the feathers.

Gentlemen Prefer Brown.

One of the major features in men's styles is the dark brown lounge suit in many shades, which is gradually pushing the more flashy type off the Paris map. The suit is usually in fine and soft woolen fabric.

Mixtures in the weaving is varied and sometimes there is a vague plaid line in the material, which may be either in a lighter brown or in a much deeper tone that verges upon the black.

Trousers and coat do not always match in weave. One or the other may be plain.

Where Primitive Methods Still Prevail

"BE victorious" is the greeting of the Georgian, or native of Georgia, a state in Asiatic Russia. And "May the victory be yours," cries the greeted one. This mode of address must be a relic of by-gone warlike days, when the Georgians were a rich and prosperous race. But that became a thing of the lamented past, for generations their fair lands have been burned, and their homes plundered. But this state of affairs is happily now at an end.

Since the revolution each peasant has his own "norm" or parcel of vine-growing land, for Georgia is a great wine country, and indeed has been called the "Valley of Wine." Instead of the abuse which he has enjoyed for centuries, the Georgian is now praised most extravagantly. "His initiative" and "independence" are lauded to the skies; he has become a 'creator of a new world.' But his simple daily tasks are carried on much as before," says one writer.

Their vine-growing and wine-making is carried on much in the fashion of the peasants of Italy, France or Spain. That is, the grapes, when ripe, are poured into a great trough, and the peasants stamp the juice out with [the] bare feet. It is a great sig[ht] these people tramping th[rough] great bunches of the sweet gr[apes] and standing knee-deep in the p[ur]ple juice.

The great abundance of w[ine] may be a reason for the great nu[m]ber of feasts these people h[ave]. "His christening, his marriage, [his] advent into this world, his g[oing] out," all are occasion for a f[east]. The spring sewing, the a[utumn] reaping are celebrated by m[any] feasts. Indeed, on every po[ssible] occasion the Georgians will [pro]claim a holiday, and the day w[ill] be spent in eating and drink[ing] and merrymaking. And since th[e] revolution, they have made m[ore] indeed.

WANTONO. — The River des Peres is indicated on a map made in 1700 by some Jesuit missionaries. This map is now in the Vatican at Rome. The river's name means "of the fathers."

S. T. T.—You should inquire at the Public Library for information regarding their parcels post service. You will have to have a regular library card if you desire to borrow books regularly.

OLD SUBSCRIBER.—To go to Chain of Rocks take any street car to the Broadway car line going north. At Baden in North St. Louis change to the Municipal car. The trip takes an hour each way from Baden.

D. E. V.—Greenland does not allow foreign vessels to enter her ports without permission because in that country trade is a monopoly, controlled by the Royal Greenland Trade Commission since 1774. Foreigners must get special permission to reside in Greenland or to trade with the natives.

TAXPAYER. — The new Union Market is one of the first projects of the city's $87,000,000 bond issue to be carried out. It cost approximately $1,000,000. White enameled brick, marble and plate glass used for the stalls makes the market one of the finest in the world. Only the first floor is used by the market, the others being used for a public garage.

ST. L. VISITOR.—The new St. Louis Cathedral was designed by George D. Barnett, a St. Louis architect. The concrete dome, at the time it was planned, was declared to be impossible because of its enormous size, but it was satisfactorily completed and became the largest clear dome in the world at that time. The shell, the stone walls and the roof cost $2,000,000. The work of constructing the cathedral proceeded slowly because it was only done when funds were at hand to pay for it, as the Archbishop would not allow debts to accumulate on the building.

LEGAL INFORMATION

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association.)

C. F. S.—The bank you mention was not a member of the Federal Reserve System.

PUZZLED.—We can only advise you to employ a lawyer and put the whole matter in his hands. A settlement out of court would be desirable under the circumstances.

IGNORANT. — The interest on Liberty loan bonds is generally exempted from income tax, the limit of exemption varying on the different issues. The previous answer was incorrect.

WORRIED.—The money in the bank, which is in your wife's maiden name, will be divided between you and her other heirs unless she makes a will specifying that you are to receive all the money.

E. F. V.—Special delivery mail addressed to persons living more than one mile from the postoffice on rural routes is treated as regular mail and delivered on the first regular trip of the carrier. It is customary, however, to notify the person to whom the letter is addressed by telephone when he is known.

MRS. O. R. O.—You might apply to the Legal Aid Bureau, Municipal Courts Building, for aid in forcing your husband to support you and the baby. The St. Louis Children's Aid Society, 3858 Westminster place, might help you find a home for the child where you might also board. Your husband can be made to support his family if he is capable of earning a living.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

A. B. C.—Many local and general conditions may cause the ears to ring. Only an examination by an aurist could determine the real cause. Repeat your question and send a stamped, self-addressed envelope if you desire us to recommend such a specialist.

MARIE.—The following tonic to prevent falling hair should prove effective if used for a long enough time: Mix 2 ounces tincture of cantharides, 16 ounces cologne, 1 drachm oil of lavender and 1 drachm oil of rosemary. The tonic should be rubbed into the scalp thoroughly every night and morning. You should shampoo your hair once a week with hot water and pure castile soap.

B. A. K.—You may eat yeast in moderation under the circumstances you mention. The condition of the eyes is likely due to strain and overwork, and if such is the case the cause must be eliminated and the eyes given plenty of rest. A few drops into the eyes each night and morning from an eye dropper of a solution made of 2 grains of sulphate of zinc and 1 ounce of distilled water might give some relief.

Auction Bridge As Played By Experts

GAME TWELVE.

In the radio bridge game, broadcast last night by KSD, John R. Thompson Jr. and E. J. Tobin, both of Chicago, played against Milton C. Work and Wilbur C. Whitehead, the famous New York experts who take part in each radio game.

These were their hands:

Mr. Tobin, Dealer, "South": Spades, A, K, Q, 4; Hearts, none; Diamonds, 10, 9, 7, 6, 5; Clubs, 8, 7, 3, 2.

Mr. Whitehead "West": Spades, 8, 7, 6; Hearts, K, Q, J, 6, 4, 3; Diamonds, K, 2; Clubs, Q, 9.

Mr. Thompson, "North": Spades, J, 10, 5; Hearts, 10, 8, 2; Diamonds, A, J, 8; Clubs, A, K, 6, 4.

Mr. Work, "East": Spades, 9, 3, 2; Hearts, A, 9, 7, 5; Diamonds, Q, 4, 3; Clubs, J, 10, 5.

Mr. Tobin showed himself to be an exponent of up-to-date bidding by his opening bid of one spade on a four-card suit. Leading authorities recognize this as a sound original bid by first or second hand, without any side strength.

Mr. Whitehead said two hearts—a sound following or defensive bid.

Mr. Thompson, with normal help in his partner's suit, also the ace of diamonds and the ace, king of clubs, bid two spades.

Mr. Work passed. Although he had the A, 9, 7 and 5 of his partner's hearts, this was no more than his partner expected. This holding, without any side strength, is not worth a raise unless the hand is also void or short in some one suit which would enable the partner to gain tricks by ruffing.

Mr. Tobin passed. So did Mr. Whitehead, as his high card strength and his suit distribution did not warrant a rebid of hearts. This made Mr. Tobin the declarer, with his contract two spades.

Mr. Whitehead made the conventional lead of his king of hearts. Dummy was spread, and Mr. Tobin, before playing, paused to plan his campaign.

The outlook for game seemed none too favorable. He and Dummy held a total of only seven trumps. He could see at once that his only chance for game was to find the six adverse trumps divided 3-3, since he had to shorten his own trump holdings by trumping hearts. If he could then make six trump tricks (by making his own and Dummy's trumps separately), the ace of diamonds, and the ace, king of Clubs, he would have three odd, one short of game. If the king or queen of diamonds, or both of them, lay in Mr. Whitehead's (West's) hand, there was a possibility of game.

After thinking this out, Mr. Tobin played the 2 of hearts from Dummy. Mr. Work played the 9, as a come-on signal to his partner. Mr. Tobin trumped with the 4 of spades.

Since he could not afford to lead trumps, Mr. Tobin decided to feel out the diamond situation. As all of the diamonds from the 5 to the jack in his own hand and Dummy's were equal, he led the 5. Mr. Whitehead played the 2; Dummy the jack; Mr. Work the queen. Mr. Tobin played Dummy's jack for two reasons: first, to keep Dummy's 8 for an entry to his own hand; second, because he did not want to inform his adversaries of the diamond situation by apparently finessing with a card as low as the 8 spot.

Mr. Work gave careful consideration to his next lead. He felt inclined to lead a trump, owing to Declarer's reluctance to do so. However, he felt this might put his partner under a disadvantage. Neither did he want to lead up to Dummy's ace, king of clubs or ace of diamonds.

Therefore, Mr. Work led the ace of hearts, both as a return of the highest card of his partner's suit and also for the purpose of forcing Declarer to trump, which is usually good defensive play. Mr. Tobin trumped with the queen of spades; Mr. Whitehead played the 3 of hearts; Dummy the 8 of hearts.

Mr. Tobin lead the 6 of diamonds; Mr. Whitehead played the king; Dummy the ace; Mr. Work the 3.

Mr. Tobin led the 10 of hearts from Dummy; Mr. Work played the 5; Declarer trumped with the king of spades; and Mr. Whitehead played the 4 of hearts.

Mr. Tobin led the ace of spades; Mr. Whitehead played the 6; Dummy the 5; Mr. Work the 2.

Mr. Tobin led the 2 of clubs; Mr. Whitehead played the 9; Dummy the king; Mr. Work the jack, a false card.

The fall of the jack was a bit perturbing to Mr. Tobin, as it looked like a singleton club. If that were the case, Mr. Work probably held at least four spades. However, Mr. Tobin did not feel that he could allow this hypothesis to interfere with his plan, so he led the jack of spades from Dummy. Mr. Work played the 3; Declarer discarded the 3 of clubs; Mr. Whitehead played the 7 of spades.

Dummy led the 10 of spades; Mr. Work played the 9; Declarer discarded the 8 spot of clubs; Mr. Whitehead played the 8 spot of spades.

The fact that all the spades dropped was a great relief to Mr. Tobin. He led the 8 of diamonds from Dummy. Mr. Work played the 4; Declarer overtook Dummy's 8 with the 9; Mr. Whitehead discarded the 6 of hearts.

Mr. Tobin's 10 and 7 of diamonds were good for the next two tricks, and he led his 7 of clubs to Dummy's ace for the last trick, thus making a Small Slam. He scored 54 for tricks, 50 for five honors divided, 50 for Small Slam, and game.

Particularly notable was the success of Mr. Tobin's four-card suit bid. In discussing it after the play of the Radio hand, Mr. Whitehead said:

"For many years advanced players have bid four-card suits originally, but it is only recently that the four-card suit bid has come into general use. Of course I do not mean to imply that any four-card suit justifies a bid. The suit must be headed by at least two top honors, and must of course, have some side strength, this side strength being dependent upon the honors held in the suit. An ace-king-queen-jack, or an ace-king-queen and one small, or an ace-king-jack-ten four-card suit does not require any side strength for it to be bid by first or second hand. On the other hand, a suit of king-queen and two small, for instance, requires a side quick trick; that is, either an ace or a king-queen. The side strength necessary for each four-card suit holding has been determined and is available in several books that have been written on the game. The list is not long and is easily memorized, and I advise every bridge player to learn it, as the four-card suit bid today is a component part of sound auction."

The next Radio Bridge game will be broadcast at the same hour next week from Station KSD.

DISTANCE BROADCAST TEST WILL BE MADE TOMORROW

Schenectady, N. Y., to Send Concert to England, Whence It Will Be Retransmitted to Australia.

By the Associated Press.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Jan. 5.—The desire of British musicians to hear a program conducted by one of their number now in America has resulted in plans for the co-operation of two of the world's most powerful radio stations in an attempt to establish a new broadcast distance record and to transmit music by radio virtually around the globe. If conditions are favorable, stations in South Africa, Australia and possibly more remote points will tomorrow hear a program of music transmitted from Rochester through Station WGY, Schenectady, to station 2LO London, England, and rebroadcast there for the benefit of stations throughout the Eastern Hemisphere, including South Africa, 7000 miles, and Australia, 13,000 miles from London.

From 4:30 to 4:45 o'clock, Eastern standard time (3:30 to 3:45 St. Louis time), tomorrow afternoon, the American station will transmit to the London station on the low wave length of 26 and 32 meters, two numbers of a concert by the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra, and words of greeting to British musicians from Eugene Goossens, the conductor.

The Man on the Sandbox

By L. C. Davis

SCANDALS OF 1917-23

THERE'S scandal in the air,
We hear it everywhere;
It's talked about
Until we doubt
That anything is square.

To Chi the players go
To prove it isn't so;
We hope they do,
For, if it's true,
'Twill be an awful blow.

The fans, 'tis very plain,
Will crack beneath the strain;
They'll chuck the show
And never go,
'Till summer comes again.

But, come the breath of spring,
With birds and everything,
We'll all be there
With braided hair,
To make the welkin ring.

It all amounts to this:
Where ignorance is bliss,
'Tis folly to
Be wising you
To things that are amiss.

TOO TRUE.

Compared to the current baseball upheaval, George White's Scandals are the personification of straight-laced decorum.

"Aviator Lives 3 Days on Beer."

That may be a record for aviators, but nothing out of the ordinary for globe-trotters.

See where Florida has been having near-freezing weather. Tough luck, but we don't see what they can do about it.

Speaking of Florida, we were quite a bit intrigued by the straw-hat display in the show window of a downtown store.

However, if they begin to show their furs in August, why not straw hats in January?

"Domineering Parents Ruin Children's Careers."

Yes, full many a career as stick-up guy, yeggman or payroll robber has been ruined by a domineering parent.

Children should be allowed to follow their natural bent and become first-class crooks.

We distilled our first whisky in 1650.

We have averaged 10,000 cases a year since then.

No customer of ours ever voted for prohibition.—(Adv.) London Mercury.

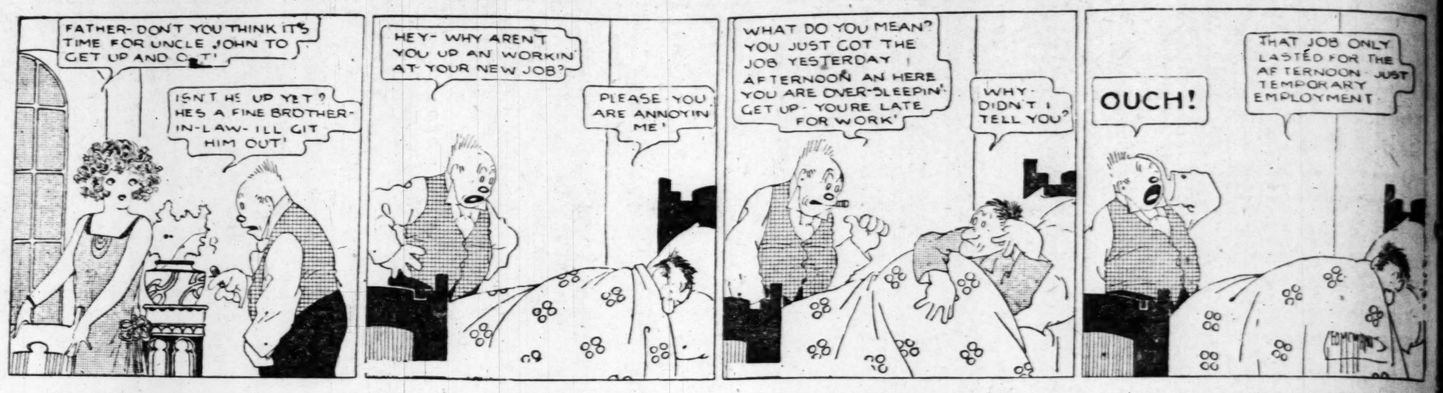

Satisfied customers vote as their thirst dictates.

By the way, what has become of the last year's city directory that we used to see on the cigar counter of every drug store?

The man on the sandbox says that after the New Year is launched it takes about a week to get on an even keel.

These double-header holidays sure do knock the schedule for a row of blue Mondays.

CALLS ON KELLOGG TO QUIT IF GUILTY OF 'SCARE' STORY

Wheeler Declares on Senate Floor He Is Informed Post-Dispatch Article Is "Correct in Toto."

CORRESPONDENT'S STATEMENT READ

Vouches for Version of "Bolshevist Hegemony" Interview Against Word of the Secretary.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—A demand for the resignation of Secretary of State Kellogg, if it should be proved that the Department of State attempted to disseminate false propaganda about a friendly nation, was voiced on the floor of the Senate this afternoon by Senator Wheeler (Dem.), Montana.

Wheeler read into the record the St. Louis Post-Dispatch news article, by Paul Y. Anderson, a staff correspondent, published Nov. 28, in which it was set out that Assistant Secretary of State R. E. Olds had "inspired" a story of an alleged Mexican effort to bolshevize Central America.

The Post-Dispatch article told in detail of the conference between Olds and the representatives of the three leading press associations, the Associated Press, the International News Service and the United Press.

The article related that Olds solicited publication of the "bolshevism" story, at the same time insisting that the source of the information should be kept secret, and that as a result of his effort the Associated Press carried on Nov. 17 an alarmist article on the threat of a "bolshevist hegemony intervening between the United States and the Panama Canal."

Article "Correct in Toto."

Wheeler, after reading the article to the Senate, said that he had been informed by newspaper men in whom he had the utmost confidence that the article was "correct in toto."

Next, Wheeler placed in the Record the recent letter of the Secretary of State, in reply to Representative La Guardia of New York, denying that the department had sought to inspire propaganda as charged.

He followed this with a statement in which Anderson, upholding the accuracy of the Post-Dispatch story, said that he had received his information "from a person whose word he would accept against that of Secretary Kellogg in any circumstances."

Wheeler also placed in the record an editorial from the Baltimore Sun of yesterday, entitled "A Meaningless Denial," in which it was said that the simple negative with which Kellogg replied to La Guardia was not a sufficient answer to the charges.

Other Editorials Offered.

Other matter inserted by Wheeler to show the gravity of the issue included an editorial from the New York World of yesterday and an editorial in which the Washington News yesterday demanded that the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which is now considering the Mexican and Nicaraguan problems, "open the bag" by calling before it both Assistant Secretary of State Olds and the three newspaper men whom he had sought, according to the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, to indoctrinate with his propaganda.

In introducing the Post-Dispatch article, Wheeler declared that if the statements in it were correct, it was "reprehensible, to say the least, for any member of the State Department to give out a story to which he refused to sign his name, and to ask the great press associations of this country to circulate false propaganda, or any propaganda, against a country with which we are on friendly terms."

Wheeler expressed the hope that the Foreign Relations Committee would "take notice of these charges which have been published by the leading newspapers of the country" and call before it the Secretary of State and the representatives of the three press associations.

Ought to Resign, If Guilty.

"If it is true," he concluded, "that Mr. Kellogg has been giving out, or the Department of State has been giving out, loose statements and asking that they be circulated through the length and breadth of the country, for the purpose of stirring up the people to a point where they would want to break relations with a friendly country, then the people are entitled to know it; and if it is true, then Mr. Kellogg
